'PACT FACTS DYNAMITE'—REED

In Washington for Crucial Parley.

BULLETIN.

Washington, D. C., July 9.—(AP)—Returning to the Capital tonight for a conference tomorrow with Republican leaders, Claudius H. Huston emphatically stated he did not intend to resign his chairmanship of the Republican national committee at tomorrow's meeting.

Huston hardly had reached the city before his telephone was busy as Republican leaders sought conferences with him—some to plead that he give assurance of an early withdrawal to avert the threatened blowoff tomorrow at the party powwow.

Huston's defiance of the Republican leaders at the capital, it is believed by many, will force a showdown between him and the President, who is his personal friend.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 9.—[Special.]—The skids were being greased tonight for Claudius H. Huston as chairman of the Republican national committee.

Definite developments pointing to his retirement are expected tomorrow, when officers of the national committee and heads of the senatorial and congressional committees meet at his call, presumably to plan for the coming campaign.

Wishes of Republican senators and representatives that Mr. Huston relieve the party of the embarrassment of his continued service as national chairman will be conveyed to him at the meeting if plans under discussion today are carried out. It is the belief of most party leaders that Mr. Huston will resign voluntarily. If he fails to do so there seems little question but that President Hoover, who was responsible for his selection as chairman and still regards him as a loyal friend, will feel forced to request him to retire.

Huston Defies Opponents.

Mr. Huston has told friends that he will resign only if publicly requested to do so by the President and that he will then publicly express his opinion of his detractors.

Those who are most active in seeking to bring about Mr. Huston's resignation are his defenders, but take the position that the airing of his connection with the Muscle Shoals lobby and other incidents tending to reflect upon him make it inadvisable for the party to bear the load longer.

Earl S. Kinsley, national committeeman from Vermont, who yesterday was reported from Rutland, Vt., to have made known a request from President Hoover to serve as acting chairman of the national committee, conferred today with the President. Following the conference Mr. Kinsley expressed the belief that Mr. Huston would resign, probably tomorrow.

Denies He Will Get Post.

Mr. Kinsley denied that he is to be made chairman, and said that the Rutland report must have been due to an erroneous interpretation of statements made by him to a personal friend who is editor of the newspaper which published it.

Mr. Kinsley is to attend tomorrow's meeting at the request both of President Hoover and Mr. Huston. While not an officer of the national committee, he acted as assistant to Dr. Hubert Work, the chairman, during the 1928 campaign.

Representative Will R. Wood [Rep., Ind.], who will attend tomorrow's meeting as chairman of the Republican congressional committee, expressed himself as strongly of the opinion that Mr. Huston should resign. Mr. Wood called on President Hoover.

Gives Congressional View.

"I feel that Mr. Huston has been unjustly treated, even maligned," said Mr. Wood, "but things have reached such a pass that it would be unwise for him to continue to insist that he will not give up the chairmanship.

"Senator Watson, the Republican leader of the senate, told me last night that 32 Republican senators, many of them friends of Mr. Huston, felt he should get out. I think virtually the entire Republican membership of the house has the same feeling about it. I am hopeful that Mr. Huston will reconsider his determination not to resign and that he will gracefully step out in the interest of party welfare."

Senator Watson may attend tomorrow's meeting, and if so, is expected to convey the feeling of senators that Huston should resign.

LAKE'S BREEZES COOL CHICAGO AS MIDWEST BAKES

Mercury Rises to 105 Downstate.

Others Swelter

Chicago	84	Milwaukee	86
Cicero	92	Clinton, Ia.	100
Oak Park	89	Sioux City, Ia.	102
Aurora	90	Des Moines, Ia.	102
Joliet	95	Davenport, Ia.	94
Rockford	95	Mitchell, S. D.	108
Springfield, Ill.	95	Sioux Falls, S. D.	108
Canton, Ill.	100	Lincoln, Neb.	100
Harrisburg, Ill.	105	Omaha, Neb.	104

Chicago turned on its Lake Michigan "electric fan" yesterday, and while the rest of the middle west sweltered under a baking sun and a steaming blanket of humidity, the city was cooled by refreshing breezes throughout the day.

The mercury here was in the neighborhood of 80 during the afternoon. Within a radius of 50 miles inland it reached 95. Even as close to the lake as Cicero the reading was 92. In downstate Illinois it was so hot that farmers were unable to work in their fields. Even in Milwaukee on the north the thermometer reached 86.

It was a telling demonstration of Chicago's supremacy as a summer resort. A heat wave had been forecast. C. A. Donnel, government meteorologist, at 10 in the morning, when the thermometer reached its maximum of 84, had announced that the temperature would probably rise to 95, which would have established a record for July 9.

Lake Wind Cools Chicago.

Old Man Sol was thwarted so far as Chicago was concerned when the wind suddenly shifted from a southwesterly direction to blow in off the lake from the northeast and north. It maintained that direction all day.

"People do not realize," Mr. Donnel said, "how wonderful Lake Michigan really is. We have had fairly moderate temperatures all week because of the lake, while in vicinities comparatively close marks of 90 and 100 have been common."

In the evening the temperature began falling, and at midnight it had reached 73. Fair weather, with little temperature change is predicted for today, but the weather man forecast that tomorrow would be warmer and possibly unsettled.

105 Degrees Downstate.

Canton, 150 miles southwest, reported all heat records broken for five years with a maximum of 100 degrees. Work in the fields in farms in that vicinity had to be abandoned, as men and horses could not endure the ordeal. At Springfield, the state capital, it was 95 at 3 p. m. At Harrisburg the temperature reached 105.

In the heart of the tall corn country, Clinton, Ia., 135 miles west of Chicago, the maximum was 100. Sioux City and Des Moines each had 102. Sioux Falls and Mitchell, S. D., headed the list with 108 each. Many prostrations and some deaths were reported from these cities.

Beaches Are Crowded.

Beaches in Chicago were crowded and the parks were filled with picnickers. Two drownings occurred. William Reese, 40 years old, 6442 Stony Island avenue, fishing off the 64th street pier, in Jackson park, fell in the water while trying to hook a perch, and was dead when rescued. Edward Lewenski, 19 years old, 1344 Walton street, also fishing, fell in at the foot of Illinois street. Coast guardsmen rescued him within three minutes and tried resuscitation measures without avail. He was subject to epilepsy.

An electrical storm early in the day struck the western section of the city. It centered mostly over Oak Park, where the home of Richard K. Thompson, an automobile salesman, 1015 Marion street, was hit by lightning. Streets were flooded in Melrose Park, Maywood and River Forest.

SCORES DIE OF HEAT IN ROME.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, July 9.—Showers today broke the hottest period Rome has experienced this century. The official mercury topped 98 in the shade at noon, while street thermometers soared well over 100. Scores of deaths were reported from sunstroke. Activities in Rome and Florence, the hottest Italian cities, were practically paralyzed.

Lingle Suspect Mysteriously Freed in West

Block Brundidge Quiz

The Chicago investigation of charges of racketeering made by Harry T. Brundidge, St. Louis reporter, against certain Chicago newspaper men appeared blocked last night when the St. Louis Star, Brundidge's employer, refused the state's attorney's demand that Brundidge be interrogated by prosecutors before going to the grand jury. Details on page 3.

Acting Police Commissioner Alcock warned captains that they must stop crime in their districts or face the trial board on charges of inefficiency. Details on page 3.

James B. [Red] Forsythe, notorious gangster, a suspect in the murder of Alfred Lingle, TRIBUNE reporter, and frequently named in published reports as the actual slayer, was arrested in Los Angeles more than two weeks ago by three policemen, who released him after returning his gun. This became known last night through dispatches from the coast city.

An investigation is being conducted by the district attorney's office in Los Angeles. Edward C. King, an attaché, in an interview last night said the explanations of the policemen as to why they turned Forsythe loose were unsatisfactory.

"There are mysterious circumstances we want to know about," he said.

Seized in Foster's Flat.

Forsythe, a pal of Frank Foster, who has been indicted for the murder on the basis of his former ownership of the gun with which Lingle was killed, was living at Foster's apartment when it was raided by the officers. They were acting on information from Chicago that members of the Moran gang wanted here were living in the apartment.

Forsythe, according to the raiders, told them his name was Larnihan and that he had never been east. Both he and his companion, Frankie Fischer of Foster's gang, were wearing guns strapped to shoulder holsters. They offered no resistance. The story told by the policemen is that they counseled together and decided they did not have sufficient evidence on which to convict their prisoners. So they let them go. Forsythe immediately disappeared.

Eludes Capture in Wisconsin.

Forsythe has been wanted here ever since the killing. Squads from State's Attorney Swanson's office on June 29 raided summer resorts in the vicinity of Burlington, Wis., on a report that he was hiding there. They were informed he had fled the country two days after Lingle's murder in company with Foster.

Forsythe has a long record as a gangster. He was formerly associated with the north side Moran outfit. He was also an associate of Simon J. Gorman, labor official and owner of a trucking company, and of Frank Noonan, a labor racketeer. Forsythe and Gorman have been arrested for carrying concealed weapons. The most discussed arrest, however, was when Forsythe was picked up in a raid on the loop headquarters of the Moran gang. He obtained his freedom when he was discovered to be on the payroll of Corporation Counsel Samuel A. Ettelson.

LINDY JR. POSES FOR CAMERAMEN; FIRST PHOTOS DISTRIBUTED

New York, July 9.—(AP)—A young fellow just 18 days old started out today after the record as the most photographed man now held by his famous father, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

The first pictures of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr. were distributed over the country, one of them showing a chunky, healthy little baby lying in a big wicker chair, eyes tight closed and fists in a dimpled clench.

Over thousands of breakfast tables tomorrow the people who think they can discern likenesses in a baby's features may argue whether the little one, with his whisp of dark hair, favors his father or his mother, the former Anne Morrow.

RACKETEER SHOT BY TWO CALLERS IN HIS HOME

Thomas Bonner, 46 years old, said by the police to be a minor racketeer with a record extending back to 1919, was shot and critically wounded early this morning by two men with whom he was conversing in the front room of his home at 7353 Yale avenue. His wife, Mary, was in a rear room with their four months old baby and a daughter, Katherine, 18 years old, was with a suitor in the kitchen when the shooting occurred.

Mrs. Bonner told the Englewood police that she heard her husband admit the callers and soon afterward heard their voices raised in dispute in the front room. Then Bonner cried, "You've got me all wrong on that." His words were followed by two shots and Mrs. Bonner ran into the room to find her husband on the floor with two bullets in his head and his assailants running out the door. The wife said she knew of no motive for the shooting.

Bonner was taken unconscious to the Auburn Park hospital. The police said his record showed that he had been arrested several times since 1919 on charges of confidence game and automobile theft.

Boys Firing Rifles Hamper Recovery of Edward Hines

Edward Hines, millionaire lumberman, who is ill of heart disease at his home, 1456 Ridge avenue, Evanston, is being seriously hampered in his recovery by small boys who fire rifles in the neighborhood during the evening hours, his fmily reported to the police yesterday. The police promised to put a stop to it.

Seize Yacht, $250,000 in Rum, 25 Men

New York, July 9.—[Special.]—What was officially characterized as an attempt by Chicago racketeers to extend their booze running to New York came to grief early today when the $100,000 schooner yacht Halcyon with a $250,000 cargo of Canadian liquor aboard was seized in the Hudson river at Briarcliff near the aristocratic village of Scarborough.

Papers found aboard the Halcyon indicated that she had cleared from Chicago, coming through the lakes and the Erie canal and thence down the Hudson from Albany. The liquor apparently had been smuggled across Lake Michigan into Chicago from Canada, destined for New York.

With the yacht and her cargo were seized five trucks, two sedans, and a motor boat, supposedly mobilized at the scene to distribute the costly cargo.

Arrested as Rum Runners.

Twenty-five men found on the boat and the dock were arrested as rum runners.

Several shots were fired in effecting the seizure, one of the Halcyon's crew being shot through the stomach and taken to a hospital at Ossining in a dying condition.

The Halcyon was lying about 1,500 feet off shore opposite a dock owned by the village of Briarcliff which adjoins the estate of Frank A. Vanderlip, New York banker. Dry agents had received a tip during the night that a heavily freighted rum runner was coming down the Hudson and were waiting within sight of the dock where it was said the liquor was to be landed.

Agents Watch Proceedings.

The agents watched as the trucks and sedans began to arrive. They saw the motor boat put off from the yacht and waited until the unloading activities seemed to be at their height.

Then the small group of officers, dry agents and two state troopers swooped down on the dock.

RESCUE GIRL AND PILOT AS PLANE FALLS IN LAKE

A 17 year old girl and a pilot were rescued by coast guards in Lake Michigan late yesterday afternoon after their amphibion plane had dropped into the water three miles off Roosevelt road.

The cries of the girl, known to her rescuers only as "Rose," and of the pilot, Arthur Johnson, 6451 North Campbell avenue, were heard by John G. Bruckman, keeper of the four mile crib, who notified Capt. John O. Anderson of the coast guard. Boatswain's Mate Carl Howell found the girl and Johnson clinging to the disabled plane and brought them ashore.

The girl hurried away, refusing to give her name. Johnson said he had taken her into his plane at Waukegan at the usual fare rate. He said that in trying to alight in the water he had struck the fuselage against a piece of driftwood. A wing and a float of the plane were crushed.

2 Women, Man Burn to Death in Auto Crash

Three Chicagoans driving to Kentucky were burned to death early this morning when their automobile struck a bridge on Indiana highway 41 a mile north of Schneider, Ind., and burst into flames. The victims were:

Harry G. Horn, 3940 Amelia avenue, Lyons, an agent for the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, the driver of the car.

Mrs. Charles H. MacLeer, also of the Lyons address, Horn's mother and the wife of a salesman for the Boyer Products company of Chicago.

The party left Chicago shortly before midnight for Irving, Ky., where they planned to visit Mrs. MacLeer's mother, Mrs. George Turpin. At 1 o'clock this morning the car smashed into the bridge over the Brown ditch a mile north of Schneider, which is 25 miles south of Hammond. The machine overturned and caught fire.

Employés of the New York Central railroad, whose tracks run about 100 yards from the scene of the accident, hurried to the wreckage, but were too late to save the lives of the occupants of the car.

ANOTHER DIES IN FIRE

Harry Muir, 34 years old, of Indiana Harbor, was burned to death and Joseph Gordon, 35 years old, an employé of the Cook county highway department, was seriously injured yesterday when their auto caught fire after striking a bridge abutment north of Kentland, Ind. Both men were pinned under the machine when it overturned. Gordon lives at 7832 Drexel boulevard.

Two women were fatally injured yesterday when their machine was forced off the Dunes highway near Tremont, Ind., by a passing motorist. The dead are Mrs. Albertine Martin, 76 years old, 229 South 20th street, Maywood, and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Amanda Martin, 48 years old, 4829 South 15th street, Maywood.

Death Toll Now 494.

E. C. Willetto, 60 years old, 1809 Lawrence avenue, died last night in the Palatine hospital, the victim of an automobile collision on Tuesday at Northwest highway and Dundee road in which Miss Alberta Nelson, 18 years old, of Stoughton, Wis., was burned to death. Miss Mary Kettleson, 19 years old, also of Stoughton, was critically injured in the crash. Their car collided with one driven by Dr. Edwin Bauman of Arlington Heights. Willette's death increased the Cook county motor toll to 494 since Jan. 1.

Congressman Florian Lampert of Wisconsin, who was injured in an auto crash near Chicago Heights Tuesday night, was said to be resting easily last night at the St. James hospital. He sustained six fractured ribs and a broken shoulder when his auto struck a coal truck. Representative Lampert lives in Oshkosh.

Buys Jupiter, Venus, Mars & Juno Railroad—for $2.80

Palm Beach, Fla., July 9.—[Special.]—C. P. Corrigan bought a railroad today. It is nicknamed the Celestial line, but really is the Jupiter, Venus, Mars and Juno, for it connects those Florida villages if not the planets. It's not much of a road—only eight miles, but a bargain at the price paid at the tax sale. That was $2.80.

SAYS PUBLICITY MIGHT OFFEND OTHER POWERS

Mentions Dawes in Treaty Wrangle.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 9.—[Special.]—Does the correspondence relating to the London naval limitation treaty, so far suppressed by President Hoover, contain picturesque animadversions by Ambassador Charles G. Dawes upon Prime Minister MacDonald and other British statesmen, the disclosures of which would necessitate recall of the ambassador and otherwise play havoc with Anglo-American relations?

An intimation that diplomatic dynamite of this character may be contained in the secret documents, the production of which some of the senators are demanding, was thrown out in debate in that body today by Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.], who as one of the negotiators of the London treaty has had access to Dawes' reports to President Hoover and the other papers pertaining to the navy agreement.

Some Sidelights on Diplomacy.

"When the American delegates to the London conference were named" said Senator Reed, "the British, Japanese, Italian and French ambassadors, if they were any good, undoubtedly reported back to their governments regarding the character of the delegates chosen to represent this country. The ambassadors undoubtedly made confidential estimates of the delegates and so informed their foreign offices. Ambassador Dawes, at London, may have reported back to Washington that Sir So-and-So was a pretty good man, or that he did not amount to much, or that he was an old dodo, or words to that effect.

"Suppose, as an example, that the estimates made by the Italian ambassador in Washington of American delegates and reported back to Rome were of a critical nature, and suppose they were made public. It would mean the recall of that ambassador. That's the kind of stuff that is in these documents."

Confidential? Highly So.

"When Ambassador Dawes reported back to the state department he used the most secret, intricate code obtainable. It was as if he was closeted personally with the President. Would we dream of calling Ambassador Dawes before us and asking him to reveal the intimate details of conversations which he may have had with the President at different times when he has been in Washington?

"Then why should we seek to make public the details of his confidential reports regarding the situation in London and his estimates of the men he dealt with? Why shouldn't the President have the right to communicate with his ambassadors abroad without having the whole world know what was said?"

Doesn't Convince Moses.

Senator George H. Moses [Rep., N. H.] and other treaty opponents characterized Reed's insinuations as a desperate move on the part of the administration defenders to make Ambassador Dawes the "goat" in the embroglio over the secret documents. Because of the ambassador's reputation for frank and picturesque speaking, the administration, said these critics, is trying to make it appear that the documents are being suppressed in order to protect Dawes.

The senate put in another day debating the McKellar resolution demanding the secret papers without reaching a vote, which is now expected tomorrow. When adjournment was taken at 5 o'clock there was pending a fresh proposal by Senator Walter F. George [Dem., Ga.], which, if adopted, would make it exceedingly difficult, in the opinion of its supporters, for the President to justify a refusal to submit the information requested. The George resolution, offered as a substitute for McKellar's, asks the executive to transmit the documents with his recommendations as to their use.

Offers Means of Secrecy.

In response to such a resolution the President might transmit the documents with the recommendation that they be regarded as confidential, withheld from publication or communication to any persons other than senators and considered only behind closed doors. Several administration leaders said tonight that in their opinion the President will submit the papers to the senate in confidence.

Senator Moses and Senator Reed became involved in an altercation over the propriety of the possession of the secret documents by the latter. Moses pointed out that Reed obtained them as a delegate, and that there is a penalty for taking diplomatic documents out of the archives.

"If you object to my documents," snapped Reed, "I will have the secretary of state send you his copies under strong guard."

"No, thanks," Moses rejoined. "I wouldn't put the Laird of Stanmore to that trouble. [Stanmore is the name of the country home near London that Secretary Stimson occupied during the London conference.]

Tribune Editorial Quoted.

The proceedings of the day opened with the reading at the instance of Senator Arthur R. Robinson [Rep., Ind.] of a CHICAGO TRIBUNE editorial of last Monday criticizing the treaty.

Senator Hugo L. Black [Dem., Ala.] followed with an extended analysis of the senate's constitutional function of "advice and consent" in treaty making. He argued that the senate in performance of that duty is entitled to all the information bearing on a treaty possessed by the executive.

Senator Joseph T. Robinson [Dem., Ark.], who also helped negotiate the treaty, made a veiled reference to the contents of the documents the significance of which was not caught until Reed spoke later.

"Some of these messages," said Robinson, "contain references to other governments which if disclosed might make trouble and make us ridiculous. Such resentment might be created in other countries that the treaty would not be ratified by them."

Tempted to Speak Out.

The Arkansan said he was tempted to divulge some of the secret correspondence, paused a moment in reflection and then added that on second thought he would not, in deference to "my personal security and our national security."

Robinson said that it has become customary for the executive to name senators as treaty negotiators since the unfortunate experience of President Wilson with the Versailles treaty because he did not appoint to the delegation to the Paris peace conference certain senators who "expected and hoped to be selected."

"May I say that I have always felt a deep sense of public gratitude to Mr. Wilson for pursuing that course?" interposed Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Ida.], one of the leading opponents of the Versailles treaty and the league of nations.

Senator George W. Norris [Rep., Neb.] argued that the President should submit the documents and that the senate should hold them confidential if so requested by Mr. Hoover.

GUARDS GARDEN WITH LIVE WIRE; COPS ARREST HIM

Children and dogs abound in the neighborhood of the home of John Kozak, 5320 North Linder avenue. Kozak has a garden in which he takes great pride. In order to save his posies from possible damage, Kozak wired the fence around his garden and connected the wire to the house circuit carrying 110 volts.

Yelps of the dogs and shrieks of the children brought police from the Irving Park station to the Kozak residence yesterday. Mrs. Maude Class, 5318 North Linder avenue, and Mrs. Hattie Onvale, 5324 North Linder avenue, complained that the wired fence was a danger to the neighborhood. Kozak was arrested on a charge of tapping city wires without a permit. The neighbors and their children and dogs will gather in court today to confront Kozak.

Woman and Man Injured by Falls from Buildings

Two persons were critically injured in falls from buildings last night. Mrs. May Davis, 34 years old, 1536 Hudson avenue, suffered a skull fracture when she fell through a skylight from the roof of the building at 454 West North avenue and plunged into a dwelling on the floor below. Her companion, Gustav Sandig, a resident of the building, told the police she missed her footing. Benjamin Hunt, 37 years old, a waiter, lost his balance while lighting a cigaret on the window sill of his second floor room at 600 North Dearborn street and fell to the sidewalk. His skull was fractured.

67 DIE IN MINE BLAST; HUNT 73 STILL ENTOMBED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRESLAU, Germany, July 9.—Sixty-seven dead were carried out, 48 men were seriously gassed and 73 are still entombed with scarcely a chance for rescue following an explosion at the Wenceslaus coal mine at Neurode in the Waldenburg district near Breslau today.

A sudden escape of carbon dioxide gas knocked unconscious the majority of the miners on the level where the blast occurred. Safety doors were closed to save the miners on other floors of the mine. Pit props collapsed as the gas began to explode.

Panic Seizes District.

Panic spread through the district surrounding the mine. Weeping women and children rushed the gates of the mine and tried to break through to seek relatives in the shaft.

Fire brigades and first aid squads were rushed to the scene from several of the surrounding towns.

Many of the bodies brought out by the rescuers were so disfigured as to be beyond identification, due to the quick action of the fatal gas.

Scene of Earlier Disaster.

This mine, where the disaster occurred, has figured in other gas explosions. Two years ago eight lives were lost, but the owners of the mine were able to convince the government that all possible safety measures had been taken.

Although declaring they were afraid of the mine, many of the employés returned to work because jobs were few and the factories were being closed down in the Waldenburg district, the poorest region in Germany.

NEW YORK POLICE RAID ELABORATE GAMBLING DEN

New York, July 9.—[Special.]—The most luxurious gambling resort New York has had since Richard Canfield dealt the cards around the tables to his gambling palace was uncovered by a raid on an apartment at 270 Park avenue—or so the police contended today when they appeared in court against the alleged proprietor and his valet.

George Herrick, who leased the 14 room suite in the apartment building, which is connected by an arcade to the Hotel Marguery, and William Sullivan, his valet, were held in $500 bail each for special sessions by Magistrate Jean Norris. They were charged with maintaining a gambling establishment.

The police also found some liquor and Herrick was haled before United States Commissioner Cotter as well. Commissioner Cotter held him in $500 bail for possessing liquor in violation of the prohibition law.

BOARD ACTS TO RAISE STATUS OF CRANE COLLEGE

Refusal of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools to accept Crane Junior college as an accredited school until radical changes are made by the board of education to raise the standards of the school resulted yesterday in the adoption of measures by the school board in an effort to reinstate the school before the fall term.

The library, which came in for most criticism from the association, will be enlarged. The teaching staff will be increased, and several changes made in the registrar's office.

U. S. Official to Speak for Navy Pact at Club

Assistant Secretary of State William R. Castle Jr. will speak for the London naval pact tomorrow at the Union League club. He was commissioned by Secretary of State Stimson to make the talk. Mr. Castle was formerly ambassador to Japan. The pact is now before the United States senate for ratification.

1,117 CASES HANDLED BY CRIMINAL COURT IN THREE MONTHS

Chief Justice D. J. Normoyle of the Criminal court yesterday issued his quarterly report showing that he and his associates have more than kept pace with the work of the grand jury. The report shows that the judges disposed of a total of 1,117 cases during April, May, and June, while the grand jury returned more than 900 new indictments and 64 old cases were reinstated. The judges made a net gain of 150 cases.

The report shows that the judges reduced the number of pending cases to 808 indictments and that 590 of these are assigned and awaiting trial in various courts. This is far below the usual number of at least 1,000 pending cases.

Judge Normoyle points out that 774 convictions were obtained during the three months, as compared to 118 acquittals. The other indictments were disposed of by dismissal in most cases because they were against men already convicted. During the period, 231 were sent to the penitentiary and 137 to Pontiac reformatory.

RAID 'VANITIES' SHOW, ARREST 9; CARROLL ABSENT

Packed House Greets Next Performance.

New York, July 9.—[Special.]—Two squads of police swooped down on the matinee performance of Earl Carroll's "Vanities" at the New Amsterdam theater this afternoon and arrested one man and eight women members of the cast on charges of giving an indecent performance. They looked in vain for Carroll and for Louis Lotti, treasurer of the theater.

Carroll, who obtained notoriety from the "bathfub party" on the stage of the Carroll theater on Feb. 23, 1926, which resulted in his being sent to the Atlanta prison on a perjury charge, was "out of town."

After the arrests, the prisoners were taken to a police station where they were booked. They were released on bail and tonight they were back on the job and the "Vanities" was given before a house that was packed to the doors.

One Scene Changed.

The management announced that one scene which the police had found too nude would be changed. This scene, called "Modes—A Window at Merls," represented wax fashion models coming to life, with Jimmie Savo, the lone man arrested undressing some of the "dummies."

The raid was the upshot of observations by Fifth Deputy Police Commissioner James P. Sinnott and Acting Capt. James J. Coy, who, in the capacity of police department censors, had attended performances on Monday and Tuesday nights.

The prisoners were Irene Ahlberg, Constance Trevor, Eileen Wenzel, Frances Joyce, Kay Carroll, Naomi Ray, Betty Veronica, Faith Bacon and Jimmie Savo. All, with the exception of Miss Bacon, were principals in the "Window at Merls" scene. Miss Bacon did a fan dance in the one scene which also shocked the censors.

Police Cohorts Swoop Down.

Three police sedans with twelve patrolmen under Deputy Commissioner Sinnott, Deputy Police Inspector James S. Bolan, and Acting Captain Coy drove up to the stage entrance for the raid.

Over this entrance Flo Ziegfeld, when he controlled the theater, had inscribed "Here enter the most beautiful women of the world." When Carroll got control he changed it to "Here NOW enter the most beautiful women of the world," which might be called a dirty dig.

The police machines parked quietly, but the word spread and a crowd of 1,500 collected. In the windows of surrounding office buildings 500 others had "gallery" seats.

Capt. Coy, Detective Edward Fitzgerald, and Sergt. James Powers went into the theater while the patrolmen took up posts at the various entrances. Members of the chorus heard the news and many of them went out on the fire escape to vent their feelings in boos or hisses.

When the show ended nine of the eleven warrants were served, the police instructing the prisoners to put on their street clothes.

Mandel Berger, 34 years old, the proprietor of the Royal Jewelers at 1317 Milwaukee avenue, was shot and killed late yesterday by a robber who escaped from the store in a cloud of tear gas that had been turned on by Berger when the holdup man entered the jewelry store.

Berger tried to follow the bandit into the street, but collapsed in the doorway from four bullet wounds. Neighbors who heard the shooting saw the gunman leap into his automobile parked at the curb and drive north in Milwaukee avenue. Several tried to pursue him, but the congested traffic cut off the chase.

Berger, who lived at 4338 Kimball avenue, was taken to St. Mary's hospital, where he died.

Find Car Was Stolen.

One of the witnesses tried to procure the license number of the bandit car, but his eyes were temporarily blinded by the gas that poured from the jewelry store. In the chase along Milwaukee avenue another witness obtained the license number. The license, police said, had been issued to Mrs. Edith Thomas of 1467 Fargo avenue, whose car was stolen yesterday morning from in front of the Studebaker garage at 6101 Broadway.

Bullets Shatter Windows.

Windows in the jewelry store were filled with diamonds and valuable rings. The glass of the windows was shattered by two of the robber's bullets. A police guard was thrown around the store.

It is said by the police that the tear gas equipment is a secret system and is installed in the wall of many jewelry stores and is set off by a button under the counter.

The Chicago Jewelers' Association last night offered a $1,000 reward for the capture of Berger's slayer.

Gunmen Shoot Grocer.

Pierre La Passe, 35 years old, of 7528 Prairie avenue, a grocer, was shot twice last night when he resisted two gunmen who tried to rob him in his store at 201 East 75th street. At the Jackson Park hospital his wounds were pronounced not serious.

TAXES MUST BE PAID TODAY TO ESCAPE PENALTY

Cook county taxpayers have until 5 p. m. today to pay their 1928 tax bills and escape penalties. All bills paid after today will be penalized 1 per cent for each month's delay. Tax officials said they expected the percentage of delinquent taxpayers will probably be less than in previous years. They estimated the number of bills paid to date is in excess of 65 per cent of the total. The aggregate of taxes for 1928, including back taxes and tax forfeitures, will reach $233,176,796. In 1927 the aggregate was $240,853,249, of which only $200,836,387 was actually collected.

BANDIT ROBS GROCER OF $30.

REPORT MOVEMENT TO ANNEX CICERO AND BERWYN TO CHICAGO

Citizens of Cicero and Berwyn are starting a movement for annexation to Chicago, according to reports yesterday. It was stated that a number of groups in both suburbs are preparing to start a campaign to this end.

According to Mayor Byron C. Thorpe of Berwyn, the proposal of annexation is receiving more support in Cicero than in Berwyn, but the Berwyn mayor believes that both suburbs, as well as all other communities in Cook county, should be brought into Chicago.

City officials of Cicero made no statement yesterday on the proposal, but from Emil Straka, controller of Berwyn, it was learned that annexation is being discussed favorably in Berwyn's neighboring suburb. The Cicero council has approved a contract with a company for a direct supply of water from Lake Michigan through a large water main leading from the lake to the west suburb. Those who do not favor the rates of the new contract, Straka said, argue that annexation to Chicago would assure a water supply.

LIQUOR RAIDER WHO KILLED MAN READY TO GIVE UP

Lexington, Ky., July 9.—A telephone message from Barbourville tonight stated that Nat B. Helton, deputy constable of Knox county, wanted on a charge of murder in connection with the fatal shooting of Omar Mackey, 24 year old farmer, during a raid yesterday at the Mackey home in Knox county, has notified Sheriff B. P. Walker he was ready to surrender and officers left town to apprehend him. A warrant for his arrest was sworn out last evening by Joseph Mackey, father of the dead man.

Further details of the shooting received here today indicate that Mackey was attempting to evade arrest by fight when he was felled by a bullet from Deputy Constable Helton's pistol. According to this report the deputy fired after warning Mackey. The shot struck Mackey in the left hip and ranged upward.

Other dispatches from Barbourville, state that warrants have also been issued charging Guy Tuggle, federal prohibition agent, and Alex Knuckles and Robert Selvey, deputies, with being accessories to the killing of Mackey. Tuggle came to Barbourville and surrendered to the sheriff, but the warrants have not yet been served on the others.

BRUNDIDGE QUIZ AT IMPASSE; MAY NOT GO TO JURY

St. Louis Star Refuses Prosecutor's Demand.

It appeared last night that Harry T. Brundidge, reporter for the St. Louis Star who made charges that a number of Chicago newspaper men were "itchy palmed racketeers," will not give the details of his charges to the Chicago authorities.

Assistant State's Attorney Rittenhouse, appointed by State's Attorney Swanson to arrange for Brundidge to be questioned, notified officials of the St. Louis Star that unless the reporter would submit to a preliminary interrogation he would not be taken before the grand jury. Rittenhouse said that if Brundidge declines to state his information first to the prosecutors he will consider the matter a "closed incident" and will give up the plan to question him.

St. Louis Star Replies.

In responce to this the St. Louis Star announced that it adhered to its original offer to send Brundidge to the grand jury, but could not accept Mr. Swanson's condition that Brundidge should first submit to questioning by members of the state's attorney's staff.

The Star had sent a staff correspondent, Theodore C. Link, to Chicago for the purpose of conferring with the state's attorney, and it was Link who conveyed the position expressed by Rittenhouse to the editors of his paper.

"This is not a small town and we cannot use small town methods of procedure," said Rittenhouse. "Brundidge must go through the usual procedure before appearing before the grand jury. This means he must first be questioned by a member of our staff, to see if he has knowledge of a violation of the criminal code of Cook county."

Brundidge Charges Recalled.

The charges which Brundidge was prepared to make, according to the articles he wrote, which were published in the Star and reprinted in THE TRIBUNE, were as follows:

In his first article Brundidge reviewed the murder of Julius Rosenheim, naming Rosenheim "The Squawker." He described Rosenheim as a "fixer," a "shakedown artist," and a double-crosser, who had managed to "hang to the fringes of more or less decent society."

"This writer," continued Brundidge in the article, "now can disclose for the first time in any newspaper the fact that until a few days prior to his death Rosenheim had an alliance with a reporter for the Chicago Daily News, who used him as a stool pigeon, and that the 'Squawker' was a familiar figure in the rooms of the news gathering organization of that great newspaper.

Discusses Rosenheim Income.

"The 'Squawker,' it can be authoritatively disclosed, had for months prior to his sudden taking off been using his association with the reporter for the News as a means of swelling his wallet. He had no visible source of support save for the small sums paid him by this reporter for 'tips.' Like Lingle (Alfred J. Lingle, slain TRIBUNE reporter), he lived like a king.

"The truth is that Rosenheim was a 'shakedown artist' par excellence. He was forcing gamblers, brothel keepers, booze and beer barons, and other racketeers to 'put it on the line' under threat of 'exposure in the News.'"

The article said that Rosenheim had used the name of the reporter in all his transactions, and that the reporter was now marked for death also.

Charges Discussed by Reese.

Leland H. Reese, in a signed article published by the Daily News on Monday, said that he was the News reporter who had obtained gang information from Rosenheim. Reese declared he had been threatened with violence and death, and revealed that while he was riding in the country with two bodyguards his car had been "deliberately sideswiped" and turned over in a ditch by men who had followed him for miles in another automobile.

Reese denied that there was anything scandalous in his connection with Rosenheim, and as for the charges that Rosenheim had collected bribes or otherwise improperly used the influence of the Daily News, Reese said he did not believe them, and that he was convinced a proper investigation would disclose them to be false.

Grand Jury Quiz Suggested.

In a second article, Brundidge suggested that a grand jury inquiry be made of his charges that various Chicago newspaper men were "racketeers."

Brundidge suggested that the grand jury start by investigating the activities of a reporter who is known as the "unofficial mayor of Chicago"; that the jurors should "find out why another reporter is paid 5 cents a bag for every sack of cement sold here, and establish the connections of reporters with what is now known as the 'street paving racket.'"

Brundidge also urged that the visits of newspaper men other than Lingle to the Florida retreat of Scarface Al Capone be investigated, and that the truth about the arrest of another newspaper man and Capone in Havana should be revealed.

"The incomes of a number of reporters who boast that they do not bother to file income tax reports because they are 'bigger than the law' also can be checked," Brundidge wrote, "and the activities of a reporter who is a regular patron of the night clubs and speakeasies, but who never pays his bills in any of them, also is an invitation to the grand jury to investigate."

SENATOR HERE WITH BRIDE

SENATOR AND MRS. REED SMOOT.

On Way East

Senator Reed Smoot and his bride of a week, the former Mrs. Alice Taylor Sheets of Salt Lake City, passed through Chicago yesterday on their way to Washington, where they will be guests of President and Mrs. Hoover while Senator Smoot attends the special session of the senate.

ST. LOUIS STAR STATEMENT

St. Louis, Mo., July 9.—[Special.]—Frank W. Taylor Jr., managing editor of the St. Louis Star, made this statement tonight:

"Several newspaper inquiries have been received by the St. Louis Star late today as to whether Harry T. Brundidge will ignore State's Attorney Swanson and his staff and seek to get into the Cook county grand jury room in regular course otherwise provided by law to be heard by members of that body on his published statement, that he has obtained evidence of racketeering among certain classes of Chicago newspaper men.

"The St. Louis Star offered its reporter to the grand jury and has stood on that offer. State's Attorney Swanson will not accept him as a witness without first learning what his testimony will be.

The Star Offers Brundidge.

"The inference to be drawn from an editorial captioned 'Call This Fellow,' in the Chicago Evening Post, was that nothing would give Chicago officialdom and the Chicago press greater pleasure than to make the Star's reporter run the gauntlet and prove his case. The St. Louis Star promptly announced that it would send Brundidge before the Cook county grand jury.

"Then Mr. Swanson wrote to the Star saying he wished personally to interview Brundidge, but nothing was said about sending Brundidge before the grand jurors. Swanson was to exercise the prerogative of the inquisitorial body and pass on Brundidge's right to be heard by that body, on the plea that his office handled so much work that Brundidge should not be allowed to take up the time of the grand jury unless Swanson personally decided that such a course should be pursued.

"In the meantime other angles of this matter were developing. Long distance telephone calls to the St. Louis office and residence of Brundidge were made by unidentified men who gave warning to Brundidge to 'lay off.'

"One of the leading personages in the present Chicago newspaper discussion sent to the city editor of the Star a scurrilous telegram concerning Brundidge and his investigation. The publisher who employs the individual who sent this message was questioned about it. He showed no interest.

"He had told both Brundidge and Theodore Link of the Star's staff that he has on various occasions questioned this same man about his integrity, but after each investigation gave the man a clean bill of health. Evidently charges of racketeering among Chicago newspaper men are not new to this publisher. Why doesn't Swanson call him to tell what he knows about reports of newspaper racketeering which he so freely discusses with the Star's men?

Egan's Rats Expose Recalled.

"The statement of Swanson's assistant, Rittenhouse, that Chicago is not a small town and 'we cannot use small town methods of procedure' is interesting. St. Louis is the town where the notorious gang of 'Egan's rats,' running right up in the criminal money with the Capone and Moran gangs of Chicago, killed citizens and members of their own outfit and bribed and robbed their way to millions of dollars worth of loot in this community, exactly as Chicago racketeers are doing today.

"The St. Louis Star is the newspaper that sent Harry T. Brundidge into the underworld to get a toehold on the facts concerning the murders, robberies, and briberies of this desperate outfit, of which Fred Burke, the killer, was a member.

"Gang Now in Prison."

"Brundidge induced Ray Renard, right hand man of the gang, and one of its most desperate gunmen, to tell all he knew, and the Egan gang today is in federal prisons and the weak-kneed public officials who were holding office in the days when grand juries here were not permitted to hear witnesses whose testimony wasn't known about in advance, are all in private life.

"The St. Louis Star will not at this time send Brundidge to the Cook county grand jury and beg to be heard. Nor, in the face of the hostile barrage from the Chicago press and prosecutor's office, will it send him to Swanson's headquarters to run the gauntlet."

COP ARRAIGNED ON CHARGE OF DRUNKENNESS

Policeman Charles Lavin of the Summerdale station was arraigned before Municipal Judge Padden in the Town Hall court yesterday, the first member of the force to be prosecuted in court on the order of Acting Police Commissioner Alcock that drunken policemen should be tried in court as well as before the police trial board. The case was continued until Aug. 14, by which time the trial board is expected to act.

"An intoxicated policeman is the most dangerous man on the street," said Judge Padden. "With his uniform, badge and revolver, he is more of a peril to citizens than any robber or bandit."

BREAK UP CRIME OR STAND TRIAL; POLICE WARNED

Alcock Tells Captains He Wants Results.

$55,825 IN REWARDS.

Rewards totaling $55,825 are offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the slayer of Alfred Lingle, Tribune reporter. Of the $25,000 reward offered by The Tribune $10,000 will be paid to any person who will give confidential information identifying the slayer of Lingle. All information should be sent to the headquarters established by State's Attorney Swanson in Room 503 Temple building, 77 West Washington street. Telephone State 3729.

Acting Police Commissioner Alcock served notice yesterday on district captains that he is demanding results from them and by results he means the suppression of crime as well as the arrest of criminals.

Within the memory of veterans at the city hall no police captain has ever been taken before the trial board because of the prevalence of crime in his district, but that is what Alcock said he proposed to do.

"I have been looking over the crime reports of the various districts since I have had charge of the department," he said. "Twenty or thirty robberies or burglaries in a district with none of them cleaned up doesn't look good and some of those captains will be explaining to the trial board."

Tells What He Means.

"Do you mean that a captain will be held accountable for an unusual amount of crime in his district?" the acting commissioner was asked.

"Exactly," he replied. "Inefficiency will not be tolerated and a captain must be inefficient if he does not keep crime at a minimum.

"Being a policeman means that the man is hired to protect the public against criminals and all policemen are going to go to work or get off the force. Certainly the captains will go to the trial board if they don't give the public the maximum of protection."

Alcock issued an order calling attention to a complaint of Chief Justice Harry Olson of the municipal court that many capiases issued because of automobile violations are not served by the police. The department is to be held responsible for obtaining correct names and addresses of vehicle law violators, Alcock's order said. Another notice to the department was that the law prohibiting peddlers from crying their wares except between 11 o'clock in the morning and 6 o'clock in the evening must be enforced.

Seize 58 in Gaming Raid.

Sergt. Martin Mullen of the commissioner's office and his squad raided a gambling house at 1323 South Spaulding avenue, said to be owned by Davey Miller, fight referee. Some of the policemen played cards in the place for a few hours while they obtained evidence. They arrested 58 men after three escaped through windows.

Bernard O'Donnell, one of the O'Donnell brothers of the west side beer gang, was found not guilty of carrying a concealed weapon yesterday. A jury in the court of Judge E. I. Frankhouser returned that verdict after a trial of three days.

Louis Clementi, supposed to be connected with a west side gambling syndicate, who surrendered for questioning in the Lingle murder investigation, was released yesterday. His associate, Patsi Tardi, who was arrested for questioning in the Lingle case, was still in custody.

Calls "Torture Room" a Hoax.

Coroner Bundesen was called on to investigate a report published in an afternoon newspaper of the discovery of a "torture chamber" declared to have been used by the Capone gang. Its location was given as the basement of the building that formerly housed the Montmartre café, 4835 22d street, Cicero. Two charred posts embedded in the cement floor but not reaching to the ceiling were described as the stakes to which the Capone gang tied its victims while applying fire to force them to reveal some desired information.

The investigation showed that the posts were part of a boxing ring formerly used in that basement by Knockout Brown, who had the place as a training quarters. Three years ago there was a fire in the basement and the posts were partly burned. Coroner Bundesen decided that the "torture chamber" story was a hoax.

SWANSON TO BE NEXT WITNESS IN CHURCH CRIME INVESTIGATION

State's Attorney Swanson will be the next witness before the Yarrow crime investigation committee of the Chicago Church federation. This was reported yesterday at the headquarters of the federation in the Chicago temple. Swanson will appear before the church leaders next Tuesday at the La Salle hotel. Ald. Arthur Albert was the first witness. He suggested that the committee call Swanson and ask that he act in the crime crisis.

The church federation inquiry was condemned yesterday in a chautauqua address at Ottawa by the Rev. Dr. John H. Williamson, pastor of the Franklin Park Methodist Episcopal church. Dr. Williamson was a member of Mayor Thompson's law enforcement commission in 1922 and is a member of the crime investigation committee of the Chicago Methodist Episcopal Ministers' association.

"The probe is out of place," said Dr. Williamson, according to dispatches from Ottawa last night. "The clergymen of the Chicago Church federation are wasting their time and heaping ridicule on themselves. Those interested in the present probe are utterly lacking in political influence. The only results will be the shedding of publicity on the church organizations joined in the imposing sounding 'hearings' of witnesses, and a gratifying magnification of their self-importance in the eyes of the church leaders."

Finnish Diet Votes to Bar Communist Members

HELSINGFORS, July 9.—The Finnish diet today indorsed the government's measure to exclude from the diet all communist members by 150 bourgeois votes against 58 Socialist votes. The diet thus fulfilled the promises made to the Peasants' Anti-Communist league.

FORD BUYS MILAN FACTORY; WILL BUILD NEW CAR

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

MILAN, July 9.—The Ford Motor company today purchased the Isotta Fraschini automobile factory here with a view to beginning construction of a new cheap car under the joint name of Ford-Isotta Fraschini.

Construction of the Isotta Fraschini car, which ranks as one of the finest in the world, and Isotta Fraschini-aviation engines will be continued in the present Isotta Fraschini plant, while another factory will be built for production of the new cheap car, which is expected to beat all Italian records for cheapness. It is proposed to have the new factory ready in six or seven months.

The initial share of capital of the new enterprise will be 100 million lire, or slightly over $5,000,000. The share capital will be divided into three parts of which two parts, amounting to 51 per cent, will be held jointly by Isotta Fraschini and the Italian Commercial bank, and the remainder by Ford.

The new car will be built entirely in Italy by Italian workmen with Italian materials.

51 MILLION BONDS TO BE ISSUED AS 1930 RELIEF MOVE

All Special Session Acts Effective Today.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The local governments—the city, county, school board, south park, Lincoln park and west park commissions—will probably issue a total of $51,200,000 in bonds this year without a referendum. This aggregate is 60 per cent more than all of the bonds issued by all the governments in any one previous year after approval by the voters. Sufficient time to make valid the laws passed at the special session authorizing the issues will have elapsed today.

A start on the issuance will likely begin soon, but the bulk of the sale will be deferred for political reasons until after the November election unless certain office holders change their present views. The issuance of bonds necessarily increases taxes, and that is considered unpopular.

Part of Finance Relief Plan.

The purpose of the bonds is to straighten out, in part, the tangled financial affairs of the local governments. These bonds are part of the plan worked out by the citizens' committee, headed by Silas H. Strawn, to get the local agencies back on a basis where they can pay their current bills and meet their pay rolls.

This plan, with some modification, was passed by the special session of the legislature in 40 bills. Some of the bills bear Gov. Emmerson's signature, but he declined to sign eleven of them. Because it was so aggressively urged that the eleven bills were vital in restoring the credit of the local governments he permitted them to become laws by lapse of time. That period, plus time for certain other requisites, expired last night, and, according to the lawyers for the citizens' committee, the eleven acts are laws today.

Do Not Clean Up Deficits.

Broadly speaking, the $51,200,000 in bonds is to pay deficits in current operations and to provide working cash funds for the city, county and school board. That large sum does not wipe the slate clean. Part of the deficit is to be eliminated by added increases in taxes. The bonds are to bear 4 and 5 per cent interest rates. The maximum periods vary, but public officials can make the period shorter.

The amounts to be issued by each government, the purpose of the issue and the maximum period for which each can be issued are shown in the following tabulation:

Govt.	Amount.	Purpose.	Max. term.
Schools	$12,500,000	Cash fund	20 years
Schools	38,700,000	Deficit	15 years
City	12,000,000	Cash fund	20 years
City	7,000,000	Deficit	15 years
County	6,500,000	Cash fund	20 years
County	2,500,000	Deficit	15 years
S. Park	2,550,000	Deficit	10 years
W. Park	2,000,00	Deficit	10 years
Lincoln Pk	750,000	Deficit	5 years

In addition the board of education is permitted to issue $12,500,000 in bonds next year, which will make the total in bonds $63,700,000. All are to be issued without referendum and this was a provision for which Gov. Emmerson would not accept responsibility.

"Included in this group were eleven bills which authorize the raising of funds for immediate use by the issuance of bonds without a referendum to the taxpayers," said the governor in his statement on the subject filed with the secretary of state. "It is my firm conviction that the tax paying public should have the right of referendum on all public bond issue proposals."

On the other hand, veto of these bills, he said, "would deny relief and entail consequences so appalling that I am unwilling to be responsible for them." So he permitted the acts to become laws without signing.

Report on City's Finances.

When the Strawn citizens' committee undertook the task of restoring Chicago's credit last December it found the city corporate fund with an approximate deficit of $15,000,000. Commenting upon this, the committee says: "Of this $2,000,000 was carried over from the fiscal year of 1927, about $4,750,000 was for the fiscal year of 1928, while some $8,250,000 was for the year of 1929. In addition there were outstanding judgments against the corporate fund of about $6,000,000, of which approximately one-half is due the sanitary district for street lighting."

To get rid of that $21,000,000 of accumulated bills, the new laws provide that the city may issue $7,000,000 in bonds to take up the deficits of 1927 and 1928. The $8,000,000 deficit of 1929 is to be wiped out by an increase in tax rates which will be applied to the tax assessments now being prepared by the board of assessors. The $6,000,000 in judgments is to be paid by a special tax to be effective for eight years.

The other $12,000,000 in bonds which the city is permitted to issue is to be placed in a special fund as a working cash account. It is not to pay the city's floating debts. It is apparent that of the city's current debts totaling $21,000,000, only $7,000,000 of that amount is to be paid off by the issuance of bonds.

Will Wipe Out School Deficit.

Different treatment is applied to the fiscal affairs of other tax expending bodies. The board of education deficit to Jan. 1 last was reckoned by the citizens' committee at $5,700,000 and the laws permit the issuance of bonds for that amount without a referendum.

The citizens' committee however forecasts that the school board will have financial troubles this year and next in getting cash to meet pay rolls and bills because of the delay in collecting taxes It is estimated the board will be a little worse off next year than it will be this year and for the two years it needs an estimated $25,000,000. The laws provide that not more than half of this bond authorization shall be utilized this year.

Provide County Cash Fund.

The county deficit has been repeatedly represented as much larger than $2,500,000, but the new laws prohibit the issue of more than that amount to apply on current debts. County officials have asserted that the county's deficit was due solely to delay in tax collections, but apparently the citizens' committee had a different view. The county was also given authority to issue bonds for the starting of a cash working fund, similar to that authized for the city and the school board.

For the three major park boards the bond issues, while ascribed to deficits, they can and probably will be utilized to establish cash working capital. The parks were on a cash basis before the tax reassessment, while the city, county and school board were operating on a credit basis.

CHILDREN OF SUBURBS CLEAR AWAY WEEDS

War on Hay Fever

Hay fever in Berwyn received a setback yesterday when all school children of the city, under the leadership of city officials, joined in a fight to exterminate ragweeds in and around the town. The children met at 11 a. m. and proceeded to the prairie land surrounding the town, and then worked in toward the center, cutting all ragweeds in the alleys and vacant lots. It is planned to have the city and environs clean of the hay fever pest by the first of August.

SCHOOLS DEVISE NEW SCHEME TO GET PAY MONEY

In an effort to meet the pay roll of 13,000 teachers, now more than two weeks overdue, members of the board of education yesterday devised another plan to raise $6,100,000. But no promises were given for immediate payment of the $4,400,000 pay roll.

President Caldwell and Trustee Lewis E. Myers held another conference with city officials and bankers. The board now holds $13,000,000 in 1930 tax warrants which it has been trying to sell. It was learned yesterday that bankers will not purchase these warrants until a like sum of 1928 warrants have been retired. As a result the board will attempt to make a short time loan, with 1930 warrants as security, then pay the loan with 1930 warrants when 1928 warrants are retired.

FAHERTY TO ASK AGAIN FOR CASH TO BEGIN SUBWAY

Wants Half Million to Prepare Plans.

Michael J. Faherty, president of the board of local improvements, took a hand in the problem of subway construction yesterday with an announcement that he will make a demand on the city council for an appropriation to prepare plans and specifications. Efforts of Faherty in the past to obtain a portion of the transit fund of $60,000,000 for this purpose have met with failure.

The amount of the appropriation, according to Faherty, will be left to the discretion of the aldermen, but he admitted that he will need $500,000 to make a start. He will send the aldermen a setup showing that 240 men must be employed three or four months to whip everything into shape for special assessment proceedings, he said, leaving it to the council to make the necessary financial computation.

Seeks Assessment Data.

In preparing the way for his request and for a public hearing on the subway, Faherty called a number of engineers into his office yesterday to obtain information on which the assessment against property owners can be based. Among them were Maj. R. F. Kelker Jr., engineer of the council local transportation committee, and Hugh Young and Eugene Taylor of the Chicago plan commission.

The council has reversed its attitude toward appropriations for Faherty out of the transit fund since July, 1928, when it voted him $647,928 for subway plans, according to records in the city hall. That appropriation was never used, as Charles C. Fitzmorris, then city controller, brought forth a provision in the annual budget of that year showing that a referendum was required before subway expenditures could be made from the fund.

One Request Still Pending.

Since then Faherty has repeated his demands on the council for approximately the same amount. Last summer his request failed to get farther than the finance committee, and a similar request in March of this year is still pending. A few months ago he announced his intention of starting to dig without plans, but no dirt flew.

Ordinances ordering extensions of transportation facilities are to be drafted by Ald. Joseph B. McDonough [13th], chairman of the local transportation committee, as soon as he receives a reply from the companies as to what they can do. A meeting of his committee will follow immediately and a special meeting of the council will be called, he said, if necessary to get the building program started.

Acquire "L" Right of Way.

The Chicago Rapid Transit company has been acquiring the right of way for some months to provide a third track along the Garfield park elevated branch from Marshfield avenue to the western city limits. According to reports yesterday these negotiations are nearly complete.

City Treasurer Peterson stated that the opinion of Attorney Thomas Marshall declaring the transfer of the transit fund to a trustee bank, as provided in the transit ordinance, illegal will not delay subway construction. He said that he will honor vouchers against the fund while it is in his possession so that the construction can proceed.

SIGNATURES ON FILE FOR MASSACHUSETTS DRY LAW REFERENDUM

Boston, Mass., July 9.—(AP)—The Constitutional Liberty league today filed at the state house a referendum petition containing 8,882 supplementary signatures, thus insuring placement on the ballot at the fall election of the question whether the state prohibition enforcement act shall be repealed.

Of the total number of signatures, 6,038 were those of women. League officials said the authenticity of each woman's signature had been passed upon by a hand writing expert in anticipation of possible claim of fraud.

Only 5,000 signatures were necessary.

Police Fire Two Volleys Into Demonstrators.

BULLETIN.

PESHAWAR, India, July 9.—(AP)—Hostile Afghan tribesmen, numbering 1,500, have descended upon Sararogha scout posts on the northwest frontier, using a field gun in the attack. Aided by friendly tribesmen, machine gunners early today succeeded in silencing the gun. An attempt was then made to clear up the position.

BY CHARLES DAILEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BOMBAY, July 9.—While Viceroy Lord Irwin was extending the olive branch of peace to India in a speech before both houses of the legislature at Simla, riots flared in several sections of the peninsula. In a clash at Gudiyatam, 100 miles from Madras, police twice fired volleys into a mob of nationalists, killing one and wounding many.

From throughout the land, reports of minor disorders reached here tonight. In Calcutta, a bomb was hurled into the home of a police inspector. It exploded in one of the servant's rooms. Nobody was hurt.

Women Shout at Viceroy.

In Simla, a group of women civil disobedience volunteers stationed themselves in front of the legislative chamber. Clad in homespun, they defied police orders to disperse. When Lord Irwin arrived to deliver his pronouncement on the Simon report, they shouted, "No peace!" and "Long live the revolution!"

A bomb explosion was also reported from Peshawar. There were no casualties.

Lord Irwin's speech was published here after the day's business was suspended. The olive branch extended to the Nationalists, coupled with the statement that the London round table conference on India in October would not be limited by the Simon report but "with liberty unimpaired" and that any agreement reached will form the basis of the British government's proposals apparently meets with general approval, excepting some of the Nationalist chiefs.

Rebukes Nationalist Excesses.

The viceroy, though his remarks were temperate, rebuked the excesses of followers of Mahatma Gandhi, the imprisoned revolt leader. In speaking of the Nationalist spirit he cited racial and religious differences, adding:

"It was hardly expected that India, rightfully sensitive of her self-respect, should of her own free will desire to remain indefinitely a partner in the political society of the British empire on terms which implied inferiority."

After citing London's statement that dominion status was a natural conclusion to India's constitutional growth, the viceroy snapped: "That declaration stands!"

Dealing with the need of consulting ruling princes and others, who differ in view with Gandhi, Lord Irwin continued:

"A calm examination of these questions has been prejudiced by the civil disobedience movement. Mr. Gandhi has ignored my warning of the serious consequences which this involved. Because of these circumstances the movement must be regarded as unconstitutional and dangerously subversive."

He added that the All-India national congress "war council" had attempted to incite the army and police, leaving no course but to declare the body unlawful.

"Rather as Friend than Viceroy."

"Rather as a friend than as viceroy," Lord Irwin concluded, "I believe that if both sides could recapture the spirit of mutual trust, they would free invincible forces of faith to remove the mountains, which lately have hemmed them in. Two roads are open, one leading, I think, to turmoil, disunity and shattered hope; the other guiding those who follow it to a proud partnership in a free commonwealth of nations. India today has to make her choice. May she be moved to choose aright."

Speech Attacked in London.

LONDON, July 9.—(AP)—London evening papers commented on the "remarkable nature" of Viceroy Lord Irwin's speech at Simla today. The Evening Standard, referring to "Lord Irwin's strange words" asked if the Simon report was to be shelved.

The Star said the viceroy did not make at all clear the British government's attitude to the Simon report, nor reveal what place it would have in the round table discussion negotiations.

The Evening News said the viceroy's announcement regarding the place of the Simon report in the conference would cause immediate discussion among conservatives and liberals, who already have expressed disappointment at the Labor government's apparent lack of enthusiasm for the document.

ARMED FORCES RULE RIOT SWEPT TOWN ON RHINE

[Chicago Tribune News Service.]

BERLIN, July 9.—State police rule has been proclaimed at Treves with tear gas bombs, rifles and emergency cars held in readiness to quell further riots. New police reenforcements were rushed to this Rhineland city from Coblenz and Wiesbaden on the report that the Fascisti will try new raids tonight.

Though the police are holding the main shopping streets of the city and are heavily patrolling the side streets, a mob today succeeded in wrecking the windows of several shops and residences. They also attacked the home of a cigar dealer who denied he was a separatist, but was a former noncommissioned officer in the German army.

QUAKE DESTROYS 21 HOMES, CHURCH IN GUATEMALA

GUATEMALA, July 9.—(AP)—Earthquakes which have been shaking eastern Guatemala intermittently for a month were more serious today, so widespread were the quakes that they were felt in Guatemala's capital. Twenty-one homes and several public buildings were reported destroyed at Guazacapan. Several persons were slightly injured in the village of Tapa Lapa when the roof of a church collapsed.

BRATIANU BOWS TO MOST BITTER FOE, KING CAROL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUCHAREST, July 9.—After three generations of ruling Rumania by their absolute domination of Hohenzollern kings, the first of whom they themselves imported in 1866, the Bratianu family, the "uncrowned dynasty" of this country, capitulated tonight to King Carol, its most hated enemy.

Swallowing his pride and hate, Vintilla Bratianu, entered the royal palace at 7 this evening and was received in audience by the young king. The two were closeted together for more than an hour, and the utmost secrecy shrouded their conversations.

LEAK IN OIL LINE ENDS MAIL FLIGHT IN MID-ATLANTIC

Patrol Boat Saves Three French Airmen.

DAKAR, Senegal, Africa, July 9.—(AP)—An oil leak spoiled what promised to be a brilliant round trip commercial and postal flight between France and South America soon after ten o'clock this morning.

The effort of the French pilot, Jean Mermoz, to cover the route both ways and thus to demonstrate the feasibility of regular postal and commercial service by air between Paris and Buenos Aires came to naught through a slight accident to the plane's oil pipes when the seaplane was within 650 miles of Dakar and more than a thousand miles out of Natal, Brazil.

Rescued by Patrol Boat.

The plane came down on the sea in perfect fashion and the patrol boat Phocee, which had been notified of the difficulty, was already there to take aboard the crew and the 600 pounds of mail. Those with Mermoz were Leopold Gimme, radio operator, and Dean D'Ardy, navigator, both of whom had accompanied Mermoz on his flight from Africa to South America last May.

Mermoz was deeply disappointed at the ending of the flight, for which he had made so much preparation. He had discovered the leak about nine o'clock this morning when about twelve hours out of Natal, but it did not then appear to be serious and he informed Dakar by wireless he expected to arrive between five and six o'clock. Dakar prepared for a rousing welcome to the aviators.

Some time later the plane came down and the Phocee picked up the crew at a point 7 degrees north latitude and 24 west longitude. When he came down Mermoz had enough fuel left to reach Dakar easily. The crew had been in the highest spirits as they approached the African side of the Atlantic and the success of their venture appeared to be certain.

They were not more disappointed than Dakar, where delight at the prospective success of the round air trip was general. The disappointment was somewhat mitigated by the fact that despite the oil leak regular postal air line and commercial service between France, Africa, and South America appeared assured.

Fast Ship to Rush Mail.

In order to lose as little time as possible in the dispatch of the air mail, the Phocee decided to turn the pouches over to a second faster boat that also was patrolling the airmen's route.

The flyers will get a cordial reception when they arrive here, which may perhaps comfort them somewhat for disappointment at being obliged to come down at sea. Dakar has taken Mermoz and his companions to its heart and regards them as pioneers in the new enterprise which links the name of their city with that of South America.

U. S. Doctor and Girl Killed As Plane Crashes Into Sea

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 9.—The story of how an American doctor and his girl companion, also American, and three others perished in an air-sea tragedy off the coast of Denmark was told today on the arrival of the Dutch schooner Spes at Stralsund. The crew of the schooner had fought in vain to rescue the victims, and actually had the American girl almost aboard when a wave swept her away.

The tragedy occurred Monday night, after the German Lufthansa Dornier-Wal seaplane, D-864, en route to Stockholm, was forced down in the Baltic sea off Bornholm, Denmark.

The victims were: Dr. John L. Burkholter, 43, of Mount Pleasant, Pa.; Miss Ruth Patricia Northrop, 25, a dietitian, of Westfield, N. Y., two Swedish passengers, and a German wireless operator. One passenger, the captain of the flying boat and a mechanic were rescued by the Danish motor schooner Maja.

Tell of Fight to Save Girl.

Officers of the schooner Spes gave a vivid description of the efforts to rescue Miss Northrop. The craft, nosing about the scene of the wreck, found the girl clinging to a float of the seaplane, exhausted. The sailors tried in vain to let down a life boat in the storm. Finally, they caught her life belt with a boat hook and started to hoist her aboard. Just as the men were about to grab her, the life belt broke and she was swept away on the crest of a huge wave before the eyes of the horrified crew.

Dr. Burkholter and Miss Northrop had spent a week in Berlin and after visiting Stockholm had intended to return to America. As they were leaving their hotel here to take the plane for Stettin and Stockholm, a porter warned them not to fly over the Baltic if it was raining when they reached Stettin. Dr. Burkholter replied lightly:

"We will walk to Sweden if it is too wet in the air."

Plane Develops Engine Trouble.

The seaplane developed engine trouble over the Baltic and made a forced landing in fairly rough water. The landing was effected safely and the schooners Maja and Spes summoned by wireless. The Maja took the plane in tow. After two and one half hours, during which the ship was unable to take the passengers and crew of the plane aboard, owing to high seas, the weather became stormier and the plane capsized.

Those aboard, all equipped with life jackets, leaped into the water. The Maja fished up three, but the others disappeared beneath the waves.

Girl a Cornell Graduate.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 9.—(AP)—Miss Ruth Patricia Northrop, who is reported to have been drowned in an air disaster off the coast of Denmark, was a resident of Westfield, N. Y. She was graduated from Cornell university in 1926. For a time she was attached to the Mount Pleasant hospital in Mount Pleasant, Pa., where Dr. John L. Burkholder, another victim in the air mishap, was a member of the X-ray and surgical staff.

Dr. Burkholder and Miss Northrop were friends, having become acquainted while she was engaged as dietitian at the Mount Pleasant hospital. Relatives of Dr. Burkholder said they did not know where the young woman's home was, but that she had been employed at a Philadelphia hospital.

Miss Northrop came to the Pennsylvania hospital in Philadelphia last September as an assistant dietitian and in May was granted a leave of absence to make a European tour. She was due back at the hospital Sept. 1.

BOY ENDURANCE SITTER "LANDS" AFTER 36 HOURS

Racine, Wis., July 9.—[Special.]—Jimmie Clemon's tree sitting stunt, started as a vacation day play by three small boys, lazying like Tom Sawyer around the back yard, today became the neighborhood's enterprise, not to say the city's pride.

Jimmie came down at 8:45 tonight, 36 hours in the tree and 15 minutes extra for good measure so his record couldn't be challenged. His mother decided that tomorrow's piano lesson must be taken as scheduled, fame or no fame.

He came down $12 richer than he went up and if any one wants to bring a charge of commercialism, all right. It cost two uncles $2 each and grandpa paid him one cent for every five minutes after the first 12 hours. His principal grievance was that he had too few relatives. Jimmie brooded about that a good deal as the day wore on.

At 7 o'clock tonight the old chair in which he was sitting came loose and he tumbled almost to the ground, twenty feet, but landed unhurt on the roots of the tree and managed to get back into his roost with the approval of the spectators to finish out the thirty-six hour goal he was aiming at.

GOVERNOR TO ASK ADVICE ON LOAN TO U. S. BY STATE

$2,000,000 for Waterway Work Sought.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Gov. L. L. Emmerson declared last night he will ask legal advice from Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom as to whether the state can lend $2,000,000 to the federal government, as requested by the war department.

FRED V. MAGUIRE.
[Tribune Photo.]

A question has arisen on whether a special session of the legislature will be necessary to expedite the work on the Illinois waterway. The governor, returning from the annual conference of governors at Salt Lake City, said he has not yet received the Washington note, due to his trip, and he would withhold comment until he read it.

Congress has appropriated $7,500,000 to finish the waterway job, but the government money is not available for work this season, while the state still has reserved enough of its own $20,000,000 to build the necessary twelve bridges. The government suggests a "touch" on this fund, to be repaid when the next appropriation bill is passed, to save time and avoid delay.

Will Ask Legal Advice.

"I am anxious to do all in my power to aid the government in starting its work on the waterway," said Gov. Emmerson. "It is our most vital transportation project. But there is a question as to whether the state has a right to lend its funds, and on this, of course, I shall need a legal opinion."

In administration circles it was pointed out that the constitutional amendment of 1908 giving the legislature authority to issue $20,000,000 bonds which Illinois is spending of its own money on the waterway says the general assembly shall provide how the proceeds shall be applied.

One view advanced was that, as the legislature has not given any authority to lend state canal money, it might perhaps require a special session to enable the loan to be made.

Moreland Gains More Votes.

The "leaky trunk" leaked more votes yesterday in the Seventh district Republican recount and at the close of day James C. Moreland had increased his lead over Congressman M. A. Michaelson to 576 votes. "It's all over but the shouting," said the Moreland camp.

Moreland's net gain after 199 precincts had been counted was 632, as a chaser for the 56 vote margin which the original returns gave Michaelson. In 50 precincts picked out by the Michaelson forces the recount gave Moreland a gain of 10 votes.

The tentative part of the canvass, 200 precincts, having turned the original returns upside down and placed Moreland in the lead, a court order was given that the rest of the 526 precincts should be recounted. Twelve teams will start Monday to finish up the district.

1,500 Witnesses to Be Called.

Subpœnas for 1,500 witnesses are to be issued for the hearings on the petition to oust Fred V. Maguire as chairman of the election board, Charles C. Case, an assistant state's attorney and former attorney for the board, announced yesterday. Monday was set as the day when the ouster hearing will start.

Mr. Case yesterday filed a supplemental bill naming 211 more men and women alleged to have police records who were employed by the board. The original bill listed 275 such persons. County Judge Jarecki ordered the two bills consolidated, after a peppery exchange between Mr. Case and Albert Fink, counsel for Maguire.

"There are many cases in Chicago where crooks have decided the election in a precinct," said Mr. Case in maintaining that Maguire allowed improper persons to serve as election officers.

"Just Politics," He Says.

"If one instance is shown where Maguire has knowingly appointed an unfit person to serve as judge or clerk of election," said Mr. Fink, "he should be removed. This piling up of name after name of allegedly crooked election officials is just politics."

"This cry of politics doesn't bother me," said Mr. Case. "It has been raised in nearly every case I have prosecuted in this court."

Judge Jarecki said he wanted to get the case settled before the fall campaign and suggested night sessions might be necessary.

"I am a candidate for reelection," said Judge Jarecki, "and I want this case out of the way by then."

Petersen's home is at 2447 Kimball avenue.

BYRD'S TRAVELS BRING HIM TO CITY TOMORROW

Explorer Will Be Guest at Banquet.

Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, conqueror of the antarctic, will arrive in Chicago tomorrow to be the guest at a banquet tomorrow night by the Press Club of Chicago and the Combat Medal Men's association. Seven members of his expedition will accompany him. The explorer's visit will be the occasion of his first public address west of the Alleghenies since his return from the south pole.

The greetings of Chicago to Byrd were extended yesterday in an official proclamation by Mayor Thompson. The proclamation speaks of the contribution to the sciences through Byrd's several explorations, culminating in his work in the antarctic, and extends a "most cordial greeting to this eminent and distinguished gentleman, naval officer, scientist, and useful citizen."

Vets to Be Escort.

Twelve decorated veterans of the world war will form an escort to Byrd as he enters the banquet hall at the Stevens hotel. The Great Lakes band will play "Dixie" in tribute to the admiral's birthplace, Virginia, and "The Star Spangled Banner" as an American flag is unfurled above him.

Upon his arrival at the Union station at 10 a. m. Admiral Byrd will be met by committees of the Press club and the city council, the parade committee, and a representative of Mayor Thompson. He will be escorted by details of mounted and motorcycle police to the Stevens hotel, where an informal reception will be held until noon. On Saturday Admiral Byrd and his party will fly to St. Louis, where they will be honored by the chamber of commerce.

Salute to Be Parade Signal.

At noon a gun crew from the Great Lakes Naval Training station will fire the first gun of a thirteen gun regulation rear admiral's salute with a field piece mounted in Grant park. This will be the signal for the start of the parade, which will proceed north to Jackson boulevard, west to La Salle street, north to Washington street, east to Dearborn street, and terminating at the Press club. A luncheon will be held there amidst polar scenery.

Carl O. Petersen, radio operator with the Byrd party on the south pole expedition, was at his Chicago home, 2447 North Kimball avenue, yesterday. Petersen, who is 32 years old and a native of Norway, has been a radio operator on ships and spent a year as wireless man at isolated King's bay, Spitzbergen.

EX-FOLLIES GIRL TO SHARE HALF MILLION ESTATE

New York, July 9.—[Special.]—Through her marriage in December, 1928, to Vivi Cornelius, British diplomat, immediately after her divorce from Lord Northesk, the former Jessica Brown, graduate "Follies" beauty, is about to participate in an inheritance of from $500,000 to $1,000,000, it became known today.

The legacy is expected from the estate of William E. Emery, wealthy farmer of Flemington, N. J., and grandfather of Cornelius, who died in 1912, leaving a trust fund of $650,000 for his wife and two daughters. All three have since died, and the fund is now estimated at about a million dollars.

Cornelius, as the son of the former May Emery, one of the daughters, will receive at least half of the estate if an action now pending in Chancery court in New Jersey is successful. Through this action the Bankers' Trust company, trustee, is seeking permission to distribute the principal among the heirs.

GROESBECK OUT FOR GOVERNOR IN MICHIGAN

Lansing, Mich., July 9.—[Special.]—The campaign of Alex J. Groesbeck for the Republican nomination for governor, an office he held for three terms from 1920 to 1926, was launched spectacularly here today when an airplane bearing his petitions to various parts of the state took off this morning.

The former governor, from his home in Detroit, issued a formal announcement, in which he declared that "if nominated and elected my aim shall be to assist in doing everything possible to advance the best interests of Michigan."

Wilbur M. Brucker, attorney general, has already filed his petition as a candidate. John S. Haggerty, secretary of state, also is expected to be a candidate, and Gov. Green, who defeated Groesbeck in 1926, has indicated on several occasions that he might enter the race if Groesbeck sought a fourth term.

JAIL BOY TRYING TO AID FATHER IN BOMBING CASE

Young Ficke Fails to Impress Court.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Bailie St. Clair, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge John J. Sullivan.

Vito Ficke, 14 years old, came from his hiding place in Wisconsin yesterday with the hope that his appearance in Judge John P. McGoorty's Criminal court would save his father, Steve Ficke, from a 5 to 25 year sentence in the penitentiary for the sale and manufacture of bombs. Instead, the boy himself was locked up in the county jail with his father.

Vito is accused of delivering the bombs in a market bag to Joseph Altmeier, former under cover investigator for the state's attorney's office, who was recently fatally wounded while trying to trap a gang of robbers. The state charges that the boy was sent away so that he could not be used as a prosecution witness to show that he had received the bombs from his father.

Father Seeks New Trial.

Steve Ficke and Michael Casselli, a butcher, are both under conviction for bombing and are seeking a new trial.

At the last hearing of the motion Judge McGoorty remarked that it was strange that the boy was not present to prove his father innocent, as was argued by Attorney John Johntry. The judge indicated that he was going to overrule the motion and that the only thing which might save the father would be the testimony of the missing boy.

"I had no bombs," said Vito when called to the stand yesterday. "I was playing ball that day and never saw my father until after my sister had sent me for a newspaper. When I returned I saw some men fighting with my father and I went to help him.

Charges Police Used Force.

"It was then that I was arrested and taken to the state's attorney's office. Some of those policemen hung me out of the window and made me sign my name on that market bag and made me say things which were not true."

Assistant State's Attorney C. Wayland Brooks refused to even question the boy, saying that it was obvious he was not telling the truth in view of the fact that he was caught with the bag of bombs and confessed at the time.

The judge ordered the boy held on the indictments under $15,000 bail and said he would decide today whether his testimony would have any effect on the motion for a new trial for his father. It was pointed out that the youth can not be successfully prosecuted because Altmeier, the chief state witness, is dead.

FRANCE OUTLINES PLANS TO FORTIFY ITALIAN FRONTIER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 9.—How the return of the Rhineland army following the evacuation will bring about a regroupment of French military forces, with a concentration of large masses near the Italian frontier, was unfolded before the army committee of the chamber of deputies today by Minister of War Maginot and Gen. Maxime Weygand, chief of staff.

The deputies were told that the progress of fortifications in the north and east is highly satisfactory from the defense standpoint and that a repetition of the German drive on Paris of 1914 is not likely.

It was inferred that the chief weak spots now are Alsace, south of Metz, and the Riviera. The French have been quietly fortifying the Alps for years and any attack from the south could only come along a narrow strip of the coast.

BRITISH CABINET ESCAPES DEFEAT BY MERE 3 VOTES

Liberals Save MacDonald in Income Tax Row.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 9.—Three votes saved the Labor government from defeat in the house of commons tonight and the possibility of a general election in the near future. It was one of the most exciting sessions of the present parliament. As, on at least three previous occasions, the government was saved from downfall by a small number of rebel Liberals who declined to support their leader, David Lloyd George.

Tonight's crisis centered in the committee stage of the finance bill, following a Liberal party amendment to Chancellor of the Exchequer Philip Snowden's budget proposals. The Liberals demanded exemption from income tax of profits expended for new plants and machinery for the purpose of modernizing and improving business.

Defeat Was Anticipated.

According to the anticipated plan, both the Liberals and Conservatives supported the amendment, and if the full Liberal vote had been recorded the government would have fallen. But in the actual balloting the Labor party managed to squeeze through when 285 voted for the amendment and 278 against it.

The house went wild with excitement as the tellers entered from the division lobbies with the voting figures, the packed house seemed to expect Prime Minister MacDonald's defeat. The ministerialists' cheers overwhelmed the opposition. Shouts of "Resign, resign!" were blotted out by Labor's cry, "Are we downhearted —No!"

Despite the Liberal-Tory party agreement, four Liberals voted with the government and about a score either abstained or were absent. The Conservatives voted 250 out of the effective voting strength of their 260. The Labor members mustered 273 in the lobby with the aid of four Liberals and one Independent.

MacDonald's Third Escape.

Tonight's was the third narrow escape of the MacDonald government. On Dec. 19, at the second reading of the coal mines bill, the majority was eight; on Feb. 27, on the amendment to the same bill, the majority was nine.

Tonight's debate produced only ordinary speeches. Chancellor Snowden adamantly contended the Liberal proposal would cost the taxpayers $150,000,000 without providing work for one man. Lloyd George denied the figures, emphasizing that neither he nor his friends had the slightest desire to defeat the government. He insisted the Liberal action meant an endeavor to assist unemployment.

Supporting the amendment for the Conservative opposition, Winston Churchill held up matters by declaring that the house would "like a little more Geneva and a little less Potsdam" from Chancellor Snowden.

U. S. OFFICIALS ARRIVE HERE TOMORROW FOR POSTOFFICE PARLEYS

Representatives of the treasury and the postoffice departments at Washington will arrive in Chicago tomorrow for a series of conferences with railroad and federal officials and representatives of civic groups relative to the erection of the new postoffice.

W. A. Dudley, manager of the Greater Central District association, was notified yesterday that Ferry K. Heath, assistant secretary of the treasury, and John W. Philp, fourth assistant postmaster general, would come here for the discussions.

Negotiations will be conducted with the Union Terminal company for air rights over the property bounded by Harrison, Canal, and Van Buren streets and the Van Buren Parcel Post building. The cost of the new building will approximate $21,000,000, including the air rights. Thomas W. Hulme, vice president of the Pennsylvania railway, will represent the Union Terminal company. Graham, Anderson, Probst & White, architects for the new building, will participate in the discussions.

DRINKS POISON AND HANGS SELF IN LOOP OFFICE

Ralph Ellsworth Gates, 40 years old, 6949 Ellwood street, a sales executive of the Mill Associates, Inc., hanged himself with a rope to a rafter after drinking poison in his office at 300 West Adams street yesterday afternoon.

Police said Gates apparently first adjusted a rope around his neck and then drank the poison. When he collapsed he was choked to death. An inhalator squad attempted to revive him.

A sealed letter addressed to his wife was left by Gates. This will be opened at the inquest today. Pending reading of the letter police said they could find no motive.

OLIVER DENIES GETTING MONEY OUTSIDE SALARY

Assessor Claims $18,731 Was Race Winnings.

Gene G. Oliver, county assessor, charged with evading income taxes, denied on the stand in Federal Judge Woodward's court yesterday that he had ever received anything but his $9,000 a year salary for his work as assessor.

Oliver was asked about a certificate of deposit for $18,731.55 which the government has shown went into his account. He said "Butch" Douglas, a gambler, now dead, owed him a little over $19,000 for winnings on races, and that the sum was paid with the certificate, plus the balance in cash.

Money Obtained by Nichols.

Government testimony had shown that William Nichols obtained this certificate of deposit with part of a $42,000 group of checks made payable to him by Werner A. Wieboldt, president of the Wieboldt Stores, Inc. Nichols testified that he deposited the checks as a favor to Douglas, and that his name was used without his knowledge.

Oliver was shown the Wieboldt checks by State Senator James J. Barbour, his attorney, and asked when he first saw them.

"Right now," Oliver replied.

Then he was asked whether he gave Raymond F. Stanton, a ward superintendent, about $10,000 worth of the Wieboldt checks. He denied this. Stanton had testified that Oliver turned over the checks in the county building.

Checks for Campaign Fund.

Oliver, who formerly was a vaudeville entertainer, according to his testimony, was manifestly at ease on the stand. Shown a group of checks from the Fitzpatrick-McElroy company, a theatrical concern; the American Envelope company, and William Morris & Sons company, totaling about $5,000, he said they were campaign contributions.

Oliver said Blair McElroy gave him four of the checks for $500 each toward his campign, refuting government testimony that they represented special and legal services. Senator Barbour asked what Mr. McElroy said at the time.

"I object to conversations with a dead man," said Assistant United States Attorney Cassius Poust.

Always Talk of Dead.

"He's always talking about dead men," responded Senator Barbour.

"Well, they're all yours," said Mr. Poust.

Oliver then explained that he did advise the Fitzpatrick-McElroy company as to the value of real estate they contemplated buying.

Other dead men who have been named in the trial were:

The check indorsed by Lingle was not offered in evidence, but was explained to the court when it turned up in a group of defense exhibits representing losses on the races.

The trial was adjourned until this morning with Oliver still under direct examination.

IOWAN TARRED AND FEATHERED; 17 ARE ARRESTED

Intimacy with Married Woman Charged.

Orange City, Ia., July 9.—[Special.]—This northwestern Iowa community of persons of Dutch descent was treated to a tar and feather episode last night. John Dejong, 41 years old, a widower and the father of five children, was the victim. Warrants charging "unlawful assemblage" were issued this afternoon by the county attorney of Sioux county against seventeen men, all of whom were taken into custody.

Deputy Sheriff Harry Dykstra said he had been informed that the reported intimacy of Dejong with a married woman was the cause of attack upon him. Dejong, when questioned, admitted that the woman had "ridden in my car a few times."

Peter De Cook, husband of the woman involved, was among the men arrested.

Hearing Set for Today.

The men taken into custody are scheduled for a hearing before Justice of the Peace John Meyer at Alton at 9:30 tomorrow morning.

Dejong, who was released in a coat of tar, molasses, and feathers, with only a blanket for covering on a downtown street, and reported the affair to officers, said that he recognized seventeen of his approximately twenty-five assailants.

According to Dejong, he was taken captive by a group of men who drove to the county fair grounds, where he was working. This was about 6 p. m. yesterday. With Dejong at the time of his abduction was a son, Frank, 13 years old. One of the captors told the boy to "go home or you might get hurt" and started for town, but the boy eluded him.

Held Captive in Barn.

Dejong was taken in a car to a barn on the William Williamson farm near Middleburg, near here, where he was kept captive until 9 p. m. Then he was taken to a wooded river bottom, where he was forced to remove his clothing and submit to tarring and feathering. Dejong was not injured.

GOV. REED SAYS LEGGE HESITATES IN WHEAT CRISIS

Kansas Executive Calls Prices Unjustifiable.

Hays, Kas., July 9.—[Special.]—Charging that present prices for wheat are not justified by world conditions, Gov. Clyde M. Reed of Kansas called upon the federal farm board here today to exercise the powers granted it by the agricultural marketing act to protect the wheat farmer.

Speaking on the third day's program of the farm board department of agriculture acreage reduction mission, the Kansas governor took direct issue with Alexander Legge, chairman, Arthur M. Hyde, secretary of agriculture, and their economists, that the only long time farm relief available for the wheat farmers was a curtailment in acreage more closely to domestic demand.

When Gov. Reed met Chairman Legge in the lobby of the hotel this morning the chairman said:

"Now, governor, I don't want you to worry about the secretary and myself. We are harmless men. But I do want to warn you against these economists of ours."

First Official Objection.

As a big crowd listened, Gov. Reed raised the first official objection so far voiced to the administration's program that the farmer bring his own relief through organization and control of production. A last minute change was made in the program. Secretary Hyde was to have spoken this morning, but his appearance on the platform was postponed until later.

"It is a significant fact," the governor said, "that all of these meetings are in what is known as the 'hard wheat belt.' This is the section that produces the best wheat in the world, and which produces no other crop so advantageously.

"If a series of meetings designed to bring about a reduction in wheat acreage were held in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky, Michigan and Wisconsin, they would be easily understood, for in all of those states the soil, climate, rainfall and general farming conditions are such as to permit the growing of other crops to as great or greater advantage than wheat."

"Farm Board Hesitates."

Gov. Reed hesitated to express it as his belief, but he asserted that in some quarters it was believed the farm board was hesitating to use its powers and its 500 million dollars of government funds as intended, "because through a continuance of an abnormally low price level a curtailment in wheat acreage would be brought about."

If that is not the reason for the board's inactivity, the governor sought to know what the reason was.

"What is the matter with the farm board?" he asked. "This is its golden opportunity, the best it probably ever will have, to function as it was intended to function and to help the farmer at a time when he needs help against an abnormally low price not justified by any conditions that exist in the world. I can't understand why the farm board hesitates to act in a situation of this kind."

Hesitates to Criticise.

He expressed his reluctance to believe the board was withholding aid to discourage wheat production next year, but added:

"Certainly the situation is so serious that the continued failure of the farm board to act must have its effect in the degree of confidence which agriculture as a whole will place in it. The present price of wheat is below the cost of production. Its continuance means disaster to hundreds of thousands of farmers and may result not only in the loss of any profit, but actually the loss of their land. If there ever was a time when a government agency created for a given purpose was justified in getting into action with all its forces, certainly this is the time."

Replying to Gov. Reed's insinuation of farm board "inaction," Chairman Legge said that wheat "already had received in the board's stabilization operations twice its proportionate share" of the 500 million dollar relief fund.

THIS brings you the first full news of one of the mightiest automotive engineering achievements in a generation —free wheeling!

The new sensation of it—the utter simplicity and easy application of it—will stir you as nothing in your motoring experience has done.

Another Studebaker Triumph

FREE wheeling is a triumph of that same Studebaker progressiveness that pioneered the popular priced Eight—tested it, seasoned it and proved it to the satisfaction of over 100,000 owners. Today the whole industry is following the Eight trend that Studebaker three years ago inaugurated.

Devised and perfected by Studebaker—available in America only in Studebaker's brilliant New Presidents and Commanders, free wheeling makes a car do things that seem like miracles, even to sophisticated automobile engineers.

An Experience Incredibly Different

PREPARE to drive the most unfettered, yet most obedient car in the world—a car that literally floats along, in gear and fully controlled, yet free and silent as though there were no gears! Every moment of motion is cushioned and hushed.

You shift with silence, safety and precision, from high to second, back and forth, at any speed—forty, fifty miles an hour—and never touch the clutch!

The instant you lift your foot from the throttle, no matter how swiftly you may be traveling, your engine drops to idling speed—with no forcing of the engine by car momentum—with no sensation of "piling up".

Tremendous New Power Is Provided

YOU know, of course, that Studebaker Eights hold many world and international records for speed and endurance, and more American stock car records than all other makes combined. And you are ready to expect the unusual.

But the increased power of the great Studebaker Eight engine which drives this new car is a thrilling revelation to you.

You marvel at the extra smoothness made possible by a nine-bearing crankshaft, balanced both statically and dynamically. It is power and smoothness so instantly responsive that you find at least half the footwork of driving gone. Your muscles and your mind remain unstrained throughout the longest drive.

All old reluctances to shift cease . . . shifting is so effortless, so accurate, so silent. And you need use your clutch only to start or back up.

An Economy that Is Remarkable

YOU save 12% on gasoline, 20% on oil—and the heavier the traffic, the greater the saving. Carbon is reduced because your engine is never forced by car momentum to pump excess oil and gasoline into the cylinders every time you decelerate.

Gone entirely—indeed, utterly unknown—are the terrific reversional strains thrown on rear axle, universal joints, clutch and transmission of an ordinary car when you suddenly lift your foot from the throttle.

You Are Ready for Any Emergency

YOU are ready for any emergency of road or traffic on the instant. Apply the new Duo Servo brakes. No sudden grabbing—no swerving. Instead, a smooth and reassuring drop in speed—swift as your need dictates.

Your steering gear rights itself after a turn —automatically the car swings to "straight ahead"—holds its course true without your tugging at the wheel. The hard work that usually attends parking becomes but a memory. Tendency to "shimmy", a worry ever since balloon tires were introduced, is overcome by a new kick shackle device on the left front spring.

Your car, floating at each spring-end on oil-sealed ball bearings, rides friction-free. There are no squeaks, no rattles, at these vital points—nor can there ever be.

Enviable New Cars in Appearance

ALL these new delights of free wheeling—these developments not even remotely approached in any other American car at any price—are yours at the traditional Studebaker thrift standards.

They are yours in new, beautifully designed bodies—the most distinctive bodies that any maker in the Studebaker price field ever offered.

Bodies that are bewitching in eye appeal, from new type radiator to rear bumper. Bodies that have been designed to interpret the very spirit of free wheeling. With new Ovaloid headlamps. With new parking lights, glimmering on the broad, sweeping fenders. The closed cars have even been wired for quick radio installation.

THE PRESIDENT AND THE TREATY.

The President's message to the senate is a persuasive argument for the adoption of the treaty negotiated at London. The gist of this argument, however, seems to be that we must take the terms agreed upon or none at all. Mr. Hoover asserts, and of course sincerely believes, that they represent a substantial improvement upon our present naval situation and reach the important objectives of the conference—namely: reduction of expenditure and further limitation upon competitive building. This is a position which can be easily supported if comparison is made on the score of reduction, with the paper programs of the signatory powers, and on the score of limitation, with the Washington treaty. If, as the President asserts, the United States must accept the treaty presented to us by the London conference or enter upon a "disastrous period of competitive armament," there would be a general consensus in favor of adoption.

But that is a conclusion that requires a good deal more proof than we have been allowed to have. So far as the powers bound by the treaty of London are concerned, conditions which transcend treaties put an automatic limitation on the excesses the President forecasts as an urgent reason for immediate agreement among the signatory powers. Great Britain is in no condition financially or politically to indulge itself in vast expenditures upon armament unless compelled to do so by forces which are not restrained by this treaty. The same is true of Japan, and the assumption that France and Italy are now in a position financially and of a disposition politically to do so has not much relevance in view of the fact that France and Italy are not signatories to the treaty. If these powers are likely to force a disastrous competitive building, the adoption of a treaty of self-restraint by England, Japan, and the United States, by which they are not bound, will not be a check upon either, unless they are impelled to such building by fear of the treaty powers. That is notoriously not the case, and moreover if they do enter upon what the President calls "disastrous competitive armament," the treaty removes the restraints upon building by the signatory powers.

If all the great naval building powers were restrained by the treaty the President's alternative would have considerable more validity. As the situation is, it is rather weak. What strength it has is based upon the pacifist fallacy that a good example of self-restraint by three of the great powers will influence the powers which deliberately refused to be bound to act as if they were. This is a fallacy which American common sense is not likely to accept.

In short, the President's theory that we must accept the treaty or be plunged into unrestricted competitive building is not in accord with the realities of the international situation. It does not present a background against which a candid and careful examination of the question whether it is advisable for us to bind ourselves by the London agreement ought to be heard. Neither does his effort to discredit disagreement with his views by alleging that such difference is confined to "those who in reality are opposed to all limitation and reduction in naval arms." If there are any such individuals they are so few as to be negligible. The opposition which has developed to the treaty is as sincere in its wish that the world shall be relieved of inordinate military expenditure as Mr. Hoover is. Senator Swanson acknowledged this in his able opening of the debate in the senate. What the opposition seeks is that in any proceeding or agreement for reduction and limitation the relative position of the United States shall be safeguarded, and that we shall not be put in a situation of disadvantage under cover of an agreement for general relief.

This demand is justified by recent experience in our sincere and generous effort to bring about reduction and limitation. Our example of self-sacrifice has not influenced other powers to imitate or assist us, but on the contrary has been used to put us at greater disadvantage and to press upon us still further uncompensated sacrifice. If the present treaty represents, as many competent and sincere critics believe, no substantial correction of these injustices, but still further restrictions upon our freedom to shape our defense program in accordance with our national security and interests, it should not be countersigned by the senate and will eventually be resented and repudiated by the nation. It will not be an advance toward world peace, but a retreat.

The President seeks to justify immediate consideration of the treaty by pointing out that it has been in the hands of the senate for three months. But during these three months the senate has been engaged in difficult and important work upon domestic legislation and adjourned as soon as it was completed. It is now reconvened for consideration of the treaty under physical conditions of heat and fatigue which are not conducive to careful and thorough consideration. This would be excusable in an emergency, but no such emergency is apparent to any one. Three months is, in any case, not a long but a short period of preparation for judgment upon an act of state so momentous as the President himself would have us take the adoption of this treaty to be. Treaties of great importance have had the benefit in the past of many months of discussion and there is nothing in our international situation which the President has disclosed or is observable to the nation that makes immediate decision upon this engagement, involving as it does not merely its own terms but the gravest questions of general policy, imperative. The senate is obviously and justifiably reluctant to undertake this task under present conditions and does so only under compulsion of the President's will. We think the situation unfortunate and far from reassuring as to the advisability of adopting the treaty now.

A HOME TOWN BOY MAKES GOOD.

John D. Rockefeller has celebrated the ninety-first anniversary of his birth in good health and good will at his home and in a little statement given to the newspapers he said he enjoyed the sense he had of the general kindness to him. When he was making his wealth he was about as unpopular a man as ever achieved renown in this country. Now that he is old and that the wealth is being used in its many public activities the general sentiment is, as he feels it, kindly.

The early oil men who were ruined by the competitive methods of John D. and the Standard Oil company thought of him and his works as devilish. The great evil trust of the eighties was the oil trust and its founder seemed to have acquired a reputation which would last forever to preserve a pattern of unscrupulous and unfeeling corporation methods of destroying competitors. It was an age of free fighting and no fouls counted. John D. was regarded as the evil genius of monopoly and he withdrew from personal contact with the public, thus becoming an abstraction, a legend and fable of ruthlessness. About the only satisfaction the public had was in believing the silent and hidden man to be a physical wreck, wretched in health and unable to enjoy any of the profits of his enterprises. There was some gratification in that and moralists took what cheer they could.

The times changed. Politics went to busting the trusts. The magnates stopped saying that the public could be damned and made themselves approachable. Mr. Rockefeller came to Chicago and sat in the witness chair in Judge Landis' court to answer questions and say he did not know much what the boys were doing in the Standard Oil company. He was a mild and obliging man, and when the judge fined him $29,000,000 it seemed a bit steep. It did later to the upper court, but it also seemed remarkable to be able to stand the blow without fainting and to have the money with which to pay it if necessary.

The experience did Mr. Rockefeller more good than injury, and little stories about his golf began to appear. His money had made a great university in Chicago and it soon began to do world tricks. The legend became one of a power able to rescue whole peoples from disease or starvation or the effects of war. Every other day or so somewhere in the world people assembled to accept a gift or dedicate something paid for by the money of the oil man. He himself was found in humorous little eccentricities, giving away bright dimes, and here he is, the nation's favorite ancient, the picture of sturdy antiquity and benevolence, with his old enemy, Mother Jones, wishing him long life and enjoyment of it.

SAFEGUARDING THE BALLOT BOX.

The charges brought by Special Assistant State's Attorney Case against the chairman of the board of election commissioners are of the gravest character and the public will be glad that they are to be examined by so courageous and honest a judge as Judge Jarecki. If they can be proved they will disclose an evil which calls for the most drastic correction, for it strikes at the very roots of good government in the country. The purity of elections is the first essential of responsible public administration, and the appointment of unreliable men and women as guards at the ballot box is like putting traitors at the gates of a fortress. There could be no more efficient method of protecting and perpetuating the alliance of crime and corrupt politics than this.

Chairman Maguire emphatically denies the charges of wholesale appointment of undesirables as judges and clerks of election, and until they are proved he is entitled to reservation of public opinion as well as the fairest trial. The task of selecting so many officials is a difficult and onerous one and occasional mistakes are inevitable with the most conscientious official. What is vital is to discover whether there was a general slackness and either a culpable failure to examine the qualifications of the applicant or, which is even worse, a deliberate complicity with forces of misgovernment to control the election machinery.

The public has a right to alert protection and a conscientious performance of official duty. If adequate means to make thorough canvass of the qualifications of all applicants have not been at the command of the commission, that fact should have been reported and measures to obtain adequate means adopted. There should be no prejudgment of the charges, but they call for the fair and thorough examination they will have from Judge Jarecki.

SUNDAY BLUE LAWS.

[Des Moines Tribune-Capitol.]

Just how ridiculous some of our puritanical hangovers have become was demonstrated the other day when the mayor of a New Hampshire city swore out warrants against the local baseball team for playing on Sunday, in violation of one of the ancient but well preserved state blue laws.

Whereupon the much irritated athletes discovered that the mayor and all of his prominent cronies had been driving their automobiles on the same Sunday, in violation of the same statute. So retaliatory warrants were sworn out against the lot of them, and the cases went to court. The judge, however, suggested that he was unfit to sit, inasmuch as he had violated the old law himself by playing golf on the same day.

It is probably fair to say that the same attitude is concerned in the controversy over Sunday motion pictures in Iowa, although of course local ordinances rather than the state law are involved. But the matter has been of enough importance that fifteen cities and towns have already settled it by popular elections this year, Winfield and Murray just a few days ago. Only three of these—Gowrie, Guthrie Center, and Winfield—still prohibit this form of entertainment one day a week.

WHITE FLOUR AND WHOLE WHEAT.

THE battle between the advocates of white flour and of whole wheat flour is waging on a somewhat new front. The millers have always contended that they could not market whole wheat flour as they now market their products. The germ in the flour would become musty and rancid, and the commodity would be infested with insects before the barrel of flour had reached the ultimate consumer.

Furthermore, they say that milled flour is a good carbohydrate food and that there is no better or cheaper source of energy than the starches and sugars from grains. Present day opinion accepts both statements as correct. However, they say we must have certain food elements which are found in wheat germs and other grain germs, and a way must be found for the consumer to get this germ in good condition.

One way proposed is for the consumer to provide himself with a simple mill built like a coffee mill, in which he can grind enough whole grain to supply his family need in his own kitchen. Another is to have grocery stores market whole grain flours and meals produced by local mills, to be consumed within a month after grinding. A third is to mix grain germs in with other ingredients to make a dough to be cooked into a cracker and sold in a package while reasonably fresh.

The growing demand for a germ food is based on the knowledge that vitamins B and E abound in the germs of grain, and the present day diet is often deficient in these elements. The belief now is that what is called vitamin B is a combination of several elements or qualities. The something which Goldberger called vitamin Pp, that something which protected against pellagra and which also cured it, is now recognized as one of the qualities or parts of vitamin B. Possibly the need of protection against pellagra is the most important reason for eating grain germ. Another quality, or part, is that which protects against beriberi, and also against a lot of neuralgic pains, which are poor relations of beriberi.

The other vitamin found in the germ of grains is called vitamin E. It is this vitamin which promotes child bearing. The people and the animals that get enough of this vitamin tend to have large families, to bring strong babies into the world, and to maintain them in vigor, strength, and health.

EATING PEANUT BUTTER.

Interested Reader writes: Is peanut butter nutritious? Is it hurtful if used constantly? I like it very much and use it entirely on bread.

REPLY.

As a source of calories and therefore of heat and energy, peanut butter compares favorably with ordinary butter. As a source of vitamins A and D it is not equal to that product. As a source of vitamins B and E it is superior to it. Neither has any considerable amount of vitamin C.

Eaten in moderation, peanut butter is easily digested and absorbed. Eaten in excess, it is more apt to disagree with digestion than is ordinary butter.

TRY TO BLAME POMADE.

Mrs. G. G. writes: What is the cause of swollen lips? My lips swell just enough to lose their ordinary outlines. May this be caused from kissing? My lips are very dry and I often use pomade.

REPLY.

I do not know why your lips swell, but giant urticaria sometimes causes the condition.

I would not like to say kissing caused it. Try to throw it on pomade. Quit using that and see what happens.

FIND ANOTHER CAUSE.

W. A. D. writes: I had trouble with my feet perspiring and applied corn starch to prevent the trouble. In doing so, my feet stopped perspiring but a bump about the size of an egg appeared above each instep. These lumps contain a straw colored liquid. I believe this may be due to the application of the corn starch.

Please advise what to do to bring back the perspiration, as I believe these lumps on my instep are caused by lack of perspiration.

REPLY.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

Dear Gov. Emmerson, We Take Our Pen in Hand—

to thank you and the secretary of state, the Hon. William J. Stratton, for all our lovely auto license plates. The Hon. Mr. Stratton called us over long distance right away and said the dinged plates had left his office last week and he thought if we would look around the hotel we'd probably find those plates dropped around somewhere. Anyhow, he said he'd start sending us special plates until we said stop. It seems we were getting on Bill's nerves. So yesterday morning the license plates began coming and kept on right through the day, a fresh pair of license plates arriving every few minutes. Please, Governor, thank you very much and all that, but would you mind calling Bill off? And, besides, it's going to bewilder the constabulary to see us riding around in an automobile covered solid with auto license plates. Truly yours, and with kindest regards to the secretary of state, we remain, etc., etc., etc.

REASON SUFFICIENT.

I've never been in Picardy
To catch the scent of rose
Or in an English garden
To there regale my nose.
I've never heard a skylark
Nor a woodthrush in a brake,
Nor caught the lapis lazuli
Of far famed Como lake.
I've never seen the lordly Rhone,
Calcutta, or the Rhine,
Gay boulevards of Paris
With all their glitter fine.
The gondoliers of Venice
Never paddled me along
Beneath the arching bridges
To a symphony of song.
The awe of old cathedrals,
St. Peter's there in Rome,
Or old Westminster's cloistered aisles,
Nor any Gothic dome.
For those desiring, let them go—
Right here I feel quite nice;
Among other valid reasons,
I haven't got the price.

CLARENCE P. MILLIGAN.

WE REGRET to report that up to the hour of going to press yesterday Claudius H. Huston, chairman of the national committee of the G. O. P., had not resigned. It may be it happened last night. See first page. If not—well, today is Thursday, and Thursday has always been reckoned as a grand day for resignations. Anyhow, they are more anxious about Mr. Huston's resignation down in Washington than we are out here in Chicago.

WATERMELONS.

These are the days when the excellent ladies who run the recipe and cooking columns in the newspapers are telling how to make a watermelon really delicious by cutting out the inside, shaping it into cubes and balls, and soaking 'em in ginger ale or pineapple juice or something, and then, after several hours or days in the refrigerator, serving 'em on fancy plates or in tall glasses. Which is the hooey, according to our way of thinkin'.

You don't have to do all or any of that high-falutin' stuff with watermelons to make 'em good any more than you have to paint a lily to make it beautiful. Before any of these modern kitchen word painters began sounding off we boys down in the small towns knew all about how to prepare a watermelon so it tasted better than any dish that was ever set before the late Mr. Lucullus. We would pick out a dark night—the darker the better—and we'd sneak down the long dusty road past the old log cabin (and it was ha'nted, too, you betcha) and then through the woods and along the edge of the cornfield. After a bit we'd slip along through the corn until we came to Old Man Blodgett's melon patch. And there were the melons—black long shapes in the darkness looking like fat pigs fast asleep. And like ghosts we'd glide from melon to melon, giving each one a rap with our knuckles. If a melon sounded "plank" we left it alone and went on to the next melon—"plank," and then the next one "plank." Sometimes it would begin to look as though Old Man Blodgett had combed through his patch that very day and taken all the ripe melons to the store. "Darn!" one of us would say in righteous indignation. "The old skinflint!" But still we'd try some more melons. "Plank! plank! plank!" Gee! Old Man Blodgett was a mean guy. Then we'd try another one—"PLUNK!" That was it! When they went "plank" we just passed right on, but when they went "PLUNK!" we grabbed 'em.

One little jerk tore the melon off the vine and then some scooting black shadows dodged back through the cornfield and on over the fence to a lonely place in the woods where the feast was held. Gentlemen, your new-fangled cooks can cut the red meat of the watermelon into all the cubes and round balls they want to; soak 'em for days in ginger ale or pineapple juice or whatever; put 'em on all the fancy plates or in all the tall-stemmed ice-cooled glasses they've got—but to know what a watermelon really tastes like you've got to be a barefooted boy and steal one on a dark night out of Old Man Blodgett's melon patch.

MY RAINBOW.

You took my rainbow, all its brave young magic,
The slim green flame that is a tree in spring;
The high, bright reds that were my youth and courage,
The violet psalms I called remembering.

You took them all and flung them in abandon,
Gold stars, orange winds, wine roads that I had known;
You could not sense how ruthlessly you wounded;
You never had a rainbow of your own.

HELEN WELSHIMER.

LAGNIAPPE.

FAME IS A FUNNY THING! Wonder what became of those two men who flew an airplane somewhere near Chicago for three or four weeks?

A GANDER departed this life down in Erie, Illinois, that was 110 years old. The saddest part about the poor old gander is that while he never drank intoxicants at any time of his life or smoked either cigars or cigarets, there's no use of the W. C. T. U. bragging about it. He was just a big goose, after all. R. H. L.

MAKING IT MORE SUSPICIOUS LOOKING THAN EVER

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 10, 1865.

BALTIMORE.—The American has received a special report of a confession made by George A. Atzerodt, hanged for his part in the assassination plot, made to a friend a short time before he was executed. The confession gives details of the original plan to abduct President Lincoln and how it failed as well as the failure of a second plot to abduct him while in the theater, in which all of the conspirators were engaged, including an actor who was to turn down the gas. With the murder of the President, Atzerodt claims he had no connection. O'Laughlin also confessed that he was engaged in the original abduction plot. From the confession it appears that both the abduction conspiracies, as well as the murder of the President and the plots to murder members of the cabinet, were planned by J. Wilkes Booth, who used the remainder of the gang as his tools. It also establishes the fact that John Surratt, son of Mrs. Mary E. Surratt, and still a fugitive, was one of the prime movers throughout, and that Dr. Mudd was not alone an accomplice after the murder but in the original plots as well.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Maj. Will Cumback, formerly member of congress from Indiana, has been honorably mustered out as paymaster in the army. Since he has been in the service he has disbursed $65,000,000, every dollar of which has been accounted for to the treasury. In recognition of his services the President has conferred upon him the rank of brevet lieutenant colonel.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 10, 1900.

SHANGHAI.—News from official sources was received that the empress had on June 30 resumed the reins of government. It is said she sent a dispatch to Nanking by courier at the rate of 100 miles a day recommending that the viceroys of the Yang-tze Kiang provinces protect foreigners at any cost.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Two additional regiments—probably the 4th and the 18th—will sail from Manila for Taku at once to reinforce the 9th infantry.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y.—Chicago's "I will" is greater than Niagara's "You shan't." F. M. Bowser in his boat shot the rapids and was made the plaything of the whirlpool today. Tonight he lives to talk cheerfully of his hazardous trip. A great crowd witnessed the feat.

CHICAGO.—"F. M. Bowser" is the rapids shooting alias assumed by Peter Nissen; 578 Francisco avenue. He is 37 years old and has been a Chicago resident for 17 years.

CHICAGO.—The statement that Prof. M. I. Pupin of Columbia college, New York, has discovered a means by which conversation over a telephone wire can be carried on across the Atlantic does not find much credence among electrical authorities in this city.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 10, 1920.

CHICAGO.—Carl Wanderer, former army lieutenant, has solved the mystery surrounding the killing of his wife, Mrs. Ruth Wanderer, and the ragged stranger, in the vestibule of the Wanderer flat, 4732 North Campbell avenue, on the evening of June 21. Wanderer said he desired to get back in the army and wanted to secure his wife's savings of $1,500. He said he hired a tramp—unknown to him even by name—at Madison and Halsted streets, so that he could stage a mock holdup and kill both his bride, who was soon to become a mother, and his confederate. His confession came at the end of 16 hours' questioning by State's Attorney Hoyne; his secretary, George Kenney; Coroner Hoffman, Lieut. Loftis, and Detective Sergeants Norton and Grady. "I want to be hanged," he said after signing the confession. "I hope to join her in death. I loved her too much to let another man get her. But I didn't want her myself." The solution of the crime came through the tracing of the number on the pistol Wanderer had said was used by the ragged stranger. It was found the weapon had been purchased by Fred Wanderer, a cousin of Carl. There is no clew to the identify of the "ragged stranger."

RETALIATION.

Chicago, July 8.—Parking along the lake front in Evanston is for local residents only. Swimming at Main and Lee street beaches will be free to people from Evanston, but Chicagoans must pay 50c to 75c. Furthermore, if the latter dare to change their clothes behind the tightly drawn curtains of their coupé they land in jail. Let's reciprocate by charging every Evanstonian 25c admission to enter Chicago, an additional 25c to park his car on a public street, and require him to obtain a special nonresident permit if he wishes to work in our fair city. ELMER STAUBER.

THE GOLDEN RULE.

Chicago, July 8.—The Evanston folks seem to forget that the city of Chicago is practically their only means of livelihood. However, you Evanstonians may come into our beautiful city just as often as you wish, and I am sure you will be treated just as courteously as we can possibly treat you. You may use our beaches whenever you desire to do so," and without any additional charge. You may also use our beautiful parks in which to while away your leisure hours, and when our much talked of subway is completed you may use it upon payment of the usual carrying charge, which will be the same to both Evanstonians and Chicagoans. Remember, the Golden Rule builds empires.

MALCOLM STROM.

THE PATIENT PROVIDER.

Dubuque, Ia., July 5.—In your July 5 editorial you favor changing "Paw, papa, puppah, and dad" to "John," but didn't say if "mother" should be demoted to "Mary." Whether the omission was deliberate or not, you are wrong; in fact, the whole idea is a mistake. If mother is the only one to retain a title, then dad becomes more and more the patient provider you painted him.

Taking the subject as a whole, it is commonly felt that parents have already yielded up much of the authority they should exercise. If that be true, to take away from either of them the last vestige of dignity which they still retain would make the loosing of the reins that much nearer. Sad though it be that the responsibilities of parenthood have been so lightly carried by many parents, the fact is that the headship of the family must be held by them; if not jointly, then by one alone, which certainly calls for a distinctive title. Are we to give up our ideals because some people are too indifferent or weak to make them come true? V. J. S.

MR. HOOVER'S RESPONSIBILITY.

Chicago, July 1.—Martin M. Ward, writing in this column, asks, "I wonder what Mr. Hoover would say about present conditions if he were accepting the nomination today?"

Mr. Ward impresses one as being extremely funny or very ignorant. If he knew anything about a science known as economics—the production, distribution, and other factors entering into the essentials of man's use and benefit—he would know at once the approximate degree of responsibility to be placed on President Hoover for the present sorrowful unemployment situation.

JOHN J. MCNAMARA.

BUILDING HER NEST.

Chicago, July 8.—J. B. B., in Tuesday's TRIBUNE, like many others who write on the subject of married women working, drags in an example to illustrate his point. Then before he knows it the example works both ways. When he watched the robins, didn't he notice that the female robin helped build the nest? Of course he did, but he failed to apply that fact to us working wives.

Isn't the world full of young married women who are still working in an office or store to help build the nest, and are only too glad to settle down in that nest when financially able to? Do J. B. B. and others like him think it is a lot of fun getting up at the crack of dawn, going downtown every day, working all day for some one else, going home at night to get dinner, etc., far into the night?

Speaking as one who has done it for a long time, I find that the greatest fun connected with the idea is that in doing this I know I am contributing materially towards my son's education and a comfortable home for him, my husband and myself. I most assuredly am not going to continue working as a secretary to a man of many moods and tenses any longer than it is necessary, and when I do stay home it will be when my husband and I, not outsiders, who know nothing of our financial affairs, decide together that it is no longer an economic necessity for me to continue office work. Incidentally, I hire the hardest part of my housework done by a poor widow who needs the money badly. E. C. O.

MORE JOBS FOR MEN.

Chicago, July 8.—Every woman purchasing a can of meat, pastries or vegetables helps supply some man with work. If women suddenly decided to quit work, stay home and cook their family's meals, thousands upon thousands of men would be out of work. If women were to decide to make their children's clothes, the infant and children's clothing establishments would close. If women did not earn their pin money the beauty parlors would be a thing of the past.

I say women who work simply create more positions for men.

A. M. TURNER.

FOR THE SOFT PEDAL.

Marseilles, Ill., July 7.—This morning's paper carried giant headlines covering the air accidents over the holiday period. Two full columns were used to describe the deaths and the area covered extended from New York to the far west.

In the meantime a Chicago airport gave an air pageant in which there was material for a dozen columns of real news. If the people of this country are to become air minded the press must help. Why not headlines reading, "Twenty Thousand People Take First Air Ride," or "Nine Hundred Safe Landings Made in Four Hours"?

Contractors Asked to Use State Labor.

Springfield, Ill., July 9.—[Special.]—Bids totaling $4,100,225 for road work proposed by the state highway department were received here today by Chief Highway Engineer Frank T. Sheets and Director H. H. Cleaveland of the state department of public works and buildings. Included among the projects are considerable road widening, bridge widening, and grade separation work for the metropolitan area.

Director Cleaveland informed the contractors who bid on state road work that the state expects all successful bidders to employ Illinois' common labor.

He explained that he was prompted to announce this new policy because complaints have reached the department that certain contractors now engaged in state road work are using out-of-state common labor.

State Money for State's Men.

"Illinois money is paying for these roads," Director Cleaveland said, "and the state is of the firm conviction that the state's money should not be used to hire out-of-state labor.'

"We insist on successful contractors employing Illinois residents for their common labor tasks."

A preliminary examination of the bids received indicates the average cost per mile of concrete paving in this letting will be $28,760, including the cost of cement. In the letting, there were 2.35 miles of 40 foot pavement ;32.63 miles 20 feet in width, and 92.83 miles of 18 foot pavement and 9.41 miles of existing pavement to be widened to forty feet. In addition bids were received for 31.71 miles of grading and for 22 separate bridge sections.

Low Bidders Listed.

The apparent low bidders for work in the Chicago area of the state follow:

Route 1—Section 111-B, widening Little Calumet river bridge at 145th street, in Cook county, Joliet Bridge Construction company, $36,010.40.

Route 6—Section C-Y, G-Y, and J-Y, 10.73 miles of paving west of Wheaton to Hinsdale, Stanley Jaicks company, Oak Park, $263,172.92.

Route 6—Section J-B, bridge west of Hillside, The Acme Engineering and Construction company, Chicago, $30,446.30.

Route 18—Section 8 V-8 and 8 V-C, substructure and superstructure for the Indiana Harbor Belt railroad overhead bridge at La Grange, M. S. McDermott company, Chicago, $136,710.00.

Route 53—Section 539, 2.57 miles of paving between State street and Torrance avenue, Pronger Brothers, Blue Island, Ill., $89,954.17.

Champaign and Urbana Urge 40 Foot Road to Chicago

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Urbana, Ill., July 9.—[Special.]—This university town with its neighbor, Champaign, wants forty foot highway for the 128 miles from here to Chicago. Sixty public officials and civic leaders of the community met this noon and declared themselves united in an effort to obtain this road improvement.

With State Senator Henry Dunlap as chairman, the session adopted without a dissenting vote a resolution introduced by Mayor George B. Franks of Champaign petitioning next year's session of the legislature to appropriate for the widening of route 25 for the 79 miles from here to Kankakee. Route 49 in now forty feet wide from Kankakee to Chicago.

The improvement of route 25 is part of the Chicago Motor club's program for the state in 1932 and '33 to widen 864 miles of the highways radiating from Chicago, to construct 63 grade separations, and to complete the state bond issue system by laying 1,300 miles of new two lane pavement.

Entitled to 67 Per Cent.

The club's engineer, George W. Barton, showed that funds will be available, providing the greater metropolitan area, which pays 67 per cent of the state's total road bill, receives a proportionate share of the state's highway expenditures, rather than merely 37 per cent, as it has been getting in the past. The cost of the construction within the area bounded by the terminal of the proposed widening is estimated at $59,000,000.

"The next general assembly," said Senator Dunlap, "will be a road planning session. The state bond issue system is nearing completion. It is time for Illinois to look ahead to the next development in its highway system.

"This preliminary discussion is fitting. It is appreciated by the state's legislators. It gives the motoring public an opportunity to express its desires. And it is proper that the motoring public, which pays for the roads in vehicle registration fees and gasoline taxes, should dictate the expenditure of their money."

State Officials Sympathetic.

"I'm sure the administration will respond to the suggestions of the motorists," added Charles M. Hayes, president of the motor club. "Gov. Emmerson and his department head, Mr. Cleaveland, and his highway engineer, Mr. Sheets, are demonstrating their sympathy with the traffic problem of northern Illinois by widening the roads out of Chicago for approximately 35 miles during the current biennium. The motor club program calls for the extension of this widening for about 125 miles from the city."

Prof. James McL. White of the University of Illinois called the program a rational and feasible development in the evolution of the highway system. He said the school, which has a student body of more than 11,000, has felt the need for better automobile transportation facilities between the campus and Chicago.

Words of indorsement were spoken also by T. B. Webber, president of the Urbana chamber of commerce, and C. A. Kiler of the Champaign chamber of commerce.

LATHERS ASK $14 A DAY; NEW U. S. BUILDING HALTED

Washington, D. C., July 9.—(AP)—Work on the huge department of commerce building and half a dozen private construction operations was halted today by a strike of union lathers, demanding increased pay. The lathers, now receiving $12 a day, recently demanded an increase to $13 effective July 1, and a further increase to $14 on Oct. 1. The demand was refused by the employing plasterers association and the workers walked out.

USES HIS SPEECH FOR CANNON IN OWN CAMPAIGN

Richmond, Va., July 9.—[Special.]—Congressman Joseph C. Shaffer, Republican from the Ninth Virginia district, is franking out thousands of copies of a recent speech he made in the house defending Bishop James Cannon Jr., and prohibition. Most of them are being sent to the Ninth district.

Soon after he made the speech, Shaffer was told that it was interpreted in southwest Virginia as timed to fit into his program for the coming congressional campaign. He replied that it merely happened that attacks on Bishop Cannon in the house gave him an opportunity to make some remarks that he had planned a month earlier to make.

CENSUS REVEALS BIG INCREASE IN RACIAL GROUPS

Find 400,000 Poles in City, 200,000 Negroes.

Joseph Vesely, chairman of the Chicago census advisory committee, released estimates yesterday on the number of several alien and racial groups in Chicago. One of the most marked increases is that in the Polish population, which numbered 137,611 in 1920 while the estimated figures for 1930 is 400,000.

"These figures are necessarily only approximations but they are very nearly correct, having been calculated from the proportionate growth in population according to the last two counts," said Mr. Vesely.

Other Figures Released.

Mr. Vesely gave other estimates, as follows:

There are in excess of 200,000 Negroes living in Chicago as compared with the 109,458 in 1920. The Germans have increased from 112,288 to 350,000 and the Irish from 56,786 to 175,000. Other increases over figures gathered in the 1920 census are: Swedes, 58,563 to 175,000; Czecho-slovakians, 50,392 to more than 150,000; Danes, 11,268 to 30,000; Greeks, 11,646 to 60,000; Italians, 59,215 to 150,000, and Mexicans, 1,141 to 30,000.

"The 1920 figures refer to those born in the countries of their extraction," explained Mr. Vesely. "The fact that parentage is also counted in the 1930 figures accounts, in part, for the seemingly heavy increases in several cases. Using the two sets of figures together is not exactly valid, but it is the best we can do without relying altogether on guesswork."

Few Japanese in City.

Mr. Vesely said that revisions made in the immigration laws within the last few years have brought no marked changes in the different groups. There have never been many Japanese in the city, he said, the 1930 estimate being about 300. The number of Chinese is 2,353.

PITTSBURGH GIVEN 669,631 TOTAL IN REVISED FIGURES

Washington, D. C., July 9.—(AP)—The United States census bureau today announced a revised Pittsburgh, Pa., population of 669,631, a 13.8 per cent increase over 1920. As previously announced, the 1930 population of Pittsburgh was 644,795, a 9.6 per cent increase.

Kansas Grows 113,261.

Topeka, Kas., July 9.—(AP)—The population of Kansas increased 113,261, or 6.4 per cent, in the last ten years, preliminary census reports from all counties compiled by the Associated Press showed today.

The total 1930 population is 1,382,518 on the basis of returns which are subject to revision.

OFFICIALS ACT TO CURB SPREAD OF PARALYSIS

Los Angeles, Cal., July 9.—(AP)—Precautionary steps were being taken today by city and county health authorities to prevent spread of infantile paralysis, which, since June 1, has caused eleven deaths in Los Angeles county.

"The disease, as in many other cities, has been periodic here every two years," Dr. John L. Pomeroy, county health officer said. "It probably will last until late in August and then will disappear. It has not reached its peak yet. We generally have eighty cases a week and thus far have had but 47 a week.

"When it is considered there are at the present but 190 cases in a population of nearly 2,200,000, it can be seen the situation is not dangerous."

Health authorities are requesting parents to keep children away from theaters, churches, swimming pools and other gathering places.

AUSTRALIA FACES TREASURY DEFICIT OF 70 MILLIONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CANBERRA, Australia, July 9.—Prime Minister Scullin, in his budget speech today, announced that the government, in order to meet a deficit of $70,000,000 for the current financial year, was, among other measures, imposing additional customs and excise duties amounting to $18,500,000; increasing sales taxes by $25,000,000; increasing postage charges to secure an additional revenue of $5,000,000, and increasing income taxes by $4,250,000.

Among the new customs duties to be imposed are the following: Petrol, 6 cents a gallon; tobacco, 12 cents a pound; cigars, 6 cents a pound; films, 2 cents a foot; and newsprint, $4.86 a ton. The excise duty on beer is to be increased 4 cents a gallon.

The sales tax will apply to all commodities sold in Australia except goods for export and primary products. The postage on letters is to be increased from 3 to four cents an ounce.

On taxable incomes exceeding $2,000 the tax is to be increased 10 and 15 per cent.

Argentina Celebrates 114th Birthday of Freedom

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, July 9.—The 114th anniversary of the proclamation of Argentine independence was celebrated today. President Yrigoyen, accompanied by cabinet members and the diplomatic corps, attended the singing of a Te Deum at the cathedral. Later the president from the balcony of the government house reviewed a military parade in which more than 10,000 soldiers and sailors participated.

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

BERMUDA, July 9.—Parliament today rejected 16 to 15 a bill prohibiting the taking of liquor aboard ships bound for the United States. The measure was introduced as a good will gesture to aid American dry law enforcement, because it was feared the state department would discontinue waiving passports and injure tourist trade. Opponents objected to the measure on the principle of enforcing foreign laws.

Weizenberg and a companion were beaten by a crowd when they tried to distribute communist literature. Sergts. Do I look like an Enthusiast? I AM!

Listerine usually removes loose dandruff in 3 days

DOWN at the office the men under me say I'm a kill-joy. I seldom get enthusiastic about anything. But I want to tell you about my experience getting rid of dandruff. I have always had a good head of hair, and when I first began to be troubled by dandruff, I felt pretty worried. It's a humiliating thing at best. You feel guilty with those telltale flakes on your coat collar. Sort of ashamed to meet people. It's bad business.

Of course, the first thing I did was to go to my barber. "Nothing to it," he said. "I'll have you over that in a couple of weeks." You have probably heard that line yourself. Well, I let him wreak his vengeance on my scalp and hair with a lot of funny treatments that were a nuisance. Net result: just as much dandruff, if not more. Net loss: $12.

Then somebody said, "See a specialist."

Well, what that fellow did to my scalp was worse than the great war itself. He thumped it. He beat it. He photographed it. He rubbed it. He anointed it. He baked it. He dried it. He fanned it. Net cost: $25. And give him some credit—he did get rid of the dandruff—but only for a little while.

Then one morning my wife said to me, "Everett," she said, "why don't you try Listerine? A lot of the girls at the club have tried it and they say it gets rid of ordinary loose dandruff in no time."

Well, sir, I tried it. Just doused it on full strength, as they say in their ads, and massaged the scalp with the finger tips. And, by George, after the first treatment dandruff began to disappear. Right away my scalp began to feel like a million dollars. After another treatment, I couldn't find any dandruff at all, and my scalp was just as cool and healthy as a baby's. None of that old itching and burning. Net cost: 50¢. What's more, dandruff hasn't returned. Can you blame me for being enthusiastic about Listerine?

You can understand Listerine's success against dandruff when you realize that dandruff is a germ disease, and full strength Listerine kills germs in 15 seconds. Even the Staphylococcus Aureus (pus) and Bacillus Typhosus (typhoid) yield to it in counts ranging to 200,000,000.

Listerine first dislodges and dissolves the tiny scales which are the outward evidence of dandruff, then it soothes, cools, and heals the troubled scalp. The flesh tingles and glows with new health and invigoration.

If you have any evidence of this humiliating and dangerous condition, begin with Listerine at once. Remember that it is entirely safe, and douse it on the scalp full strength, then massage vigorously with the finger tips. Keep the treatment up as a part of the regular soap and water shampoo, or independent of it, until dandruff is under control. Lambert Pharmacal Co., St. Louis, Missouri, U. S. A.

DENEEN, GLENN FAIL TO AGREE ON PATRONAGE

Some Officials Will Hold Over for Recess.

Washington, D. C., July 9.—[Special.]—Inability of Senators Charles S. Deneen and Otis F. Glenn [Rep., Ill.] to reach an agreement on patronage is expected to mean that several Illinois federal offices whose terms either have expired or are about to expire will continue to hold their places during the recess of congress.

It is understood that Senator Glenn has demanded that he be given a share of the more important patronage. Senator Deneen, who goes out of office next March, has tentatively promised to support several present officials for reappointment but probably will find it necessary to sacrifice some of them in order to save others.

New Senator May Have Voice.

Failure of Senators Deneen and Glenn to agree upon a program involving the filling of the places that expire this year and the early part of next year will mean that Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick, if elected to the Deneen seat, will be in a position to figure in the naming of the successors to present officials.

Terms of two Illinois district attorneys, Walter M. Provine in the southern district and Harold G. Baker in the eastern district expired on July 1. The term of Anthony Czarnecki as collector of customs at Chicago expires on Aug. 2. Arthur C. Lueder has been holding on as postmaster at Chicago for a long time without a definite reappointment.

Several Terms Expire Soon.

Terms of several officials expire shortly before Senator Deneen is to leave the senate, that of District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson at Chicago being up on Feb. 6, 1931, and that of Arthur R. Clark, marshal in the eastern district, on Feb. 28, 1931.

District Attorneys Johnson and Provine, both strong Deneen men, are said to be aspirants for appointment for the new judgeships proposed for Illinois. Mrs. McCormick is credited with having blocked the Chicago judgeship bill in the house.

ESTATE ACCOUNTING SHOWS EARNINGS OF PULITZER "TRUSTS"

New York, July 9.—[Special.]—The securities and cash composing the principal of the "newspaper trusts" established in the will of Joseph Pulitzer, founder of the New York World, have yielded an income of $9,448,345 since Oct. 22, 1919, it was disclosed today when the trustees filed an accounting in connection with the judicial settlement of the estate. The report covers the period ranging from that date, when the last accounting was made, to April 7, last.

The trustees of the "newspaper trusts" are Mr. Pulitzer's three sons, Ralph and Herbert, whose address is given as 63 Park Row, and Joseph Pulitzer Jr. of St. Louis.

The securities include 4,852 shares of stock in the Press Publishing company, publishers of the World and the Evening World in New York City, and 8,609 shares of stock in the Pulitzer Publishing company, publisher of the St. Louis Post-Distpatch. The accounting shows that the Press Publishing company has paid no dividends on its stock since Jan. 21, 1928, when it paid $97,040.

1,833,000 Out of 2,636,000 German Jobless Paid Doles

BERLIN, July 9.—(AP)—The number of unemployed in Germany receiving government doles at the end of June was officially announced today as 1,833,000. This is 900,000 more than a year ago. The total number of unemployed at the end of June, 1930, was 2,636,000.

5,000 MOB U.S. AGENTS; STEAL SEIZED BEER

Camden, N. J., July 9.—[Special.]—Nearly 5,000 men, women, and children, many of whom carried pails, dishpans and other containers, while some brought only a thirst, brushed aside federal agents and attempted to salvage a carload of beer as it was being dumped in South Camden this afternoon.

As the agents drew the bung from each keg, the crowd rushed forward, fighting to fill its containers or scoop up hands full of the beverage to drink on the spot. While the harassed agents battled with their assailants in one spot, bolder members of the crowd rolled away whole kegs from other points. Chief of Police Lewis H. Stehr, to whom an emergency call finally was sent, ordered a special detail of fifteen policemen to the scene to restore order.

The car loaded with beer was discovered by the federal agents last night on a railroad siding here.

What's more Refreshing than an

to suit your taste?

IT'S "OPEN SEASON" for tea, coffee and fruit drinks chilled with ice and made inviting and delicious with sugar.

IS THERE anything more musical than the clink of ice in a tall glass of iced tea or coffee? Is there anything more intriguing than to watch a spoonful of sugar sift slowly down and vanish in the cool depths? And is there anything more refreshing and relaxing than to sip the beverage thus flavored with sugar?

Summer is a grand opportunity to enjoy the flavor that sugar brings. Aside from home-made beverages, sugar enhances the flavor of fresh fruits which are so abundant. And cool, green salads are much more delicious when the dressing has been flavored with a dash of sugar.

Even cooked fresh vegetables are more appetizing when seasoned with sugar. A dash of sugar to a pinch of salt is a good rule to follow. The sugar restores the sweetness that some vegetables lose so soon after they are picked.

To enjoy meals this summer, eat plenty of fresh vegetables and fruit. Drink cooling beverages. Help yourself to ice cream. Just remember that most foods are more delicious and nourishing with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

BRITAIN BLAMED FOR HOLY LAND RIOTS BY LEAGUE

Laxity by Mandatory Power Charged.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 9.—Severe criticism of the British administration in Palestine is contained in the report of the league of nations' mandates commission after an inquiry into the Holy Land riots, it was learned tonight.

"The British government should have taken action before September, 1929," the commission declares. "The administration has not always made timely use of the power in its hands."

The principal cause of the spread of trouble with the Arabs and of the "ensuing serious consequences," the report contends, were the limited number of British troops and the inadequacy of the police force. The commission holds that the Palestine disorders cannot be considered as having suddenly arisen in a serene political atmosphere, pointing out that they were preceded by a series of warning incidents with the Wailing Wall as the evident center of discontent.

Blame Squarely Fixed.

Concerning the quarrels between the Arabs and the Jews, the commission expresses itself as "not satisfied that the merciful view, taken by a majority of members of the British commission of inquiry into the attitude of the Arab leaders, is justified."

The mandates commission further holds that the British declaration that the Palestine movement was not directed against British authority is hardly justified.

"Without a doubt," the report says, "the Arab attacks were directed only against the Jews, but the resentment of the Arabs, who took part in them, had its source in political conditions. For these we hold responsible those interested in the execution of the mandate—in the first place, the British government."

National Home for Jews.

The report gives an unfavorable impression of the methods employed by the mandatory power and does not conceal regret that, in certain respects, "the mandatory power has not to date succeeded in the total execution of the mandate." The report emphasizes Britain has not carried out its obligation for encouraging the establishment of a national home for the Jews, and that it has failed to assure conditions essential to the development of a national center for the Jewish race—security for life and property.

The report adds that the mandatory power's slackness in some particulars, in the face of such unprecedented happenings, as the Zionist movement, has hurt other than Jewish interests.

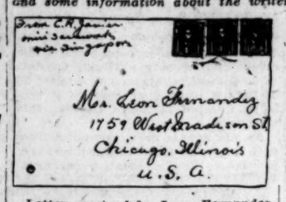
The commission also holds that the mandatory power might have succeeded in reconciling the interests of Palestine's population. Steps taken by the British government in order to prevent further disturbances were approved by the commission, which holds that the obligations laid down by the mandate in favor of the two sections of the population are of equal importance and are by no means irreconcilable.

POCKET PICKED ON STREET CAR.

Joseph Strassler, 5541 South Throop street, reported yesterday that his pocket had been picked of $79 while he stood on the platform of a southbound surface car at 47th street and Ashland avenue.

INTERESTING LETTERS

If you have received a letter from an interesting or little known place send the envelope to The Tribune, stating name of place where it was mailed and some information about the writer of the letter.



Letter received by Leon Fernandez, 1759 West Madison street, Chicago:

"I received this letter from a friend of mine, C. R. Javier, proprietor of a dressing parlor in the town of Miri, Sarawak, Borneo," Mr. Fernandez writes. "I made his acquaintance while traveling through the cities of the East Indies.

"Miri, Sarawak, is not a large place, having a population of only about 1,500 inhabitants, divided among Dayaks, Malays, Chinese, Europeans, Filipinos, and a few Americans. The principal product of the place is oil, the Sarawak oilfield being located in the vicinity. This oilfield is controlled by the British government.

"Miri is a happy place, due to its cosmopolitan inhabitants. The Malay opera also is located there, the only one of its kind in the territory."

Sarawak is a country on the northwest coast of Borneo. It is under British protection, being ruled by an English rajah. It has an area of about 50,000 square miles, and lofty mountains are found in its interior. The capital also is named Sarawak. It is divided into a native and European town. The town has several Anglican and Catholic missions, and carries on an active trade. It has forts, a rajah's palace, barracks, prison, and museum. Good roads lead into the interior for considerable distances.

LOSER OF THREE HOTELS ORDERED TO PAY ALIMONY

Frank Gartenberg told Superior Judge Williams yesterday how too many wives had wrecked a once prosperous hotel business. He was in court to plead for a reduction of his $30 a week alimony payments to Mrs. Sadie Gartenberg, 3431 Castello avenue, his first wife. He lost, however, and was ordered to pay or go to jail.

When his first wife won a divorce in June, 1929, he was forced to give her one of his four hotels, Gartenberg testified. Two months later he married again. His second wife divorced him in December, 1929, and won a hotel in the property settlement. Last January he married again, but wife number three obtained a divorce and one of his hotels four months later.

Gartenberg explained that he has married again and his last remaining hotel barely produces enough income to support his wife.

CANADA COWBOY WINS COURT FIGHT FOR AN EARLDOM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 9.—The counter claim to an earldom and a fortune of $2,500,000 which was brought by an aged optician, Robert Pownall, who has been living on an old age pension, was denied by a court decision today, which granted the right to the estate of the Earl of Egmont to Frederick J. Perceval, former Alberta ranch hand.

Pownall, who is 74 years old, claimed the descent through an adventurous wastrel son who was turned out by the family as a boy. According to his story he commanded Great Britain's largest warship in 1790 at the age of 22 and later married an illiterate girl and disappeared in disgrace. He cited mentions of the marriage in the British museum archives and stated that his dying father exacted a promise that he would claim the title.

The court held that Perceval was the most direct descendent and ordered that the great estate be handed over the former cow puncher. The costs were assessed against Pownall, despite his plea of poverty. Perceval, who has moved to Avon castle with his 15 year old son, is now firmly in possession of the estate and his next step is to secure a seat in the house of lords.

Award Evanston Attorney Son Pending Suit Outcome

John H. Babb, an Evanston attorney, was awarded custody of his two year old son, Donald, by Circuit Judge Lynch yesterday, pending the final outcome of his suit for divorce against Mrs. Jessie Babb, 5750 Stony Island avenue. Mr. Babb testified his wife admitted to him last March that she had been carrying on a love affair with Elmer Voight, also an attorney and a fraternity brother of Babb's, when they attended the University of Chicago. Mrs. Babb, who is contesting her husband's suit, charges Babb with being friendly with two women.

Old-time Ads Had Slower Tempo

Back in the eighties, horse-cars rambled down the streets of Chicago. Garfield Park was a remote place in the country. Austin, Rogers Park, Hyde Park, Lakeview and Englewood were self-governing communities. But even then, people were sending want ads to the Chicago Tribune.

Advice on Love

Some of them were strikingly different from anything to be seen in Tribune columns to-day. For example:

ASTONISHING TO ALL — MRS. Frank is the best adviser on love, money, absent friends, business. Call or write to 170 W. Madison St. Fee, 50c and $1.

The spirits with whom Mrs. Frank conversed must have been versatile shades. The roar of the Loop probably drove them away from their old haunts long ago.

Pasturage in Loop

Here's another creature which would be hard put to find pasturage in this late day:

STRAYED OR STOLEN—FROM 63 Wells street, young cow near to calve; has short curved horns and hair off breast. Return and receive reward.

Shin Bones and Ram's Horns

Street Car Romance

Personals were more explicit in that long-gone day. This might have been the beginning of a romance:

PERSONAL — THURSDAY AFTERnoon, will the party who inquired if "the Halsted street cars ran on Madison street" and afterwards took Archer Ave. car please send her name and address in confidence to the one who gave her information? Q 83 Tribune office.

Some one is going to have the trip that almost everyone wants, through this want ad in a recent edition of the Chicago Tribune.

Here You'll Find Personal History of Unsung Public

Some day some astute historian, seeking for a true record of this era will turn to the newspapers and thoughtfully read the wants ads. Even better than the news that crowds the daily press these brief messages express the spirit of the times. They are the direct expressions of the public, unedited and leaping from the heart.

Largest Shopping Crowd

Histories commonly are chronicles of heroes, of warriors and statesmen. The public appears in them but seldom. And then only as a mass, inarticulate and unidentifiable. Want ads are the history of the public written by the public. They are unique in world literature. They serve as the connectives of social movements, preserving the identity of the individual.

Social and Economic Value

Through them the units of the mass stand revealed. No cultural or political system dooms them to oblivion. Setting out the hopes and the desires and the needs of individuals, want ads are the creation of the individual. They are of the crowd.

Designed to help satisfy countless thousands who have wants to fill, want ads are the world's largest mart. In these columns thousands of sellers appeal to millions of buyers daily. Attracting throngs as no ordinary store or market ever dreamed of, want ads are the most economic means to satisfaction and profit.

ODD JOBS

The Odd Jobs column has attracted plenty of entries this week. Here's a chance to check on the odd things people do:

DOCTOR—OLD EXPD., TO GIVE snappy 5 min. health lectures over radio; gd. fut. to right man; give past exp., sal. to start, etc. Address N K 000, Tribune.

Dead or Alive?

MINK SALESMAN. A-1 salesman to represent us in Chi. territory. Wonderful opportunity for good organizer and salesman. Possibility of $2,000 to $10,000 in 6 months. Mink and Fur Farm, Blank Falls, Wisconsin.

This looks like a case of someone trying to lure the trained animals away from the circus. We've seen animals that could ring bells, count, jump through hoops and swallow peanuts whole, but never one that could sell.

Leather Pancakes

Pancake leather has a number of uses, particularly in the young bride's kitchen. It's bad for the digestion when used as an ingredient of leather pancakes, but its popularity is surprisingly widespread. This may be a big opportunity!

Why Not Get Together?

Both of these ads appeared under "Boats, Yachts, Etc.", in a recent issue of the Tribune:

LAND, SO CHEAP FEW YEARS AGO, NOW SKY HIGH

Opportunities Still To Be Found

There is probably no better indicator of the opportunities for making large profits or even a fortune through Tribune Want Ads than the old files of the Chicago Tribune.

Glancing through the columns the other day, we found real estate offered for sale at prices which today would be ridiculous. Corners that were empty prairies then have now been important business spots for years, carrying price tags five, ten or twenty times the cost of the property fifty years ago.

Some people answered those Want Ads. Some people cashed in on the phenomenal growth of Chicago. Today they or their families can sell for a small fortune land that they bought for a song. In their day, they saw opportunity, seized it by the scruff. A. D. 1930 finds them affluent, comfortable citizens.

They had no better chance than present day Chicagoans. The city and its suburbs still grow, still push out farther over the prairie. New and thriving business and residential sections still spring up overnight. And the Real Estate columns of the Chicago Tribune still point the way for wise investors who, looking into the future, decide to profit by Chicago's inevitable growth.

Did You Overlook This Chance of A Lifetime?

Everybody, somewhere in the back of his consciousness, cherishes the hope of getting the one big "break." He may think that there's a sizeable inheritance around the corner. Or a 100-to-1 shot on the race-track. Or a killing in the market. Or an unexpected promotion.

Once in a while, something of the kind happens. Here's a case which appeared in the Tribune recently where some deserving person or couple will get a great chance to be independent. Read this Want Ad. The Tribune has checked up on it and found it to be a bona fide offer. Naturally, the advertiser has been swamped with answers:

BUSINESS MAN, WISHING TO RETire July 1st, will give away absolutely free to deserving and ambitious man, women or couple, a $20,000 profitable paying business, established 28 years, which can be conducted by any one, without any obligation whatsoever. Capable and worthy people or parties wishing to recommend anyone apply to Box 000, Redlands, Cal.

HERE'S LOTS OF HELP FOR VACATIONISTS!

Cottages for Rent and for Sale
Service for Moving Furniture
Automobiles
Special Excursion Rates
Board and Lodging at Summer Resorts
Complete Camping Outfits
Luggage of All Kinds
Sporting Equipment
Boats, Yachts, Etc.

Find Any Unusual Want Ads? $1 Each for Best Comments!

What's your idea of an interesting or unusual or different want ad? Among the recent issues of the Tribune have you come across any want ads which have aroused your curiosity or stirred your imagination?

Clip out the ad and write your comment. Tell us why you think the ad is interesting. If we print your comment, we'll pay you $1 in cash!

Just look through the Tribune Want Ad Section. Every day in these columns you can find dozens of want ads that are out-of-the-ordinary. Certain ads may give you certain ideas that wouldn't occur to anybody else.

What are those ideas? Does the ad make you laugh? Does it arouse your curiosity? Does it stir your imagination? Does it make you wonder why it was put into the paper? Does it remind you of some experience of your own?

Let's have your comments. Try to make them no longer than 50 words. And remember, it's the idea that will count—not how you say it. We're not interested in "fine writing." All we want is ideas. Ads like the following, for instance, might provide material for comment. But find your own examples! It's easy. We found these in a single issue of the Tribune:

$25 REWARD for recovery of cat, white and tiger stripe, missing from 0000 Blackstone-av., June 7th. Knows word "fish." Answers to Ted. Call Mrs. Blank, Hinsdale 00.

Address your comments to "Interesting Want Ads," Chicago Tribune, Room 1015, Tribune Tower, Chicago. Clip or copy the want ad and give the date it appeared in the Tribune. Look through the Want Ad Section now!

BLOW YOUR OWN HORN IN EUROPE

THE North Shore has some dandy motor roads. But aren't you too familiar with them all, from Lincoln Park to Lake Forest? Have you heard them raving about the roads in England? Long, wide and lovely. Speed regulations? Never heard of them. You step on the accelerator and whiz through the lichen and the dialects. Or loiter and make goo-goo eyes at gentle meadow, thatched cottages or apple-cheeked babies.

Take your purring engine and your streamline body abroad with you.

Or you'll never know why automobiles were really invented.

Here's a canny little suggestion. Motor up north from London. Investigate the tidy prettiness of the English country. Drive through lanes greener than they have a right to be. Under trees through which the sunlight has been filtering for centuries.

If you crave historic spots, there's everything from Shakespeare to Henry James; and don't forget North Wales, along the sea to Llandudno.

WHAT A DRIVE THAT IS!

Then there's the whole lake country. Worth an entire new set of poems.

If by that time you are getting homesick for the sight and sound of Michigan Avenue and the Boulevard Bridge, take the Franconia or Carinthia from Liverpool. You'll be ready for a big, new, comfortable ship, with active games or for that precious indolence which is the gift of a luxury-promoting steamer. There's a swimming pool. There's a large gymnasium. There's everything to encourage you to make next season's reservation as soon as you reach New York.

3 GENERATIONS START SEAWAY JOURNEY TODAY

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Anchored at the foot of the Sanitary district dock at 31st street and Western avenue, a little home made 16 by 6 foot boat of new pine boards is swishing back and forth in the unromantic waters of the drainage canal. At 8 o'clock this morning it will embark on an adventure of romance, headed for the muddy old Mississippi and maybe New Orleans.

Aboard it will be a 72 year old man, his son and his grandson. They are Francis F. Livingston, Janesville, Wis.; William F. Livingston, 44 years old, science teacher in Herzl Junior high school, and his son, Bill, 18 years old, a pupil at Crane Technical high school. Bill and his father live at 222 South Albany street.

Like Huck Finn, Bill has his dreams, but he doesn't like any obvious romancing about his voyage, or any reference to Mark Twain's youthful heroes. This thing is business to him. He is going to be a naturalist, and this trip is by way of training.

In the cabin, which is 6 feet high and 12 feet long, is stowed, among other things, a butterfly net, chloroform and a mounting board, for Bill's use. His father will take along a camera. The grandfather will take along a fishing rod. In addition, the son has his guitar, and the grandson his harmonica, for use on moonlit evenings to accompany the song of the Mississippi.

"We may never get to New Orleans," the science teacher said last night as the three of them prepared to spend the night in their canvas bunks built in the cabin. "We don't care. We're just going to meander along for a couple of months. We'll stop in time to get back to Chicago by train before school begins."

When they reach the Father of Waters, which they may do in two weeks, the current will take them along at a rate of 8 miles an hour, Mr. Livingston estimates. They will do most of their traveling at night. One man will stand watch with a skull oar aft of the boat, guiding it when necessary. The Mississippi will do the rest.

WARS ON CLOTH SIGNS.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 9.—[Special.]—Leon M. Gurda, building inspector, instituted a campaign today to remove cloth signs from the city. He said he would obtain an opinion from the city attorney on the legality of the proposal and confer with the police department on systematic enforcement of it.

30 COAST PICKET BOATS ADDED TO LAKE DRY FLEET

Washington, D. C., July 9.—[Special.]—Another contribution of the seventy-first congress toward drying the country of illicit liquor will be manifest by the end of the summer when thirty new coast guard picket boats put in their appearance on the great lakes for service against rum runners.

Contracts for these boats, authorized by congress upon a special request of President Hoover, have been let and all are now under construction—twenty-two at Benton Harbor and twelve at Brooklyn. They are to be about thirty-six foot craft, to bear no guns save the arms of their crews, and upon completion will take their place along with a large number of similar boats and seized rum launches which have been confiscated and put into service.

While these boats are in immediate prospect another type, whose design is being carefully guarded by the coast guard, is soon to be proposed for the whisky war service. This new type is understood to be much larger, probably around 1,500 tons, being designed for and to be used in trailing rum smugglers.

Coast guard officers declined to discuss the prospective new cruiser today other than to admit it is being designed.

The Spirit of Progress is a famous statue on the original Montgomery Ward & Co. Building, Michigan Boulevard, Chicago. For generations it has been a symbol of leadership and inspiration for this great world-wide organization.

The Spirit of Progress Guides Montgomery Ward & Co.

Starting as the original mail order house and now operating the world's largest general merchandise chain, we continue to strive to realize the ideals of leadership which our symbol represents 18,000,000 people will see this announcement in more than 650 of the nation's leading newspapers this morning.

You are personally interested in this important message and will be well repaid for the time you take to read every word.

Leadership demands action. A great deal has been said and written about unemployment and poor business. You read much about the reduced purchasing power of the average citizen—but what about his paying power?

Despite the unemployment, the present average weekly payroll of America is estimated at $840,000,000. In addition, the registered savings accounts total over twenty-seven billion dollars and are steadily increasing. Yes, there is ample paying power. But we believe that general business will improve only when the buying public are satisfied that prices to them (and that means to you) reflect the new low commodity levels.

In our judgment, commodity prices are scraping bottom today. We do not say that there will not be some further declines, but broadly speaking, current prices are the lowest in years, in some cases the lowest in 15 to 20 years.

Leadership Demands Action

Montgomery Ward & Co. is placing orders for millions of dollars worth of merchandise at these new low commodity levels. There are 120,000,000 American people to be fed, clothed, sheltered and entertained; and regardless of unemployment, poor export business, low agricultural prices, etc., the requirements of the American nation total a huge sum.

New Fall Prices Now

For many years it has been the custom of Montgomery Ward & Co. to make Fall prices effective when our Fall and Winter Catalogue is distributed, about September 1st.

Months ago we cut prices. During the past 60 days there have been further declines in the cost prices of many items of merchandise—and all these low prices we are making effective at once—so that as far as Montgomery Ward & Co. customers are concerned, they need not wait for lower prices. Ward's prices are down NOW to the new commodity levels.

How Do You Judge a Low Price?

Only by the dependable quality you receive.

There is nothing cheap about Montgomery Ward & Co. merchandise. We have never sacrificed quality to make low prices, and despite the surprising savings that are possible on thousands of different articles which we sell through our catalogues and Retail Stores, you can buy from us with complete confidence.

There is a good deal in the papers now about the Byrd Antarctic Expedition. They used more than 7,000 articles selected from our regular stocks and they used them under conditions where quality and dependability meant life itself. Their verdict was radioed to us in March from Dunedin, New Zealand, "Satisfactory in all respects."

Our method of doing business can be stated in one phrase—

"You Must Be Satisfied"

The goods you buy from us must be "satisfactory in all respects." Leadership demands action. In making our Fall prices effective now, we are doing something definite to establish public confidence in new price levels and we are taking this constructive step to stimulate the use of your buying power.

For years we have recognized the conveniences and advantage of the Time Payment method. We are selling annually many millions of dollars of goods on Easy Payments. Basically the American Public is honest, meets its just obligations. On that belief we have never hesitated to sell on time. Over a period of many years, our experience has been thoroughly satisfactory and our bad debt losses negligible.

Now, for the first time in the history of American merchandising, a national institution offers this Time Payment opportunity

Beginning today and continuing until September 15, Montgomery Ward & Co. will sell you any merchandise shown in its catalogues or Retail Stores (excepting groceries) on the Easy Payment Plan, provided your order totals $25 or more

We have begun the mailing of 10,000,000 announcements to our customer list, giving full details. Visit the Ward Store in your neighborhood for complete information. We know this offer will bring us additional business. It will make us new friends. It will acquaint great numbers of people with the dependable quality and the low prices that are the foundation of our business.

We consider it a constructive move (one of the very few that have been made thus far) to stimulate consumer buying. Even a small upturn in demand will start orders to factories, wheels turning, unemployment lessening and a resultant upward trend to our general business structure and prosperity.

Many will praise us for this move, some will criticize us. I hope that other institutions, large and small, will follow with their constructive plans to persuade the public to use its paying power. In his first daily newspaper article of July 1st, Calvin Coolidge said,

"My countrymen, it is time to stop criticizing and quarreling and begin sympathizing and helping."

Prices based on the new low commodity levels, quality goods of absolute dependability, our policy of "You must be Satisfied" and now this great 60-day Easy Payment opportunity. Surely these combine to bring you economy, convenience and satisfaction in your buying.

Yours sincerely,

George B. Everitt
President.

REDS WIN FOURTH IN ROW FROM CUBS, 4 TO 3

He'll Be Favorite in Classic, of Course.

What price Gallant Fox in the $70,000 added Classic at Arlington Park on Saturday afternoon?

A horde of easterners arriving on the scene of the 3 year old championship struggle yesterday were willing to wager all they had on the Fox at 1 to 2. Westerners didn't want to take the money at those odds.

"Gallant Fox will be 1 to 10 when he pokes his nose up against the barrier," was the way one wise westerner horseman sized up the situation.

"Gallant Knight will be 4 to 1 and the second choice," he said, "and Snowflake will be the third choice at around 10 to 1."

Dustemall Also Favored.

An almost definite decision yesterday that Harry Payne Whitney's fleet filly Dustemall will run may find the daughter of Chicle down around 8 or 10 to 1 when the speculation on the Classic ends, for she made many friends when she scored at a mile Tuesday. The Classic field last night, after most of the candidates had been idle throughout the day because of a muddy track, loomed up as follows:

Horse.	Wt.	Jockey.
Gallant Fox	126	E. Sande
Dustemall	118	R. Workman
Snowflake	118	L. Schaefer
Cargoe	121	J. Inzelone
Black Maiesty	121	J. O'Hara
High Foot	119	J. Marcum
Ned O.	119	J. D. Mooney
Flocky Play	119	D. Trivett
Dark Sea	119	F. Coluletti

The running of the Wilmette purse at seven furlongs at Arlington this afternoon may bring two more candidates into the Classic. Four Classic eligibles meet in this contest, including High Foot, Ned O., Breezing Thru, and Swinfield. It is fairly certain that High Foot and Ned O. will go in the Classic, but if Swinfield and Breezing Thru both should turn in impressive races today their names will no doubt be added to the Classic field.

Galaday Runs Today.

The Kentucky filly Galaday will also start today in the North Chicago handicap, and if she should show the same brilliant speed in this race that she has shown in her workouts she may go into the Classic. If the track is muddy when the field parades for the Classic, Alcibiades will be among the starters.

Gallant Fox was only cantered over the muddy Arlington course yesterday morning, but he looks more like the super-thoroughbred every time he steps out on the track. A defeat for him in the Classic will be a severe shock to the thousands of easterners here for the great race, and it will also be just about as shocking to the thousands of westerners who will be in the audience.

That a crowd of 50,000 or more will see the Classic was indicated last night when officials of the Arlington Jockey club announced that every available reserved box seat ticket had been sold. But there is still the monstrous grand stand, which seats 22,000, and the spacious lawns for those who did not make their reservations in advance.

Sandy Ford Wins.

The racing at Arlington yesterday, over a muddy but fast drying out track, bordered on the sensational. It also proved that Willie Shea's Sandy Ford, which won the Dixie handicap in Maryland last spring, is not a horse with which liberties can be taken. For Sandy Ford, under a brilliant ride by E. Watters, beat the mighty mud runner, Petee Wrack, by about an inch in the Fox Lake handicap. William T. was third.

Sandy Ford and Petee Wrack were making their first starts here, and the support all went to Petee Wrack. But Sandy Ford was always up there fighting for the lead and headed into the stretch a nose in front of Petee Wrack. That was the way they ran all the way down to the line of finish, and Sandy Ford was good enough to keep his nose bobbing in front of Petee Wrack's past the wire.

Mrs. John Hertz's Valenciennes won the Good and Gay handicap from Chelys, Supreme Sweet, and Morjoy, while the Reuter stable's Galahad accounted for the Waukegan. He came from behind and beat Suitor by five lengths. Canaan was third. Galahad was the even money favorite.

Two Jockeys Suspended.

The judges were ruling with an iron hand during the afternoon. Jockey V. Ghesquire was suspended for the remainder of the meeting for an unsatisfactory ride on Juggler in the second race. Jockey P. Garrity also drew a similar suspension for an incompetent ride on Brown Wisdom in the Fox Lake handicap.

In the sixth race, after the Reuter stable's Volt Meter had knocked Betty Barrett to her knees in a bumping match in the stretch, Volt Meter was disqualified and Betty Barrett declared the winner. This gave second money to Black Cloud and third place to Honey Grove. It was the first disqualification of the Chicago season.

Huske Beats Medalist in District Golf

Al Huske of Briergate eliminated the medalist, Rial Rolfe of Ridgemoor, 3 and 2, in the second round of the Chicago district amateur golf tournament yesterday at the Calumet Country club. Rolfe had been forced to the limit in his morning match to beat Dick Mullin of La Grange 1 up on the 19th.

Two of the second round encounters went to extra holes. Lew Levinson of Bryn Mawr holed an eight foot putt for a birdie 3 to beat Alden B. Swift of Onwentsia on the 20th green, and Charles Becka of Calumet made a 3 on the 22d, while George Blossom of Shore Acres was taking a par 4.

Joe Bour of Calumet beat George W. Thomas of Olympa Fields, 2 and 1. Fred Lyon of Pontiac, western junior champion, and a mainstay of the University of Illinois golf team, was defeated by Jack Westland of Sunset Ridge, 1 up, and Gus Fetz of Mid-City put Frank Justin of Edgewood Valley into discard, 5 and 4.

Bob Crowe of Bunker Hill and Hunter Hicks of Skokie clung close to par. Crowe missed a putt at the fifth and Hicks did the same at the sixth. At the short eighth Crowe sent his tee shot high in the air and the ball buried itself in the green and he lost the hole. They turned square, however, with 37 each. Both won a hole on the last nine and came to the eighteenth even. Hicks was well down on his drive but sent his next one into a trap and lost a stroke which cost him the match, as Bob was down in a birdie 4. Bob had 37—36—73 and Hicks two 37's for 74.

Bour and Thomas were even up in their affair at the end of nine holes. Bour got two birdies in the next three holes and Thomas one. They went to the 15th where Thomas was trapped and two down. Bour halved the next one and took the match, 2 and 1. Bour had 40—35—75 and Thomas a 40—37—77.

Fetz had little trouble with Justin. He won three holes going out and turned 3 up in even par 36. Justin, who could not control his shots, used 39 strokes out. Fetz won two more holes on the last nine, Justin failing again to get a hole, and the match ended on the 14th green.

The quarter finals will be played this morning and the semi-finals this afternoon.

141 OUT TO GET BOBBY JONES IN U. S. OPEN TODAY

All Admit Atlantan's the One to Beat.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 9.—(AP)—The battle of the bunkered hills of Interlachen, with Bobby Jones defending his national open golf crown against the cream of the American amateur and professional crop, begins tomorrow with every prospect that the king of the royal and ancient realm will have a fight on his hands.

Once again, on the eve of the greatest of American golf classics, it is "Jones against the field." With the monarch of the fairways back from an all-conquering invasion of Great Britain, fit for another struggle, his followers are confident he will sustain his triumphant march.

Strong Pro Challenge.

The sweltering gallery of ringside experts, in addition to a fair share of the field of 142 scheduled starters themselves, was not quite so sure that Bobby would win. Quite naturally, they regarded the great Georgian as the man to beat, under any and all circumstances. Jones has demonstrated often enough for them that laws of averages, precedents and all that sort of thing can be tossed out so far as his golfing achievements are concerned. On the other hand, the professional challenge to Bobby's domination looms as the strongest combined attack mustered in many years.

Walter Hagen, keen and more anxious than ever to regain prestige he has lost on an American links in the last few years, is generally regarded as the old guardsman most likely to make trouble for Jones or any one else who threatens to move out in front. The most colorful of the professional veterans has come back from the far east primed to shoot some of his flashiest golf. As proof of this he has twice shot the outgoing nine in 32, four under par.

Others Conceded a Chance.

Well liked, too, are the chances of Gene Sarazen and Johnny Farrell; Denny Shute of Columbus, O., the slim sharp shooter who came close to bagging the big prize a year ago; Tommy Armour and MacDonald Smith, a brace of superlative iron players on a course where this ability pays dividends; youthful professionals like Horton Smith and Henry Ciuci of Stratford, Conn., who shot a sparkling 69 yesterday, three under par, and came back with a 71 today.

Tomorrow calls for the first 18 holes of the 72 hole scoring battle, with 18 more on Friday and 36 Saturday.

Reduction of the field to 142 was caused by five additional withdrawals. They were Fred Brand of Sweickley, Pa.; Ted Longworth of Fort Worth, Tex.; H. E. Walter of Gary, Ind.; George Underwood of Wilkinsburg, Pa., and Charles McAndrew of Bennett Shores, R. I. Previously withdrawn were the amateur trio of Rolland MacKenzie, Francis Ouimet, and Dr. O. F. Willing.

TWINS ENTER TRIBUNE RACES

Big Shot Cole Reaches End of His Riches

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 9.—On a warm afternoon last year Jack Dempsey bounced aboard a train at Manhattan Transfer, bound for Chicago, to hang out his shingle as a promoter of prize fights at the old Coliseum. He was laughing.

"That guy Cole," Mr. Dempsey giggled, "he wants his forty thousand dollars back. Mr. Cole is a marvel. He ain't real, but his money is. He pays me forty grand for an option on my services as promoter for a big New York fight club. He was going to build a house bigger than the Garden. Jack Fugazy was supposed to get up the plans. He moved into Fugazy's office for a while, and then he said, 'This is a terrible dump for a big millionaire like me. People will think we're pikers if they ever see us in here.' So he said, 'Come, everybody; I'm going out and rent a big suite of offices in some big building.'

Gets Armful of Cabs.

"Well," Mr. Dempsey went on, easing out of his tweed jacket and ringing for a table, with rhummy in his soul. "We all got in the elevator and went down to Broadway and this Cole begins yelling and clapping his hand for taxicabs. A big cab hauled up. There was only six of us, so we could have piled in, but Cole kept on hollering for more cabs until he had three jammed up in the traffic together. He said nobody ought to ride more than two in a cab if they were connected with big millionaires.

"So we divided up and took all three cabs and went up to the General Motors building to rent a suite. The manager started with some little offices, but Cole kept on telling him to show us something expensive, as he was a big fellow and a millionaire and connected with the Du Ponts of Delaware. So the manager of the building finally showed us some offices of somebody big, I think the president or something of the General Motors.

Who Mentioned Money?

"Cole got all excited and yelled: 'This is what we want for our proposition. Can we get these offices?' The manager said we could get some like them, but they would cost about $30,000 a year for rent because they seemed to occupy a whole side of the building. But Cole said money was no object to him, and he said, 'I want our offices fixed up just like these, with the same kind of high class furniture and rugs and carved wooden walls.'

"The manager said, 'Well, it will cost about $60,000 to furnish the rooms and put in wooden panels like these,' and Cole got impatient and

HOW WILL THEY DIVIDE THAT FIRST PRIZE?

Each Will Get Badge, Anyway.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

For thirteen years the sisters have shared everything. What a puzzle they've been to their teachers at the Arnold school! There's no telling them apart. Each bobbed head looks the same to the school marms, and we wouldn't be surprised if sometimes Margaret recites for Irene, or perhaps Irene changes seats with Margaret for the class recitation.

Can't Tell 'Em Apart.

Their clothes are identical. They can't tell their blouses apart, so that when Margaret wears Irene's middy Irene thinks it belongs to Margaret. But that's all right with Irene. She wears Margaret's clothes.

But this TRIBUNE title is different. There's only one bronze statue for the 12 and 13 year old champion girl swimmer of Chicago. Each wants the other to win, but both have agreed that, whichever twin is the victor, half of the prize really belongs to the other.

"Anyway," Margaret said philosophically, or was it Irene? "both of us will win merit badges for swimming 100 yards, won't we?"

Each Will Get Badge.

And that's a good solution of the twins' problem. While they may be disappointed in the championship, for many excellent swimmers will compete and this is the first race for Margaret and Irene, they will receive TRIBUNE merit badges if they finish the 100 yard course.

All boys and girls between the ages of 12 and 15, inclusive, who can swim 100 yards are eligible for merit badges. The races will be held in the Lincoln park lagoon Sunday afternoon, July 27. Twelve and 13 year olds will compete together, while the 14 and 15 year olds form another class.

The four champions will receive bronze statues. The second, third, and fourth place finishers will be awarded medals. All swimmers will be given merit buttons.

The entries close July 21. Clip out the blank, sign your name, age, and address, and mail it today.

Tilden Wins in Love Sets in Dutch Tennis Tourney

Thus Proving Thomas' Arm Isn't Fit Yet.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

A flop by Tommy Thomas combined with a dazzling display of pitching by George Uhle yesterday proved highly distasteful to the already abused White Sox. Thomas fell apart almost as soon as he started, but the veteran Uhle remained for the regulation nine innings to accumulate a six hit triumph for his own record and a 6 to 1 victory for the Tigers. The outcome gave Detroit three out of five in the series.

There was only one creditable performance by Thomas. He turned out a perfect first inning. Then the Tigers suddenly turned playful and before the second inning was completed, Mr. Thomas was no more. Three runs scored on some honest hits before he could effect an escape. The departure of Thomas, who a few days ago gave indications of having recovered the cunning of his ailing arm, brought Garland Braxton into the center of the arena. He was fairly effective, but not enough to prevent two more Tigers scoring in the fifth and one in the eighth, which was his final appearance.

Uhle Perfect in 5 Innings.

In five innings Uhle didn't give the Sox anything that even closely resembled a base hit. After that, however, he either tired or his luck deserted him. A single by Mulleavy with two out in the sixth ruined his no hit hopes and a blow by Watwood in the seventh spoiled a one hit argument. The four other Sox hits were equally divided between the eighth and ninth, the second pair giving them their only run.

Dutch Henry probably will face Sam Gray at St. Louis today.

Thomas started downhill when Alexander opened the second inning with a double to right center. Stone scored him with a single. After Stone had died in an attempted steal, Koenig was handed free passage. Rogell's fly to center made it two out. Desautels gave Jolley a workout chasing a two bagger to left. This put Koenig on third. Uhle then drove both men home by singling over third. When Johnson added a single Manager Bush decided it was time to summon relief. Braxton ended the chapter.

Tigers Score Two More.

Braxton fanned two of the Tigers in the fifth but this didn't prevent them from driving in a couple of runs between strikes. Uhle fanned to open the session and the speedy Johnson rapped a double to left. Funk bounced gently to short and Mulleavy was so slow about playing the ball that the runner beat it out for a single, Johnson hustling over to third. He scored while Braxton was throwing out Gehringer. Alexander then doubled to left and Funk scored.

It was the Sox's own fault that they didn't get a run in the eighth. Crouse opened with a single and went to third on Cissell's double. Mulleavy followed with a fly to right and Crouse could have gone home with ease but after going half way to the counter he stopped to think over the situation and was tagged. The run in the ninth was a plot devised by Jolley and Clancy. The former doubled to right and scored when Clancy doubled out of Stone's reach in left. The score:

Rajah's Days as Cub Over? He Denies It

Cincinnati, O., July 9.—(AP)—The Enquirer says rumors current among members of the Chicago Cubs here today were that Rogers Hornsby never would play another game for the team even if his injured leg yielded to treatment before the current season ends. The paper says Manager Joe McCarthy refused to discuss the matter, but intimated there would be a sensational story about Hornsby before the season is over.

"NOTHING TO IT."

"There's nothing to it," said Rogers Hornsby from his home in Anglum, Mo., when advised by THE TRIBUNE of rumors that he never would play again with the Cubs.

"Somebody was hard up for a story when he wrote that piece," Hornsby said. "I shall be back in Chicago July 15 for another examination of my injured ankle and I expect to be able to work out a few days later. I hope to be in the lineup not later than Aug. 1."

The Rajah is walking around his home with the aid of a cane. He said both his ankle and heel, which gave him trouble all season, were "feeling fine."

William Veeck, president of the Cubs, said: "There's nothing to it. We haven't reached the point where we are trying to get rid of .375 hitters."

Sox Fans Discuss Their Ball Club

BY ARCH WARD.

Scene—Jackson Park express train. Time—Wednesday, 6:10 p. m.

Mr. Gus H. Public, reading sports final: "Well, I see the Sox lost another ball game."

Mr. Otis Sap, sitting next to him: "Cheer up, they can lose only 80 more this season."

Nothing like that old stick-to-it-south-side enthusiasm, is there?

We have read that there is some clamor for Mr. Comiskey to scrap his 1930 club and pick up American Association players, but we are wondering if that is actually the truth.

There seems to be no manifestations of mob fever in this connection. It is all very puzzling to Manager Donie Bush. He believes that if his teams at Pittsburgh had sunk to such depths the fans would have paraded the streets bearing screaming placards. He probably would have been burned in effigy several times before the season reached this stage.

It looks like the soap box orators on Chicago's south side are blissfully ignorant of the hardships to which the baseball fans have been subjected.

Pity Mr. Mandell.

Our desk is cluttered up these days with our favorite form of fiction—press notices from the prize fighters' camps. We were surprised and chagrined to read yesterday that Al Singer is going to walk into the ring at Yankee stadium a week from tonight and wrest the world's lightweight championship from Sammy Mandell by hammering the Rockford lad around the middle until he drops.

This item was supported by a posed picture in which Mr. Singer illustrated just how he planned to mangle the champion with rights and lefts to the belt line.

Even this convincing evidence failed to make us turn purple with excitement. We won't accept Singer's word as fact until we see pictures of him wearing cement gloves loaded with iron bolts. After watching Jimmy McLarnin wallop Sammy around the waist line in two 10 round bouts at the Stadium we doubt if Al will succeed where Jimmy failed.

Is Age a Handicap?

Not that it makes any difference, but if you are one of those who still believes that youth must be served, consider this:

Earl Sande, who will ride Gallant Fox in the Classic Saturday, is having one of his best years. He's an old man as jockeys go.

Bill Tilden, after nine years' intermission, won the Wimbledon tennis championship.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., July 9.—Woe is rampant in the camp of the Chicago Cubs, 1929 champions of the National league. And well may this emotion prevail, for this afternoon the McCarthys were sunk again—for the fourth in a row at the hands of the seventh place Cincinnati Reds. The tabulation for today's tragedy was Cincinnati, 4; Chicago, 3.

A play almost extinct in present day baseball—the venerable squeeze—was employed in the tenth inning. The Cubs had almost forgotten there was such a play, and when the end came their feet were as flat as their spirits. It was a most pathetic spectacle.

The series just closed was the first four game set to be dropped by the Cubs. It was the second loss of the series marked against Root and the second victory of the series credited to Frey. And it was the second time in the current visit that Red Lucas came through as a pinch batter at a most devastating moment. Today Red drove in the tying run with two out in the eighth.

Reds Work Squeeze Play.

The fourth flop of the Cubs in this sweltering locale, as previously related, ended with the moss covered squeeze play. Stripp had opened the last of the tenth with a single to left. Cuccinello bunted and was safe when English booted the ball. Callaghan struck out, but Crawford walked, filling the bases. Durocher, who previously had struck out three times, went to bat and bunted the ball straight at Root, but before Charley could realize what old fashioned antics were going on, Stripp was across with the winning marker.

After the game the crestfallen Chicagoans dashed for a train to Boston, where they open their eastern invasion Saturday.

There wasn't a scoring threat until the Reds broke loose in the fifth. Root threw out Durocher, but walked Styles. Root became angered when he thought he had struck out Kolp and Umpire Jorda ruled otherwise, Kolp took advantage of Charley's feverish state when play was resumed and smacked a single to right center, Styles going to third. Walker forced Kolp, Blair to Beck, Styles scoring. Then Swanson doubled off the left field wall, Walker scoring. Cuccinello flied to Wilson.

The Cubs tied the score at the earliest opportunity, thanks mostly to Blair, English, and Stephenson. Blair singled with one out in the fifth and stopped at second when English singled to left. Cuyler forced English, Blair stopping at third, and Wilson walked, filling the bases. Stevie then delivered the first of his all-important hits, a single to center which scored Blair and Cuyler. Grimm then tapped to Ford.

Each club staged a fadeout in the seventh. In the Cub half Beck singled with one out and went to third on Root's single to center. Blair walked, filling the bases, but the inning was runless because English hit into a double play. In the Cincinnati half, Styles tripled after Durocher had fanned. Then Frey struck out, and Walker popped to Blair.

Stevie Drives in Third Run.

The Reds also made one in the eighth, tying the score at 3 to 3. English threw out Swanson, but Stripp singled to left. Cuccinello fanned for the second out, and Callaghan walked. Red Lucas batted for Ford and singled to center, which put Stripp over with the tying run.

Blair made a triple with two out in the ninth, but he died on third because English was called out on strikes.

There was some enthusiasm in the Chicago tenth when Cuyler led off with a single to right. Cuyler went to second while Frey was throwing out Wilson. Stevie was given an intentional pass. The strategy worked, for Grimm forced Cuyler at third. Then Hartnett forced Grimm.

SENATORS SPLIT WITH RED SOX; STREAK BROKEN

Take First Game, 5 to 2; Then Lose, 5 to 1.

Boston, Mass., July 9.—(AP)—The Red Sox broke the ten game winning streak of the league leading Washington Senators by taking the second game of a double header, 5 to 1, today after the Senators had won the opener, 5 to 2.

Milt Gaston kept the Senators' eight singles in the second game so well scattered that he was rarely in trouble.

The first game was interrupted for an hour by a rainstorm just after the Senators had clinched the game with a four run rally in the sixth. It also was marred by an injury to Heinie Manush, Washington outfielder, who strained his groin and left immediately for Washington for treatment. Scores:

Scouts Begin Day Singing in the Rain

BY BOB BECKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Monticello, Ind., July 9.—The Tribune canoeists felt so good this morning at 7 o'clock that they started their day by singing in the rain. It was a tired and sunburned bunch of boys that crawled under the pup tents last night, but after a night's rest on this delightful camp site on Freeman lake the group wakened this morning ready for any kind of program.

First on the schedule was a brief thunderstorm just as the boys were finishing a breakfast of stewed fruit, scrambled eggs, bacon, bread and butter, jam, and coffee. There was a scramble for the pup tents to rescue blankets that had been spread for an airing, and then breakfast was resumed in the shelter of the kitchen tent.

But the hard working kitchen police squad, consisting of Fred Borchert, Fred Mates, Dan Purcell, and Ed Lawler, refused to be intimidated by the shower, and, donning their raincoats, went singing into the rain to give the enamelware a good cleaning. Twenty minutes later the sun began to shine and the boys were able to get going on the day's sport program.

Hold Water Carnival.

By staying over a day at this ideal camp site about three miles below Monticello the canoeists were able to stage a Tippecanoe aquatic carnival, which gave these young Chicago swimmers a chance to show what experts they are.

Don Anderson, one of the scout masters on the cruise, anchored two boats 50 yards from shore and stretched a cord between them to serve as the finish line for the races. He was the starter while the writer served as timekeeper, judge of the course, referee and umpire. First on the program of swimming events was the 50 yard breast stroke, won by Armin Hess with Lloyd Tingwall second. In the 50 yard back stroke Sam Joy led the field by two yards with Lloyd Tingwall winning another second.

In the big event of the swimming contests, the 50 yard free style, Fred Borchert's powerful crawl stroke was too much for the field of eight which swam in the finals and he won by a yard, with Fred Mates second.

Hold Baseball Drill.

Although the young canoeists put in a strenuous morning, they had pep left for an hour and a half of baseball this afternoon. This deep interest in baseball was quickened by the fact that tomorrow this gang will meet a team from a camp near Springborough where the expedition expects to camp tomorrow night. In view of this forthcoming scrap the boys must have their practice so they toiled long at batting and fielding practice this afternoon.

The canoeists expect to break camp about 8 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Enterprise Wins Yacht Cup Trial from Whirlwind

Newport, R. I., July 9.—(AP)—The Enterprise defeated the Whirlwind today by approximately eight minutes in the third day's racing of the observation series to determine the America's cup defender in the international race with the Shamrock V. in September. The Weetamoe led the Yankee to the finish by about two minutes.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

TILDEN AS AN AMATEUR.

BIG BILL TILDEN, whose presence on the American Davis cup team might prove a deciding factor in bringing back the international trophy, has declined a proffered opportunity to play. The Wake had thought Big Bill would embrace that chance. We do not blame him in the least for not doing so.

Tilden, a newspaper man, writes tennis for a newspaper syndicate. He receives generous pay for that service. By the amateur rule of the United States Lawn Tennis association an amateur cannot write current stories of tournaments in which he competes. Of course, a much greater value attaches to current comment than to aftermath. Tilden has a contract from which he could secure release if he wishes. He prefers to keep his contract.

This question of writing has embroiled Tilden in argument with the U. S. L. T. A. before. Once he was suspended, but promised to be "good" thereafter, so was reinstated.

The Wake never has professed to see a solution of the vexatious amateur problem and the indirect emoluments received by amateurs. In his controversy with the controlling powers, however, our sympathy has been with Tilden. That was in part because he was a bona fide newspaper man with an earning capacity before his tennis skill became a newspaper asset. There is no question his articles now command more because of his tennis skill. Yet it seems unfair that this means of revenue be taken from him by an arbitrary rule, which should be applied, if at all, to athletes whose work is done by "ghost" writers.

Bobby Jones, whose amateurism is never questioned, writes of tourneys in which he competes. The United States Golf association, to which Jones appealed for a ruling, waived objections.

So unless Tilden has a change of heart America will be deprived of his services in the Davis cup race because of a rule which in his case is unfair.

"Blackman."

Helper I. J. O'H. recently sent in a Way Back When mentioning "blackman," and we asked him the rules for the benefit of our readers.

Here is his version: "The game had simple rules, but required space. One person is chosen 'it.' Other players line up at one end of the field, and at a signal run to the other end. It is the duty of 'it' to tap on the back three times one of these players, who then aids 'it' subsequently. When all are caught the game ends, and the first person caught is 'it' for the next game. The prestige consists in being the last man caught."

To a Water Lily.

Ride on, fair lily of the lake,
Upon thy restless wave,
While I continue to partake
Of wisdom, old and grave.
Thy purity entrances me,
With lessons most sublime;
Matchless beauty greeting me,
And all you ask is time.
If tides be high or tides be low,
In waters calm or rough,
To keep thy head above I know
There will be strength enough.

Friend Harve: "We Buy Dead Horses," is a sign on the turn of the L and L race track at Danville, Ill. I bet on several of the variety at Arlington. Is there any place in Chicago where they buy "dead" tickets?

LAHOR WINS FOR HIS NEW OWNER AT EMPIRE CITY

Defeats Voltear Easily in Morrisiana.

New York, July 9.—[Special.]—Recently William M. Moore claimed Lahor, a three year old son of Luculiite from the Rancocas stable and today he began to realize prompt dividends on his investment. Lahor easily defeated three others at Empire City in the Morrisania handicap, best of the day's offerings.

There were three lengths between Lahor's heels and Voltear's nose at the end of the race and this despite a last minute plunge which made Voltear the even money favorite. Voltear was second, ten lengths ahead of Sun Shadow.

The Morrisania was at a mile and seventy yards and Lahor easily defeated Voltear, Sun Shadow and Moonstruck.

Ruth Suspended 3 Days for Protesting Strike

New York, July 9.—Babe Ruth received a three day suspension today as the result of yesterday's altercation with Umpire Brick Owens. The Babe protested violently about the umpire's decision on a called third strike against Charley Ruffing in the first game of yesterday's double header and was ordered from the field. Notice of the suspension came from President E. S. Barnard of the American league, after he had received the umpire's report.

HERMAN AND RICE CLIMB BACK INTO RANKS OF BIG SIX

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Two former Big Six members again have risen to places of batting prominence and regained their positions in the organization as current members slumped. Babe Herman, hitting hard and often in his last few games, has displaced Paul Waner, going into third place with a .397 average. The Brooklyn Babe hit three out of seven yesterday while Waner got but one out of five. Sam Rice, getting four hits in nine times at bat for Washington, took second place in the American league batting list with .383, and replaced Lou Gehrig as fifth place member of the Big Six. Majors to End Player Deals with 5 Minors

The National and American leagues will release no more players to, nor buy any from the American association, International, Pacific Coast, Western and Three Eye leagues, unless the five minor leagues in question agree to the universal right of player selection on a schedule of higher draft prices. The minors have not subscribed to this since 1921. This drastic move, adopted yesterday at a special joint session of the two major leagues at the Drake hotel, becomes effective on Dec. 1.

The action was the culmination of a controversy that has existed between the majors and nondraft or selective leagues ever since the present major-minor league agreement was adopted early in 1921. Until then the right of a player to advance through the right of selection was not questioned, but when the present agreement was adopted the five leagues mentioned were absolved from such regulation. They could not select from leagues of lower classification, nor could the majors select or "draft" from them.

Leading baseball officials soon realized the granting of this special privilege was a mistake from their point of view. Numerous efforts were made to induce the five leagues to give it up, but they refused to arbitrate.

In December, 1922, the majors adopted a resolution making all players assigned to minor league clubs by the major leagues subject to selection, even from nonselective leagues.

Prior to 1921, the majors aided the minors by changing the rules almost annually to improve the latter's financial situation. Since 1921 there have been no such important concessions, because the majors have declined to follow the former custom of frequently changing the laws governing the sport to meet the changing conditions in the minors, until the universal right of selection was incorporated.

BIG SHOT COLE REACHES END OF FABULOUS RICHES

Jack Dempsey Got His While It Lasted.

said, 'You didn't hear me ask anything about price did you?'

"That was only a couple of weeks back," Mr. Dempsey said. He was now riffling the cards.

"What are we playing for—a cent a point? And how about slams? Are we playing straight slams or do we want to unload cards as we get them?"

"Suit yourself," I said. "What about this Cole?"

Yells for His Money.

"O, he's a guy out of some book," Mr. Dempsey said. '" He wasn't born. Somebody wrote him. Stick him and he'll bleed ink. A couple of weeks back he was renting a suite for $30,000 a year and $60,000 to furnish the rooms and then, day before yesterday, I got tired of waiting for him to get an arena for his club, and the option was up on my services so I said I was going to quit him and hustle some business myself.

"Then he began to yell for his forty grand back because I didn't run any fights for him. So I said, 'You haven't got a fight club. You can't promote fights in the street.'

"Anyway, I said business was business and the option was up so I would have to get going, and that night strange guys began telephoning the hotel threatening to take me for a ride if Cole didn't get his forty grand back.

Dodges Legal Entanglements.

"Afraid! What of? It was all legal. His option was up, I tell you. I was ready to make the matches if he come up with an arena. But, thinking of how lawyers are and all that and not wanting to be stopped at Penn station by some guy with a legal summons, I hopped into the tube and rode across the Jersey meadows to catch the train at Transfer.

"I tell you," Mr. Dempsey said, "I never saw such a phoney guy with so much real money and the way he throws it around it's a shame not to take it. I hope Fugazy gets a bundle of skins off him. Poor old Jack hasn't had any breaks for a long time, and then he digs up this Cole.

"I guess he is doing himself some good, at that, because now you take a guy like me. I get my forty grand and all the little chiselers around Jack's office they were putting the bite on him for a couple of hundred here and half a grand there.

Mr. Cole Hits Snag.

"I don't know where he gets it," Mr. Dempsey trailed off, " but he gets it, and he doesn't care what he does with it. He'll forget about my forty grand. Forty grand is nothing to what he throws around. I should have asked for a hundred grand."

"Edwin Cohen, alias Edwin Cole, who, under the latter name, was for a short time in partnership with Jack Dempsey and Humbert (Jack) Fugazy, pleaded guilty in General Sessions to grand larceny, first degree, and will be sentenced to not less than two and one-half years. He also is wanted in Atlantic City on a similar charge.

"Cohen, or Cole, was arrested for the theft of 600 shares of Bessemer corporation stock Oct. 29, 1929. Cole met a messenger boy in an elevator and induced the boy to turn the securities over to him. Later Cole obtained a loan of $7,700 on the stock. It also was learned that he had obtained a loan of $30,000, putting up worthless paper of a represented value of $100,000. In Atlantic City Cole is charged with passing rubber checks on various hotels to the amount of $60,000. He is 39. He maintained a hotel apartment for his mother and bachelor apartments for himself. A few years ago he cleaned up a million in Wall street, starting with $50,000 left him by his father. After this haul he decided to go into the boxing business."

STOCKS EMERGE FROM TRADING A LITTLE HIGHER

Borg-Warner Nears High on Chicago Board.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Stocks emerged from a quiet trading session on the Chicago exchange yesterday showing moderate improvements over the previous day's closing prices. Net gains were insignificant enough but in the light of recent market conditions they were not to be sneered at.

Borg Warner made a good showing, advancing to 28 on sales of 6,500 shares and closing a fraction below its high with a net gain of an even point. Auburn was strong on early dealings but settled back to close 102. The company's second quarter earnings statement which was expected yesterday will be issued today after the close of the market.

Estimate Auburn Profits.

According to semi-official sources the report will show per share profits of around $4 as compared with 56 cents in the preceding quarter, and $7.90 a share on smaller capitalization the corresponding period last year.

Transactions in Majestic Household shrank to less than 10,000 shares as the price moved within a three point range and closed unchanged at 37½. On about the same number of sales Grigsby-Grunow finished at 13½, unchanged from the previous day.

Rumors current for the last few days concerning the financial conditions of the Grigsby company yesterday brought a statement from President William C. Grunow. "The company," Mr. Grunow declared, "has never been in as good financial conditions as it is at the present time. The current ratio of assets to liabilities is 2½ to 1." Total liabilities, he stated, exclusive of capital stock and surplus amount to $3,500,000 compared with total assets of $24,000,000.

Make Fair Gains.

Among the less active stocks fair gains were made by National Standard, North American Car and Swift International. National Standard was the most active of the three and the movement was accompanied by bullish rumors on business prospects for the remainder of the year.

Orders for road machinery totaling $55,000,000 have been received by the Foote Brothers Gear and Machine company from the city of New York and the state of South Carolina, W. C. Davis, president, reports.

Forecasts Better Earnings for Tank Car Company

New York, July 9.—(AP)—Max Epstein, chairman of the board of the General American Tank Car corporation, said today on his return from Europe that the company completed a good six months' business and that earnings for the first half should show an appreciable gain over the corresponding period of last year and should approximate $4,000,000. He said the third quarter shows evidence of being the best in the company's fiscal year. Mr. Epstein added his company is establishing a refrigeration car system throughout Europe connecting by boat with London.

The Seeds of Great Fortunes are sown in times like these

TODAY, all over the country, men are sowing the seeds of future fortunes. They know that times of inactivity are the very times when fortunes are started.

And this group is by no means limited to men with large sums of money. Super-Corporations of America Trust Shares make it possible for anyone with from $100 to a million dollars to share in the prosperity which everyone believes is coming.

These shares represent ownership in the stocks of 30 of the strongest and most successful corporations in America. Regardless of temporary ups and downs in the market, these companies as a group are bound to go forward . . . just as the nation as a whole is bound to go forward.

Good, safe bonds should form the backlog of every investment program. They are safe and they provide a regular income. And today they can be bought to yield as high as 6¼%. Super-Corporations of America Trust Shares form the second part of an investment formula which is ideally suited to all investors.

The entire story about this new way to invest is contained in an interesting free booklet, "The Road to Wealth." Send for your copy today.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, July 9.—(AP)—Cotton goods were little changed today, the demand being confined to goods for early shipment and bids often being under an already low market. Raw silk continued dull and weak and silk goods, for fall were quiet. Some filling in business was done on suitings and coatings for fall in the wool goods division. Burlaps were easier on reports of large acreage sowed to jute.

GLOOM CLOUDS IN TRADE SKY TO CLEAR AWAY

Bankers' Journal of This Opinion.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Pessimism over the present status of trade and industry has been overdone. In fact, the very conditions which has caused the most complaint are clearing the way for a definite recovery later in the year. These are views expressed by the American Bankers' Association Journal in its current issue released today.

"A study of the history of previous comparable periods of recession indicates that a cycle of improvement is imminent," the journal says. "There is no doubt that the curtailment of production in the major industries has been much greater than the falling off in consumption on the part of the public. This has inevitably led to a marked reduction in the inventories of finished goods all along the line from manufacturer to retailer.

Sees Over-Curtailment.

"Hand-to-mouth purchasing, which has been common practice for the last ten years, has during recent months been still further restricted by the unwillingness of merchants to carry anything more than a minimum of stocks, both because of the declining trend of prices and the uncertainty in the business outlook, which creates a situation that later on must bring buying of more than normal proportions and a tendency for prices to become firm or even rise.

"An examination of the statistics covering the production of goods does not furnish any grounds for the assertions, loosely made but rather widely circulated, that 'business is flat on its back.' For the American frame of mind, ambitious for progress and regarding the 'normal' seasonal gain as 50 per cent or upwards, it is natural that the delay in general recovery, combined with the recent renewed weakness in security and commodity prices, should have engendered such feeling of discouragement. But the population is going along with its work, its recreation, its home life, pretty much the same as was done last year and is likely a year hence.

"Many business men might notice that their trade was not quite so good this year as last but would not be aware that a 'depression' existed if they did not read about it continually in news from New York or hear such wailings from their friends who had thought that in stock speculating they had discovered the royal road to wealth."

Mail Order Price Cut.

A sweeping reduction in merchandise prices, bringing them down to practically a pre-war level, was announced last night by Montgomery Ward & Co., Chicago mail order and chain store concern. Also for a period of two months all goods except groceries will be sold on an easy payment plan when orders exceed $25.

"We consider it a constructive move to stimulate consumer buying," President George B. Everitt explained. "Even a small upturn in demand will start orders to factories, wheels turning, unemployment lessening, and a resultant upward trend to our general business structure and prosperity. During the last 60 days there have been further declines in the cost prices of many items of merchandise and these low prices we are making effective. We are placing orders for millions of dollars worth of merchandise at the new low commodity levels."

Iron and steel demand has not recovered the ground lost during the holiday interruption last week, according to the mid-week steel trade reviews. It will take a week or two before the volume of current business can be gauged, but immediate prospects are not promising.

"Many consuming plants are still shut down for inventory and suspensions among automobile and automotive parts makers will last two weeks or longer," the Iron Age says. "Railroad car builders are reaching the end of their orders and operations of farm equipment plants have reached the lowest point of the year. But backlogs in pipe steel and tin plate, plus good commitments in reinforcing bars and a large volume of pending structural steel tonnage, are counted on to hold steel production within a few points of the present rate until general improvement in demand sets in. Steel ingot production now averages 56 per cent of capacity, compared with 60 per cent at the beginning of last week."

Present Patrons Seen Best Bet for Electric Expansion

BY SCRUTATOR.

Electric utility companies are reaching out for new customers as fast as they can. For example, they are striving to find a formula that will enable them to serve the millions who live on farms, and at an economical rate. But the future of the industry seems to lie more in increasing the consumption of electrical energy by the customers it now has than in acquisition of new ones.

It has been pointed out by William M. Carpenter, statistician for the National Electric Light association, that further expansion must take place in less densely settled regions and that investment per customer must rise. Eventually, he reasons, the additional capital expense required will more than offset any engineering improvements that can be made by central station companies.

Customers' Investment.

This being true, the industry recognizes that its immediate prospects of increased gross revenues lie with its present patrons, and especially with domestic users. Martin J. Insull, president of the Middle West Utilities company, stated recently that the customer's investment for wiring and equipment exceeds that of the electric industry in the facilities for producing electricity.

In theory at least, and possibly in fact, both the customer and the company are suffering in some way when anything less than maximum use is made of the investment. Certainly the company is. The best figures show that all electric generating plants in the country worked at only 38.4 per cent of capacity in 1929 and that even this was a rise of 4 per cent and more over 1928. Excess capacity is of course necessary to care for peak loads, and the greatest effort being made now is to encourage use at non-peak times.

Mr. Insull has fixed 512 kilowatt hours as the average domestic consumption in 1929, an increase of about 12 per cent over 1927. He added that if 25 per cent more of all the electrically served homes had electric ranges, refrigerators and water heaters the average domestic use per customer would be 1,756 kilowatt hours.

Transfer of Heat.

The refrigerator with a motor has been going ahead fast, although only 10 per cent of the potential customers now have them. Ranges and water heaters show only 5 and 2 per cent of the possible maximum equipment. Even house heating by electric current is being pushed, along with these modes of use. A gentleman who manufactures such heating devices has written to suggest that a discussion of coal, oil and gas fuels for domestic heat here was incomplete because it failed to mention the progress made by his line.

At present the transfer of heat through wires is far less economical than light making or the turning of individual motors by central station electricity. When rates are low enough to justify domestic electric heat use on a wide scale, average consumption in each home may well run up to 3,000 or more kilowatt hours annually. Even without heating, there is a vast field for electrical expansion in better lighting of homes, stores, factories and highways and in the electrification of railroads. Less than 2 per cent of railway mileage is now electrically operated.

Gale Welch, formerly president of Wisconsin Investment company, will be president of the merged company and John Arthur Wilson chairman of the board.

MAY ALLOT N.Y. MAJOR SHARE OF AUSTRALIA LOAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

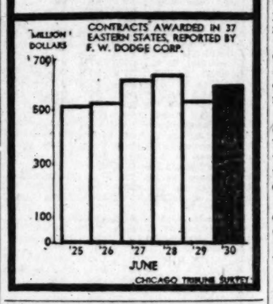
New York, July 9.—New York is to get the largest portion of the forthcoming Australian loan aggregating approximately $60,000,000, according to reports in Wall street today.

It was said the American share will be between $25,000,000 and $30,000,000, while the London issue will amount to only 4,000,000 pounds or about $20,000,000. Details of the financing have not been completed, but it is believed arrangements will be made shortly.

Board of Trade Takes Back Its Historic Bell

Chicago' most famous bell has returned to the ownership of the Board of Trade. It was the city hall bell of the great fire of 1871. In the new building electrical bells were installed and the old bell was given to the Chicago Historical society. The fancy new system failed. Only such a powerful gong as the old bell provided could rise clearly over the din. So the bell has been borrowed back from the historical society.

JUNE BUILDING CONTRACTS COMPARED FAVORABLY WITH OTHER YEARS



STRENGTH OF RAILS FEATURES UPWARD MOVEMENT OF BONDS

New York, July 9. — (AP) — The strength of the rails stood out in the upward movement of bonds today. Increased activity among carrier liens and convertibles accounted largely for the improvement in the volume of sales, which was $1,600,000 more than Tuesday, amounting to $9,460,000.

The advance of rail liens and the strong demand for convertibles was partly ascribed to the readjustment of freight rates of western carriers to provide additional revenue. In the case of Missouri Pacific subsidiaries, strength was attributed to the interstate commerce commission's action in approving a consolidation. International Great Northern adjustment 6s climbed 9 points and the 1st 6s 2 points, while New Orleans, Texas and Mexico 5s gained 2.

Cleveland Union Terminal 4½s touched a new high and the 5½s closed at a new high mark. New 1930 tops also were established by Southern Pacific 4s, Pennsylvania debenture 4½s, and Baltimore and Ohio [Toledo and Cincinnati division] 4s.

Among convertible issues Atchison 4½s, Baltimore and Ohio 4½s, St. Paul adjustment 5s, Chicago and North Western 4¾s, Alleghany Corporation 5s, and Southern Pacific warrant 4½s profited from an improved demand and made good gains, coincident with strength of rail stocks.

Soft spots developed in the rail list, Florida East Coast 5s sagging 5 points to a new low, and Iowa Central issues losing from 3 to 5 points.

Moderate gains were made by best grade utility issues, American Telephone collateral 5s reaching a new peak for the year.

Refuses $12,000,000 Offer for 100,000 Steel Shares

Youngstown, O., July 9.—(AP)—For reply to a charge that he was holding up construction of a new $12,000,000 sheet steel mill by blocking merger of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company with the Bethlehem Steel corporation, Cyrus Eaton, Cleveland capitalist, offered in court today to buy 100,000 shares of Youngstown company common stock at $120 a share, a sum equivalent to the cost of the proposed mill.

The offer was refused by James A. Campbell, veteran chairman of the Youngstown company, who was on the witness stand for cross-examination in the suit brought by the Eaton group of stockholders to enjoin the merger.

Harry J. Crawford of Cleveland, one of the plaintiff's attorneys, made the offer for Eaton and told Campbell that if it was accepted "You can start work tomorrow."

Wants $133 a Share.

"Didn't you place a value on the stock of $110?" asked Crawford. "Yes," retorted Campbell, "but we should get $133."

"No; we should get more," was the answer.

Judge David G. Jenkins, "against better judgment" allowed the offer to stand temporarily in the record, although former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker, chief attorney for the defense, objected to it as not pertaining to the suit. Crawford declared it would fit into the record later.

An amendment to the suit was filed today by the plaintiffs, Myron C. Wick Jr. and the International Shares corporation, the latter controlled by Eaton, alleging that sale and dissolution of the Youngstown company were not authorized by the holders of shares entitling them to exercise at least two-thirds of the voting power on such proposal.

Question Legality.

Other papers filed by the plaintiffs at the same time raised the question of the constitutionality of the new corporation act, under which the defendants, the two steel firms, claim validity of the merger, which was voted by stockholders April 8, 1930.

Campbell said his firm did not want to merge with Republic Iron and Steel, which at one time was suggested, because the government probably would not have allowed it and because the Youngstown company had all the capacity it desired in Mahoning valley. Republic Iron and Steel plants are located in Youngstown and the company manufactures the same products as the Youngstown company.

"I went to Florida after the contract was approved by our directors," he said, and "while there I got a telegram from Frank Purnell, president of the Youngstown company, stating the Block brothers, big stockholders and officers of Inland, were not satisfied with the arrangements.

Call Off Deal.

"By mutual agreement?" asked Baker.

"You might call it that," Campbell replied, "but we took the action because Inland had done some things we didn't like and if they were not in accord with us we didn't want to merge."

The significance attached to the unaccomplished Inland merger grows out of Baker's charge that the Eaton interests opposed the merger with Bethlehem because they desired a merger with Inland.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 9.—Railroad shares featured a quiet price advance on the stock exchange today. Utilities were in demand and the oils improved on reports of a decline in output and gasoline stocks. Various specialties perked up sharply for one reason or another.

The rally was general in scope and boosted virtually the whole active list from 1 to 4 points. It was a wholly professional affair, however, and the session turned out to be the second dullest of the year, transactions declining to a mere 1,358,020 shares.

From all appearances, the improvement was negotiated chiefly at the expense of the short position, which has been evincing signs lately of becoming rather uncomfortable. It was remarked, though, that the shorts were apparently in no great hurry to cover their commitments. They bought back leisurely and showed little disposition to take fright at the turn the market was taking against them.

Leaders Gain.

United States Steel, American Can, Consolidated Gas and most of the other recognized leaders had profitable followings and gains of 2 and 3 points were the rule among them. U. S. Steel didn't do so well as some of the rest, having a burden to carry in the form of popular expectations that the corporation's June tonnage report due tomorrow will show an-

The UTILITIES Continue to Go Forward

For the first five months of 1930 construction and expansion work of the nation's public services was approximately 21% ahead of the same period in 1929.

Total supply of electrical energy sold to ultimate consumers during the first quarter of 1930 represents a gain of 4.6% over the same period in 1929.

The outstanding fact is gain—a continuation of the steady forging ahead that has marked the record of the utilities from the beginning.

For the investor who wishes to take advantage of the present market to place himself in a position to share in this constant gain, the record of Central Public Service Corporation will prove interesting.

Central Public Service Corporation

The net earnings of this company for the 12 months ended April 30, 1930, were 10.99% ahead of those for the previous 12 months. Gross earnings for the same periods showed 6.88% increase.

These gains are in line with the record which has made Central Public Service Corporation, in the space of a few years, one of the largest and fastest growing utility companies in America. We recommend the Class A Stock of this Corporation as a distinct value.

CINCINNATI SOAP FIRM TO ENLARGE KIRK PLANT HERE

Realty Holdings Acquired by Procter & Gamble.

Plans for substantial enlargement of the huge soap factory of James S. Kirk & Co. at North avenue and the Chicago river were made known yesterday by the Procter & Gamble company of Cincinnati coincident with the transfer of the real estate holdings of the Chicago firm to the Ohio corporation. Procter & Gamble recently acquired the assets of the Kirk company.

The property transferred consists of the Kirk company's plant at the northeast corner of North avenue and Fleetwood street, extending 757 feet to the north branch of the Chicago river, and a holding 125x170 feet on the east side of McHenry street, 143 feet north of North avenue. This latter holding is not used by the soap company.

The Kirk company was one of Chicago's oldest enterprises, having been founded in 1839. For years it occupied a factory on the river at what is now the Michigan avenue bridge. In 1916 it moved one unit to the North avenue site, and in 1929 it completed a huge eight story addition to this plant when the Michigan avenue factory was razed.

Now the name of James S. Kirk & Co. is to pass and its factory will be operated as the Chicago division of the Procter & Gamble company. However, trade names of the Kirk company will be retained and its soaps kept on the market. At the completion of the enlargement of the North avenue plant manufacture of Procter & Gamble brands as well as of old Kirk products will be started.

The site of the old Michigan avenue plant does not figure in the sale of the Kirk assets, as this holding—one of the most valuable in the city—was transferred in 1927 by the Kirk company to the Kirk Realty trust, which is operated by members of the Kirk family. Another realty holding—the fee of the property at the northwest corner of Michigan avenue and Austin—has been transferred to the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, trustee, by the Kirk company for the benefit of its common stock holders.

Starrett Buys Home.

R. W. Starrett, vice president of Starrett Bros., Inc., has purchased the sixteen room residence at 221 Woodstock avenue, Kenilworth, from W. H. Wildes for a reported $75,000, subject to $40,000. Mr. Starrett expects to move into the residence in a week or ten days.

At the same time Mr. Starrett has sold his nine room home at 333 Richmond road, Kenilworth, to Allen E. Bulley for an indicated $25,000, subject to $12,000. Ednyfed H. Williams was attorney for both parties in the latter deal, and he acted for Mr. Starrett in the first. Dwight Dickerson of Cutting, Moore & Sidley was attorney for Mr. Wildes.

WOOL.

LONDON, July 9.—(AP)—At the wool auction sales today 10,064 bales were offered of which 8,000 were sold. A good selection was offered and met with better competition. Germany was the taker of greasy pieces. Capes and a few snow whites were chiefly bought in at a decline of 10 per cent.

HOT WEATHER DRIES UP WHEAT MART SELLING

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Wheat prices at their best yesterday showed an advance of 5c above the recent low, with corn up around 3c to 4c, rye up 3c, and oats 1c from the recent low point. Trading broadened, but not enough to maintain the full advance and a profit taking movement in the last half hour carried prices down sharply as a result of inadequate support.

The close was at net gains on wheat of ¾c to ⅞c, corn 1¼c to 1⅝c, with July leading; oats, ¼c to ⅜c, and rye ½c to ¾c, compared with Tuesday's finish.

Temperatures of 105 in parts of North Dakota and abnormal heat all over the American and parts of the Canadian northwest, with no rainfall of consequence other than showers, served as a basis for a great deal of short covering, combined with buying by commission houses and by professionals favorably inclined to higher prices. It was responsible for an advance from 92c to 94¼c on September wheat.

Around the top offerings increased materially and the trade was not sufficiently broad to absorb the offerings. A great deal of skepticism as regards crop damage in the spring wheat country is shown by a good many local operators, as most of the reports fail to show any decided deterioration. Cromwell's report, however, was construed as bullish. Weather conditions for the next two weeks are regarded as one of the most important factors in the spring wheat situation.

Spring Wheat Injury.

The government weekly weather crop report, referring to spring wheat, said there was deterioration in parts of North Dakota and damage in many counties in central and western South Dakota, while further west high temperatures and lack of moisture were unfavorable.

Liverpool was disappointing early, but rallied and closed 1⅜d to 1⅞d higher. Foreign news, however, was not particularly attractive. New York reported export sales of Manitobas and American wheats the last two days of 5,000,000 bu.

Movement of wheat in the southwest was large with practically 2,300 cars received at eight points on Tuesday. Cash markets in the southwest were 1c to 2c higher.

July Corn Advances.

High temperatures over a large part of the corn belt, combined with an increased disposition on the part of traders to work on the constructive side of the market, brought an advance of 2⅝c in July, which touched 78½c on the extreme bulge, but reacted to 77⅞c to 77½c at the close on profit taking. The open interest in July is around 8,500,000 bu, as compared with extremely small local stocks. September closed at 75⅞c to 76c, and December 68⅞c to 69⅛. The advance brought a lot of open selling orders from the country and 154,000 bu of cash corn were bought to arrive.

Lighter offerings of oats early in the day, combined with the advance in other grains, led to a better trading market and an upturn in prices, part of which was lost at the last on profit taking and hedging pressure. July sold up to 33¾c and finished at 33⅝c. September reached 36⅞c and closed at 36c to 36⅛c. December was 39⅝c at the close. There was nothing particular in the rye trade, except the usual spreading operations.

BUTTER AND EGGS

New high prices for the late storage periods were established in butter futures on the Chicago mercantile exchange. Bulls held sway, and as the opening indicated a turn in sentiment, continued operations on the buying side sent the markets higher. November closed up ⅝c, or $120 per car, at 38¼c, while July was up ⅜c at 33¾c. The egg market was quiet. November scoring an advance of ¼c at 27c. The close was at the best figure of the day. A favorable storage report from the 26 cities, showing a decrease of 3,000,000 pounds in the existing excess, and the continued hot weather were the principal bullish factors in butter.

Egg traders were cautious. News continued slightly bearish, but high costs checked selling. A further gain was shown in the principal storage cities. It is believed, generally, however, that the next monthly storage report probably will show a smaller excess.

Sales were: Butter, 249 cars; eggs, 78 cars. Receipts were: Butter, 7,655 tubs; eggs, 12,564 cases.

With the exception of choice light and light butchers, hogs sold on a weak to 15c lower basis yesterday, large numbers of medium and weighty butchers showing the full loss at mid-day and later the extreme top came down 5c at $9.80, while the general average showed 10c loss at $9.00.

Eastern demand was narrower and, with local interests in a bearish mood, about 7,000 were still in the pens at the close, the low point of the day. Stock exceeding 250 lbs. in weight was a drug on the market. Fancy 160@215 lb. averages topped the price list, while 250 lb. averages sold at $9.45 and 350 lb. averages at $8.80. A load of 430 lb. barrows brought $8.40. Most "packers" exceeding 400 lbs. sold at $7.65@7.90.

Hog Futures Decline.

Losses of 10@15c were general on the hog futures market yesterday, September light weights selling at $9.50, against $9.65 Tuesday. Mediums for next September showed more activity, but were 10@15c lower at $9.60@9.65, closing at the inside figure.

December lights were offered at $8.65, but the highest bid at the close stopped at $8.25. August mediums were bid $9.25. July, August and September heavy grades carried bids of $9.00. November hogs were offered as low as $8.75 on the "specials" board.

The market for weighty steers entered new low price levels yesterday, the bulk of sales going back more than three years for an equal low. Lightweights and yearlings, however, were in good demand at strong to higher prices again with 1,000 lb. yearlings selling within 25c of the extreme top. Light weights are expected to outsell weighty beeves.

A month ago heavy steers were selling at $1.00@1.50 above yearlings. Prime 1,335 lb. steers topped the price list yesterday at $11.60, while 1,023 lb. yearlings sold at $11.40. Cows and heifers sold weak to 25c lower, although a few baby beef heifers of outstanding quality reached $11.00. Calves sold steady. Stockers and feeders were slow and weak.

Lambs Meet Better Demand.

Fat lambs met better demand yesterday and prices held firm in spite of the increase in receipts. Arrivals at 15,000 were the largest for Wednesday since early last month and included the largest run of westerns this season. "Tops" from the 9,500 rangers from Washington, Idaho, Montana and Oregon, sold at $11.00 to packers and at $11.10 to city butchers and shippers.

Sorted natives sold at $10.50@10.75, with culls at 6.50@7.50, the latter showing a $1.00@2.00 gain since two weeks ago.

Aged sheep and yearlings were scarce and steady. Feeding lambs are slow sellers at $7.00@8.00. Most thin lambs sorted from the supply of westerns are going for slaughter at $8.00@9.00, due to the narrow country demand.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 5,000 cattle, 26,000 hogs and 9,000 sheep, against 7,272 cattle, 17,426 hogs and 11,536 sheep on the previous Thursday and 6,646 cattle, 25,282 hogs and 13,979 sheep a year ago.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

The government report is due in Chicago at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Trade expectations are that estimates on winter wheat will be around 550,000,000 to 560,000,000 bu, compared with 532,000,000 bu last month, which was considered too low. Private estimates average 552,000,000 bu. The government a year ago was 601,000,000 bu, with final returns 578,000,000 bu. Spring wheat estimates are 245,000,000 to 255,000,000 bu, the first of the season. Private reports averaged 257,000,000 bu, government last year 251,000,000 bu, and final, 229,000,000 bu. Corn acreage is estimated to increase 2 to 4½ per cent, crop 2,876,000,000 bu, or about the same as the private estimates. In July last year government estimated 2,662,000,000 bu, and final, 2,622,000,000 bu.

Weather and crop reports in the American and Canadian northwest are unsettled and are to be a leading price making factor in the wheat market for the next 40 days. All interests practically admit that there has been injury in some sections, but the belief is that there will be sufficient wheat raised for all domestic and export requirements as the carryover will be sufficient to offset ordinary crop losses. A number of commission houses are bullish and believe that the market has changed for the better, while professionals are, in most instances, bearish, and a few are said to be heavily short.

FORECLOSURE ON HAMMOND STATE THEATER ASKED

Hammond, Ind., July 9.—(AP)—Foreclosure proceedings involving $1,200,000 was filed in Superior court today by the American Bond and Mortgage company as trustee for the bondholders of the $1,000,000 State theater.

The theater, constructed as a joint enterprise by the State Street Merchants' Improvement association, was built in 1925 and bombed two years later.

A bond issue amounting to $900,000 was issued by the association, and these bonds, together with defaulted interest bringing the amount to about $1,200,000, are involved in the proceedings. The association is the principal defendant, but several contractors and firms having claims against the theater also were named.

INVESTMENT OPPORTUNITY IN COYNE SCHOOLS

I am the original founder of commercial vocational schools in America and former owner of the Coyne Trade Schools of New York, Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati and San Francisco. I sold the Chicago school to L. L. Cooke, who paid the second largest income tax paid in Chicago in 1924.

On an investment of $80.00 for advertising the first month I earned sufficient money to equip and operate four large schools. My advertising later appeared daily in many hundreds of publications throughout the entire country.

I want a number of persons able to loan me $20,000 or more, to be secured by satisfactory collateral, commensurate return promised, on a new and improved plan for correspondence and practical training, and reap the benefits of the many millions spent and now being spent advertising my name. In spite of the present slump, now is the opportune time.

I will secure your investment. I have never been connected with a failure—have good credit and bank references. The above statements can readily be verified by your local banks. If you are interested in a quick return address

CHICAGOANS IN STELLAR ROLE AT REALTY MEETING

Realtor Convention Opens at Toronto.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., July 9.—The National Association of Real Estate boards opened its annual convention here today, with Chicago members taking a stellar role in the proceedings. The paid registrations are well over the thousand mark; an estimated four thousand realtors, families and associates, attending.

With every tenth man and woman here a Chicagoan, and Chicago Realtors and business men speaking at every one of the dozen divisions, the mid-west metropolis was the most prominent in proceedings of any municipality or section in the United States or Canada. There were 126 boards from 35 American states and three Canadian provinces represented here today.

Real estate problems from all their multitudinous angles were subjects of essay and argument in a score of gatherings scattered around hotel corridors and prominent among the subjects touched upon was that of the taxation and assessment problems of Oak Park, Ill. Edwin F. Forkel, president of the Oak Park Real Estate board, sketched what is being done in this largest village of the United States by joint action through a recently organized property owners division of the board.

Dodd Gives Talk.

With a board membership of only sixty, 1,424 real estate owners in the village have been organized into a division of the board to help press for modernization of the state tax system and to work for accurate appraisal of property for assessment purposes and equalization of assessment bills. The board is now receiving reports of alleged inequalities in assessment.

Opening the general session, Alvin E. Dodd, who has recently been made assistant to the president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago, discussed "New methods of merchandising and their effects on real estate values." He analyzed general merchandising ideas and applied their principles to real estate marketing.

Other Chicagoans Speak.

Newton C. Farr, president of the Chicago real estate board, told of the advantage of a "One man real estate office" over the larger organization, stressing the idea of personal service and reputation. Other Chicago speakers today were Frederick M. Babcock, Albert W. Swayne, Ralph V. Field, George P. Ellis, Leo J. Sheridan, and Jacob Crane Jr.

At their opening session this morning the Realtors were cordially welcomed by Mayor Bert Wemp of Toronto, Premier Ferguson of Ontario, and Col. Goodwin Gibson, president of the Toronto real estate board.

LEADERSHIP is the coveted prize in every industry, and the rubber industry is no exception.

So it is only human that our aspiring friends occasionally indulge in the thrill of talking about Leadership, whether they have it or not.

We mention this in all good humor, and merely to explain the somewhat confusing advertising you see now and again, in which one rubber company or another blithely forgets its definitions and shoots the works.

The justification for such a fling is that the use of the term Leadership in most cases is qualified, even if obscurely, by being based on some subordinate phase of the business in which the advertiser claims to excel.

We think it is, as the most dependable indorsement of a product that the public can find upon which to rely.

When a plurality of the world's motorists, for example, year after year singles out one make of tire as the highest representative of value and merit, that is tremendously important.

It affords the average buyer the finest and safest possible guidance in his purchasing—and for his good and our own we desire to keep that guidance clear.

DISPENSING, then, with equivocal claims, evasions, qualifications and adroit expression, what company actually holds Leadership in the rubber industry?

The public has decisively answered that question in concrete terms of dollars and cents, and has conferred the award upon Goodyear.

Goodyear in turn submits to you the solid facts which support its Leadership.

It does this in no spirit of boastfulness; on the contrary with a privileged sense of the responsibility which its outstanding position entails:

Goodyear consumes 1/6 of all the crude rubber used annually in the world—approximately 50% more than any other manufacturer.

Goodyear builds more than 1/4 of all the tires sold in America, the remainder being divided among some forty manufacturers.

For years Goodyear has factory-equipped between 1/4 and 1/3 of all the new motor cars manufactured.

In the last seven years Goodyear's annual production of pneumatic tires has increased 172%, as against an increase of approximately 75% for the industry as a whole.

•

WITH special reference to tires, Goodyear holds Leadership because:

Goodyear has made more tires for motor vehicles than any other manufacturer—by millions.

Certainly it means that in Goodyear Tires the average user finds a quality and a value which he cannot equal elsewhere.

Certainly it means that when you buy a Goodyear Tire you buy something good enough, outstandingly good enough, to have won a special and unrivalled place in the confidence of the public.

And when any other rubber company confuses you with talk about Leadership, just treat yourself to a knowing grin and say: "Sure! We know—You're Napoleon!"

The Nine Hundred Block

BY KATHARINE HAVILAND TAYLOR

SYNOPSIS.

To the nine hundred block, with its sordid dwellings, moved gentle, lovely Theresa Jones and her divorced and remarried mother, Mrs. Colt, under the watchful eye of Mrs. Bass, neighborhood gossip. Theresa makes friends with Katie Warner, who lives upstairs, and R. Jones, a reporter; also Johnny Deane, who left home to make good for the girl to whom he now regrets he is engaged. Billy Treadway, a wealthy beau of Mrs. Colt's girlhood, comes to call on her. She encourages his attentions to Theresa.

INSTALLMENT IV.

RENAISSANCE OF YOUTH.

With relief Theresa remembered the ice cream. She would escape to put it on the kitchen window sill; she could, escape legitimately, to do this and perhaps it wouldn't melt. She hoped Mr. Treadway wouldn't stay long!

With a low voiced excuse she hurried to the small kitchen where other tenants had left marks of fingers and menus upon walls and where clung that aura of weariness that grows of inconvenience. Never "really light," the kitchen, with but one narrow window which looked down upon a dismal and undecorative array of long back yards, which, sloping toward the alley, were divided by crazily leaning fences. The Detwilers' yard had kennels in it. The Detwilers were evidently going to have a party again. For a second she though rather wistfully of how many parties they had . . . she closed the window . . . for a moment she looked out to see nothing . . . she did like Mr. Deane in quite a new sort of way; she had never liked any one quite as she seemed to have to like Mr. Deane.

"Terry dear?" it was her mother calling. She turned from the window. "Just a moment," she answered. She'd take off her hat. It was a little tight and it made her head feel numb after so much wearing. She did hope—running fingers through her hair—that Mr. Treadway wouldn't be around too much. But perhaps he could help her to get work. She'd have to have that—and quite a bit of it, soon. Things—everything—cost so! Butter, especially.

He rose as she entered and she realized he had been watching the doorway. It made her feel oddly uncomfortable. And why was her mother smiling a smile?

"Sorry," he said, "that we've had such a gloomy stretch of days. They must have been depressing for you—"

"Well, I haven't thought much of the weather. I've been quite busy—you see, settling—"

"I see—" he agreed; he looked around the room and quickly he averted his eyes. There was too many small proofs of her trying to make the place "half decent"; these smote Billy sharply. He thought, "Bless you! You poor little thing!" He leaned toward her.

"And now—" [she was speaking intensely] "I must get work and Mr. Treadway, if you know any one who wants typing, will you recommend me?"

"Of course!" he assured her, and suddenly she thawed a little toward him; he was very gentle. "In fact," he added in his manner, so sprightly as to scratch thin skins—"In fact, I have some for you myself!"

He wondered what the devil he could scare up to have her type? Maybe Aunt Letty's letters from Palestine. That would please the old lady, too. When Theresa was eager—pleased—she was simply "a damnably pretty child." She would be a riot at the club with those who could forget old tales. Anyway, he'd take her, and taking her he would see that she didn't notice anything strange in any manner.

"You say you have work?" she had asked almost breathlessly.

"Yes" (for a short second he turned to Elsie Colt), "Aunt Letty's letters from Palestine; you remember she spent a winter at the Lutheran mission—somewhere in Palestine?—I forgot—where—"

"What a treat for you, darling!" Elsie said warmly. He winked at Theresa, who liked him more for the insight.

"Don't you blame me if you learn anything you're too young to know!" he warned.

"I won't!" she promised. Then—Elsie Colt spoke wistfully of old days, and the twilight thickened, he looked at Theresa; by far the most charmingly pretty girl he had ever seen, he decided, and in a fine, rare gentle way. He remembered having heard that Colt had educated her and that she'd gone to work at fifteen and before that had taken care of children for mothers who wanted an afternoon's or evening's freedom. It sounded pretty dull . . . she looked honest too; she wouldn't have the respite from sordid reality that would be her mother's through petty lies.

As Elsie was speaking of the way every one seemed to drop into the old home for tea [Billy did not remember it] some one tapped on the door. Theresa opened it, to say, "O, Katie;" and warmly. Then he heard a harsh low voice. "It's a cana sardines," said Katie, "I don't need 'em. I don't know why I got 'em. I never did favor 'em. You can have 'em and welcome."

"It's very kind of you, Katie!" she said.

"It ain't nothin'. I ain't one for sardines. I don't know why I got 'em. I taste 'em hours after I et 'em. They come back on me! Just you eat 'em and welcome. And don't thank me!"

"But it is so kind of you, Katie. And I'm very grateful!"

"O, it ain't nothing!" Katie flung back from the foot of the third floor stairs. "I'd rather leave you have 'em than see 'em set and rot—"

Theresa closed the door.

"You'd best throw them out, Pet," said Elsie Colt.

Theresa looked down at the can. "But they're perfectly good," she stated naively. "She lives upstairs," Theresa added to Billy, "and she's very kind—"

"O, yes; a very good, well meaning soul!" Elsie admitted patronizingly. "But the bounty of such, as you can understand, William, not always easy to accept!"

He saw Theresa flush and her lovely eyes grow hostile—hurt! "You poor little kid—" he thought. He remembered that Colt had been an honest sort of weakling. Perhaps the girl and her step-father had been closer than could ever be the girl and her mother.

"I remember Barrington Colt very well," he said, "and pleasantly. I was genuinely sorry to hear of his death."

Elsie's eyes remained dry. But he saw Theresa's eyes brim to know that his guess had been right. She looked down quickly and at a plait she was setting—with nervous, unsteady fingers—in her handkerchief; her teeth were set on her lower lip. He saw her draw a deep breath. Then—eyes still moist —she flashed him a look of gratitude and an unsteady smile. "There never was a kinder, dearer man—than my father—" she said.

"Poor Arnold Ames," Billy thought, "with a half-wit son and a fool for a wife, and this—out of reach."

"His friends know all that you say," he replied answering Theresa's comment on Barrington Colt.

It was that statement of his that made her follow him to the door, where she stood looking up at him hungrily . . . So few people ever said anything kind of the man she called her father. And he had been so wonderful . . . more so than any one would know who hadn't had a listening post within the family trio. He had never been able to hold a position long; always the story followed them to make some meddler force an authority to say or write the fact that Mr. Colt's services would not be needed in the English department after the end of the semester. And Elsie had whined over this, the growing poverty, and the constant moving. And he had never flung the truth at her. Theresa knew the truth and too much of it; and everything of his patience, his disillusionment and the fact that he had felt her mother must be "rescued"—not realizing that adults cannot be rescued from thoughts indulged so long that they have become habit.

She was grateful, was Theresa, to Mr. Treadway.

"Will you come again?" she asked humbly.

He took her hands in his. "Are you trying to be witty, child?" he questioned. Suddenly the veins on his tall forehead thickened and he flushed. He mustn't let himself get foolish about the child, he realized. He was at least thirty years older than she—it didn't seem quite decent to let himself, though her, feel such renaissance of youth.

"I hope you will come!" she said.

"You may revise that hope," he answered, "though I hope you won't; I'll try not to bother you. . . . I'll drop in tomorrow with Aunt Letty's letters—that is, if you're ready to start."

Here's the Way Children Aid City's Unlucky

Three Letters Telling the Charity Fund's Story.

Two types of letters spilled out yesterday from the Camp Algonquin-Free Ice Fund mail bag, as frequently happens. One was sad and some were glad, and just to give the public a peek at what goes on behind the scenes, or at least behind the printed page, we reprint a trio of them today and let them tell their own stories. One reads:

"Dear Sirs: Would you please be so kind and send me some ice, because I can not afford it. I have nine small children and not one is working, the oldest one is 14 years old. The baby is only six months old. My man is working himself, there is eleven in the family. Would you Please be so kind and send me some ice. Your Truly, Mrs. Mary S——."

Two others tell the tale of where the ice comes from for the nine children of Mrs. S——, and who helps to send undernourished children out to spend a summer at Camp Algonquin, to grow strong and healthy.

"Cashier Tribune: Enclosed is check for $17.30, being the sum realized by the third annual circus held June 27 in a garden in La Grange. There was only one ring, but the acts were put on very smartly. The clown was especially clever. Simple Simon and the peanut-eating rat came in for much applause. The tight rope walker and the daring youth who, with his 'heart in his mouth,' leaped from the top of a ladder, divided honors. Last but not least the tall woman, eight feet high was an object of interest. Music was provided by the 'Prickly Heat Trio.'

"Performers were George and David Wrisley, John Hand, Jack Paterson, Jack and Bob Robinson, Claribel and Mary Lillian Goodwin, and John and Gilby Mehagan Jr. Very truly, M. L. G."

And the last:

"To to Fund: Enclosed find $11.73 which was made by a group of willing children who staged a three act play, 'Over the Hills and Far Aaway,' under the supervision of Miriam Rubin and Maxine Polachek. The play was held Friday evening, June 20, at 4719 Drexel boulevard. Refreshments donated by the actors and actresses helped to swell the fund. Our young friends spent weeks of labor on the show.

"Enclosed you will also find a check for $8.37, earned by the Baby Helpers, an organization of young girls. Respectfully yours, Miriam Rubin and Maxine Polachek."

Methodist Church, Mexico, New, Free Organization

MEXICO CITY, July 9.—(AP)—The Methodist church of Mexico, an institution which is to be independent of the Methodist Episcopal church of the United States, has been formed here, it was announced today.

Dr. R. E. Diffendorfer, secretary of the board of foreign missions of the Methodist Episcopal church, announced that a Mexican bishop would be elected head of the newly formed church. Election will take place at the first general conference of the denomination, Sept. 16.

"The formation of the Mexican church means a new era in Protestantism in Mexico," Dr. Diffendorfer asserted.

Queena Mario Praised for Singing Mimi in Ravinia's 'La Boheme'

BY EDWARD MOORE.

After last night's performance of "La Boheme," at Ravinia, it seems advisable not to say mandatory, to record the names of two more artists in addition to those whom Ravinia patrons will be talking about this summer.

One is Queena Mario. She is the wife of Conductor Wilfrid Pelletier. Occasionally she makes an operatic appearance. Her Mimi last night revealed the fact that she has a voice of uncommon beauty and an idea that her voice is for the purpose of expressive singing as well as charming singing. Her performance was lovely. It also had distinct characterization and personality. As every soprano in the world sings Mimi, it counts a great deal that Miss Mario was able to make her performance so completely distinctive.

Several times earlier this season there has been reason to believe that Armand Tokatyan had joined the notables. His Rodolfo last night confirmed it, because it was a first class performance. At the end of his first act aria the applause was the greatest of the season. He continued to give further cause for applause throughout the opera.

A number of times during past years there has been reason to dwell on the merits of Ravinia's "La Boheme" in other aspects. The reason continues. Margery Maxwell's Musetta is something superb, one of the two best I ever have witnessed. Valiant assistance was given by Mario Basiola as Marcello and Desire Defrere as Schaunard, and there was a performance of Colline approaching the stellar by Virgilio Lazzari, who not only possesses one of the most magnificent bass voices of this generation, but shares with Mr. Tokatyan the golfing championship of the Ravinia company.

It was inferred last night that Mr. Defrere's favorite exercise is mountain climbing, at least, failing mountains he climbed on nearly ever chair in sight.

Gennaro Papi on the conductor's stand was once again the brilliant master of the baton, creating a symphonic poem out of the score.

To Reimburse City.

A resolution to reimburse the city for all expenses incurred by the bureau of dental hygiene in treating school children was unanimously passed by the board of education yesterday. An expenditure of $40,000 a year is needed for the work, members of the board were told, and the city will be unable to continue the work unless reimbursed by the board of education.

What do you think of the latest feminine fashion, beach pajamas?

The Answers.

Miss Anne Nolan, 1121 North Hamlin avenue, home girl.—I think they are appropriate, especially becoming to the athletic type of girls. They also serve to keep one from getting too sunburned if a girl desires to spend some time on the sand.

Frank Dunn, 1346 West Austin street, baker—If neat and worn for that purpose only they certainly are attractive, but I don't like to see girls in them running up and down the streets unless they also have kimonos. I noticed a few pajamas at the beach today. In most cases they were very attractive, more becoming than the duck pants they have been wearing.

Miss Camille Buolo, 1914 Winona avenue, timekeeper.—The greatest improvement in beach fashion since the days of the old fashioned bathing suits. The pyjamas are very modernistic, help make the girls very attractive, serve to hide the ugly bathing suits when girls are lounging on the beach. They say this style was created in Paris, but I saw them worn in California long before beach pyjamas were announced as a new fashion.

John Devitt, 2136 Flournoy street, inspector.—They are in keeping with the modern fashions, but I believe the old fashioned bathing suits and bathrobes will serve as well. It is disgusting to see the large number of girls who, in bathing suits and pyjamas, parade down the streets just for show, maybe to attract some boys. Before long we will see them bathing as they did in the days of Adam and Eve.

Miss Marion Wiberal, 928 North Monticello avenue, student.—The modern girls, especially the flapper type, have always dressed in the most attractive way. Beach pyjamas are just another step. They certainly are better than the other types of beach lounging outfits. Almost any girl will be much more attractive in the pyjamas.

Famous Renaissance Art Collection Bought for American Display

New York, July 9.—[Special.]—A treasure of Italian renaissance art is coming to this country as a result of the purchase by Duveen brothers of the Gustave Dreyfus collection of Paris. The collection has been valued at about $5,000,000.

The Dreyfus collection has been written about, especially by the late Dr. Wilhelm von Bode of Berlin. Chief among the sculptors represented in the collection are Desiderio Da Settignano, Francesco Leurana, Verrochio, Mino Da Fiesole, Rosselline, and Andrea Della Robia.

Among the painters represented are Francesco Cossa, Ghirlandajo, Fra Filippo Lippi, Filippino Lippi, Giovanni Bollini, and Veroccio. Among the bronze founders are Donatello, Desiderio, Bertolde, Ballano, and Andrea Riccio of Padua.

Gustave Dreyfus, who founded the collection, was born in 1837. At the age of 34, in the aftermath of the Franco-Prussian war, he formed the nucleus of the collection by acquiring the most important pieces of the then famous collection of Charles Timbal.

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, July 9.—The Dreyfus collection is kept in a special salon on the Boulevard Maiesnerbes. Carle Dreyfus, son of the late Gustave Dreyfus, is one of the conservators of the Louvre museum.

Medals and plaques in the collection are considered to be the most beautiful and complete in the world. This includes examples from the hands of Pisanello, Nicolo, Spinelli, Sperandio, Caradosso and Pastorino.

A terra cotta bust ascribed by famouse art critics to Leonardo Da Vinci is of the beautiful Giovanna Ternabuoni. This is the same Giovanna whom Ghirlandajo painted and which Duveen sold to J. P. Morgan several years ago.

There he will present a copy to the President tomorrow. William will be accompanied on the trip by his younger brother, Charles, and their parents. En route back to New Milford, the group will stop off at New York City. The second hand press on which the book was printed will be exhibited and William will broadcast over station WEAF Saturday.

HEIRESS WEDS

MRS. J. R. ROBINSON.

Yankee Girl Married in London, Travels in Louis XVI. Auto

LONDON, July 9.—(AP)—Wedding fans had one of the biggest thrills in years today when Maysie Gasque, 20 year old American heiress, daughter of the late Clarence W. Gasque, director of Woolworth's in England, became the bride of John Roland Robinson, a British barrister, at fashionable St. Margaret's church.

The thousands who thronged the church experienced difficulty in seeing the bride. Accordingly, after the bridal party had signed the register and proceeded toward the center door, almost the whole congregation stood on the seats of the pews to obtain a better view.

A motor car, the interior furnished in the style of a Louis XVI. drawing room, with easy chairs and table, is to carry the newlyweds over the continent.

The baggage, sent in advance of the couple to Paris, was all labeled with large red hearts, and the legend, "Jack and Maysie," in large letters.

The bridal attendants came from five different countries: The United States, England, Italy, Germany, and Russia. There were more than a thousand guests.

20 MILLIONS SOUGHT BY ELKS AS BASIS FOR THEIR CHARITIES

Atlantic City, N. J., July 9.—(AP)—Establishment of a $20,000,000 fund for the promotion of welfare activities was recommended to the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks in the report of the Elks' foundation made today at the annual meeting of the Grand lodge.

According to the foundation's plans, only the interest from the permanent fund would be used to "foster, promote, and assist in financing the welfare activities of the order."

The report, submitted by John F. Malley of Springfield, Mass., past grand exalted ruler, said the fund will be raised voluntarily without any direct or indirect levies.

"The income of the foundation, which is available for distribution annually, will be apportioned in an equitable manner by the foundation trustees, with a view to advancing the philanthropic endeavors of the order in every section of the United States and its possessions," the report said.

Exercises in dedication of the new swimming pool in Cermak park in the forest preserves at Lyons were held last night with President Cermak of the county board and Gen. Doctor Defends Hospitals That Physicians Rap Censures Medical Assn. for Resolutions.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Physicians and hospitals have "gone to the mat" on problems of hospital administration. Dr. S. S. Goldwater of New York, formerly city health commissioner and municipal expert on the construction and administration of hospitals, takes up the cudgels in behalf of the institutions. He has an article in the forthcoming August number of the Modern Hospital.

Dr. Goldwater bases his contribution on a series of resolutions adopted at the recent Detroit convention of the American Medical association, dealing with the economic relations between the physicians and hospitals.

His interpretation of the four points involved places the doctors in the position of advocating the cessation of all voluntary medical service in public institutions, i. e., medical care of charity patients; of denying the right of hospital officials to assign cases to the staff members; of denouncing the institution which, while supported by the public or community, levies fees for medical service; and of urging a strike or boycott of hospitals by themselves and their patients when they do not conform to these principles.

"That the American Medical association means business, in every sense of the word, is implied by a series of resolutions," Dr. Goldwater begins, "adopted at the Detroit convention of the association on June 24. The resolutions are unmistakably militant in tone and create the impression that aggressive action by the medical profession is necessary in order to prevent the unjust exploitation of physicians by both public and private hospitals.

"Of the declarations, the first three deal with basic principles, the acceptance of which is demanded by the association as of right. The fourth declaration advises members of the association to strike against any hospital that refuses to accept and apply the stated principles.

"One wonders whether the actual conditions of medical employment in many or any hospitals are such as to justify a staff strike. But perhaps the A. M. A. merely feels that hospital officials are displaying questionable zeal in their efforts to expand their activities, and that it is prudent to call a halt now to forestall abuses of which physicians would be the chief victims."

"Can any hospital survive as an orderly, efficient institution, in which each physician chooses his patients individually? Surely the A. M. A. cannot intend to sponsor a doctrine which would put an end to all orderly hospital procedure. What it means, I take it, is that rules governing admission of patients to free wards must not be made by lay boards without medical consent. Coming from so responsible an organization, this is a challenge the hospitals must meet."

He then weighs the advisability of hospital boards either with both lay and professional members, or entirely of lay members, and argues in favor of the efficiency and business sense of the latter.

"To thrust administrative responsibilities upon men who are immersed in the study and practice of medicine," he asserts, "is to invite confusion and disaster."

Of the suggestion that "medical attendance should be paid for by taxation," as one resolution demands, Dr. Goldwater states that "the Detroit resolutions sound a commercial note that seems almost too sordid to be accepted as a true reflection of professional sentiment."

Watch Sally's Story Sunday for List of the Winning Fans

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Keep your fingers crossed, young baseball fans, while I read your letters and decide who will be in that hundred to see the White Sox-Athletic game with me at Comiskey park, a week from today.

Haven't the Sox been playing what might be called superb ball! Let's hope they'll put on as good a show when we gather at Comiskey park on July 17. Remember, our White Sox will play the Philadelphia Athletics on that day. The Philadelphians are the world's champions so it will surely be an interesting game. Those of you who are selected to be my guests at this grand party will find your names in Sunday's TRIBUNE. Be sure to see it, and watch for news of our next good time.

Now, all aboard for the South Pole, Roosevelt winners! Are you in condition for a few hours of thrills, excitement and glorious entertainment? That's exactly what we're going to have when we see "With Byrd at the South Pole" today. Are you anxious to get started? So am I. So—all aboard!

Martin Insulls' Estate Drama to Help Church

BY THALIA

Society women apparently don't believe laziness even during the torrid days of summertime. Their activities are carried on less strenuously than in the winter, but meetings, balls and philanthropic work of various kinds go on just the same.

The Martin J. Insulls' trim little summer house, "Orchard House," on their estate in Highland Park, has been a center of activity for several months now in preparation for the tea and garden bazaar to be given there next Wednesday afternoon.

Proceeds are to go for the first unit of the Trinity Episcopal church's new pipe organ. Mrs. George A. Mason and Mrs. Joseph B. Card are to preside over the foreign shop, where articles collected by them on their recent world tour will be displayed. Mrs. Marshall E. Sampsell is to have charge of the flower shop, where pottery, baskets, and garden novelties will be shown.

The committee that is working assiduously for the affair includes also Mrs. Insull, Mrs. William H. Barker, Mrs. William S. Forrest, Mrs. Frank J. Gardner, Mrs. Eugene E. Andrews, Mrs. Christoph Keller, Mrs. James L. Houghteling, Mrs. John F. Mackenzie, Mrs. Harry A. Parkin, Mrs. Edward A. Shedd, Mrs. Robert E. Wood, and Mrs. Edward Van Schaick. Mrs. Harlan B. Mitchell, Mrs. Page Thibodeaux, Mrs. J. K. O'Hara, and Mrs. Robert R. Manley are to pour.

The women in the summer colony at Delavan lake have been working on the arrangements for the flower show to take place tomorrow at the summer place of Mrs. Edward Tilden under the auspices of the Delavan Lake Garden club. Mrs. Joseph W. Moulding, president of the club, is in charge, and Mrs. Charles G. Stevens is chairman of the committee on arrangements. This show is to be devoted to a competition of perfect specimens of July flowers and is to be attractively set out on the lovely porches of the Tilden place. A second show for arrangements of flowers is to be held at the Delavan Country club some time in late August.

Mrs. Paul Walker, who played her first 18 holes of golf this week after enforced rest due to an injured ankle, nevertheless has been busy carrying on her work as president of the Women's Western Golf association, having to the arrangements for a succession of tournaments, to conclude with a 4 day medal play derby at the Glenview Golf club on Sept. 23. She tells me that the directors of the Glendee Country club, an organization of women that was organized two years go, met at Barrington on Tuesday to consider a site for the club, but no final decision was made. Mrs. Charles A. Klotz is president, Mrs. Walter B. Wolf vice president, and Mrs. Walker treasurer. Mrs. Klotz, Mrs. John Douglas, Mrs. W. W. Wilson and Mrs. Cyril Mertens were among the board members present at the Tuesday luncheon meeting at the Barrington Hills Country club.

A number of Chicagoans vacationing in the vicinity of Boston will be present at the wedding there this afternoon of Miss Jean Purcell, daughter of the Joseph D. Purcells of 1320 North State street, to John Valentine, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Valentine of 1322 Ritchie court. The Rev. Norman Hutton will read the ceremony at 4 o'clock at the Lindsey Memorial church and a reception will follow at the Somerset hotel.

Mrs. Robert S. Pirie [Betty Borden] will be Miss Purcell's only attendant and William King of Milton, Mass., will be best man for the groom. The ushers will be Arthur McGeogh of New York, Stephen Dana of Cleveland, Thomas Kernan of Albany and Charles Mason of Boston.

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Thomason, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Miss Crane wore an aquamarine organdy frock with a full skirt and long, fitted bodice. She carried a bouquet of white delphinium and pink rosebuds. The bridesmaids were similarly gowned in pink organdy and carried pink rosebuds.

Women Demand Merit Alone as the Basis of Civil Service Jobs

A protest against basing civil service appointments on anything other than qualifications, regardless of sex, was made by the board of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs in the Congress hotel yesterday. In a final session the conference went on record as opposed to such discrimination against women.

For the purpose of establishing a national headquarters in Washington members of the federation will be asked to raise $100,000 by voluntary contributions during the next year, Miss Ada M. Lorry of Lancaster, Pa., is chairman of the fund.

Speedy ratification of the London naval treaty by the senate was asked in a resolution adopted by the directors, it was announced yesterday.

Members of the first good-will tour of the association this summer will leave for Montreal this morning on their way to Russia, Scandinavian countries and central Europe. They were entertained at tea yesterday at the Chicago Woman's club.

Symbolizing the birth of the International Business and Professional Women's federation this summer at Geneva, Switzerland, an international pageant will be held this evening on the lagoon at Marquette park with the Gary, Ind., league as hostess. Led by an Indian canoe, floats representing twenty nations will participate.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

J. M.: THERE IS NO SPECIFIC diet for the teeth except to include some foods that require vigorous chewing. A diet that keeps your whole body in good condition is necessary to keep the teeth in good condition. Visit your dentist at least every six months for a thorough cleaning.

8 AMERICAN WOMEN WILL SALUTE QUEEN, MAY SEE THE KING

LONDON, July 9.—(AP)—Eight American women are among those who will be presented at the last royal court of the London season tomorrow night. It still was unknown tonight whether King George would be allowed to take his place beside the queen in the throne room. Rheumatism, which caused the cancellation of his presence at last month's court, perhaps will keep him away again.

The Americans who will be presented tomorrow night are:

Miss Lee Washington of Washington, D. C.
Miss Justine Townsend of New York.
Miss Elizabeth Wurts of Philadelphia.
Mrs. Roy Baker of Washington, D.C.
Mrs. Nathaniel Davis of Princeton, N. J.
Mrs. Samuel Meek of New York.
Mrs. B. B. Moon of Indianapolis.
Mrs. W. K. Botsford of New York.

Wisconsin Governor Here Tomorrow to Help World's Fair

Gov. Walter Kohler of Wisconsin will arrive in Chicago tomorrow to confer with officials of the 1933 World's Fair organization in regard to Wisconsin's participation. He will be accompanied by the advisory committee he appointed to arrange the state exhibit. The delegation will be the guests of World's Fair officials at luncheon, and then will make a tour of the lake front fair site.

The contract for the construction of the second building for the World's Fair, which will contain the travel and transport exhibits, was awarded yesterday to the John Griffiths & Son company at a meeting in the office of Rufus C. Dawes, president of the fair organization.

Construction of the building, to cost approximately $1,000,000, will be started within a few days and will be completed in six months.

Film Making War Comic Offends German Censors

BERLIN, July 9.—(AP)—The national board for film censorship will not permit the motion picture entitled "Micky Mouse in the Trenches" to be shown in Germany. The censors hold that the wearing of German helmets by an army of cats which opposes a militia of mice is certain to be "offensive to national dignity," whether intended or not.

Food Talk.

Customs die, but it is difficult to imagine a time when the cold beverage will not figure in every summer time menu.

The kind of beverage that one should serve, of course, depends upon the time and place. If it is only intended to refresh or to be served with meals, then it should be a light simple drink. If it is meant to nourish as well as refresh then it may be made rich with milk, eggs, chocolate or cocoa. Whether the drink is a rich milk concoction or a simple fruit combination the first law of serving is that it must be cold. And this means a previous thorough chilling in the refrigerator and the use of enough ice in the serving glasses.

In this day with the modern ice box this is not a problem. The refrigerator in the summer time may well supply a number of staples for the quick making of delicious summer drinks. If they are always on tap they are an incentive for each member of the family to amuse himself with different pleasant experimentations.

Given a little knowledge, an interest in combining flavors and a gift for knowing what pleases, an infinite variety can be evolved. The making of beverages should be an adventure; the risks are small.

Some of the most important things to keep in stock are bottled fruit juices, ginger ale and any other preferred carbonated beverage, milk—bottled and evaporated—chocolate, cocoa and maple sirup. Some oranges and lemons always add juice that peps up any fruit drink.

When guests are expected, ice cubes may be tinted with fruit coloring or a berry, cherry or mint leaf may be added before freezing.

Recipes Given Below Are Mentioned in Tomorrow's Menu

PINEAPPLE PUNCH.

2 cups water
½ cup grape juice
1½ cups pineapple juice
Juice of 1 orange
Juice of 2 lemons

Boil the sugar with one cup of water for about three minutes. Cool. Add the juices to the sirup. Pour over cracked ice. Add the other cup of water. Garnish with thin wedges of pineapple and half slices of orange and lemon. Or the water may be poured into the juices before the ice is added and chilled in the refrigerator. When ready to serve, the punch can be poured over cracked ice.

Yield: 6 servings. One serving: Total, 177 calories; protein, 1 calorie; fat, 3 calories; carbohydrates, 173 calories.

Precautions: If this drink is to be served immediately it may be poured over the cracked ice, but when kept for a while this way the ice will melt and dilute the punch, resulting in a project with a flat taste.

When served as soon as concocted the grape flavor seems to predominate. On standing the pineapple flavor will overshadow it. The addition of more lemon juice will cut the grape flavor if that is desired.

A clear punch will be obtained if the pineapple juice is poured carefully, the grape juice not shaken before pouring so that the sediment will remain at the bottom of the bottle, and if the orange and lemon juices are strained.

CHERRY SAUCE.

1 tablespoon corn starch
½ cup water
½ cup cherry juice
2 tablespoons butter
¾ cup cherries

Combine the sugar and cornstarch, mixing until well blended. Add water, then the cherry juice and butter. Cook twenty minutes, stirring occasionally to keep smooth. Remove from stove and add cherries.

Yield: 1 cup or 6 servings. One serving: Total 80 calories; protein, 1 calorie; fat, 34 calories; carbohydrates, 45 calories.

Precautions: There are a few things to keep in mind in the making of an excellent cherry sauce for the pudding. In the first place, we combine the cornstarch with the sugar to secure a separation of each starch granule. If this mixing is not done carefully, the starch will form lumps, the outside of which will cook and hold in a little mass of uncooked starch. The sauce to be smooth and thick enough must have all these granules separated. Lumpy sauce will never result if the sugar and cornstarch are thoroughly combined.

Cook the sauce to the desired thickness. It should not be thin and runny nor stiff and hard. The consistency of a medium thick white sauce is about right. Cut the cherries into pieces and add. When whole pitted cherries are added they do not absorb much of the sugar of the sauce and hence are tart, while the sauce is sweet, giving an unpleasant combination.

Summer Offers You Opportunity to Be Especially Dainty

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

If ever a summer season unfolded itself with opportunity to make oneself exquisitely lovely, it is this one summer of 1930. Were there ever more ravishing colors in dress, shapes in hats—and shoes, were they ever more fascinating?

Maybe every summer has seemed the best—but I vote on this particular one because it has the gorgeously feminine touch to everything milady may don from beach attire to formal evening things. It's woman's big year—and beauty's. As a funny old character used to say to his granddaughter: "Annie, if ye don't get married this year, ye never will, for that dress will be worn out next!"

There being no sech thing as one hundred per cent perfection in this otherwise gay old world of ours, summer, with all its benefits, does carry on its wings certain elements that may be frightfully disconcerting to the charm score of our best turned out. Especially this year's charm score, which must bat a straight one hundred on daintiness!

Even the most fastidious of bathers may experience days when a slight odor emanates from her person. The hot weather calls for more than daily or twice daily tubbing. It exacts a constant guard against the possibility of the slightest odor. So, the precaution of using a good dusting powder as a deodorizing service is advised. There are good powders on the market, prepared especially to protect women against self-conscious fears.

Certain parts of the body, as in the armpits, through the sensitive pore surface are prone to give offense, slight or great, as the individual case may be. For these there are the dusting powders, frequent bathing of the affected parts, and in addition there are excellent astringents to be adopted. They take but a minute to apply and the assurance they give you is worth the nominal expenditure. Since this summer is to be your banner one, one in which you have every opportunity of flouting your fine feminine graces, take advantage of the helps at command to raise you to the extreme height of daintiness.

GREEK-TURKISH "WAR" IS ENDED; AGREE ON TERMS

Anatolian Victims to Get Indemnity.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ISTANBUL, Turkey, July 9.—After six years of bickering and dispute Greece and Turkey have at last come to a settlement of one of the thorniest of Balkan problems—the liquidation of the Anatolian war of 1922, in which the Turks drove the Greeks out of Asia Minor.

The exchange of populations which followed that war—the Greeks in Turkey and the Turks in Greece were forced to return to their respective motherlands—did not include the Greeks in Istanbul or the Turks in western Thrace. For six years these populations, deprived of the most fundamental rights by both countries, have been on the point of provoking war between Greece and Turkey.

League Fails to Settle Row.

A mixed commission of Greeks, Turks and neutrals, set up by the league of nations, tried vainly for five years to effect a settlement between the two peoples. Now a direct agreement has been reached between Twefik Rushdi Bey, the Turkish minister of foreign affairs, and M. Polychroniades, the Greek minister in Ankara. The accord is expected to be passed by the Turkish grand national assembly and the Greek parliament before August.

Greece agrees to pay $2,125,000, of which $750,000 goes to the Greeks of Turkish nationality living in Istanbul who lost their properties in the interior of Turkey; $750,000 to the Greeks who left Turkey before and after the war with non-Turkish passports and who, forbidden to return, lost their properties in Turkey, $625,000 to the "nonexchangeable" Turks of western Thrace.

Turks' Property Seized.

These latter Turks are now Greek subjects and their properties supposedly were guaranteed by the treaty of Lausanne. But when the Greek refugees began pouring into the mother country from Asia Minor by the hundreds of thousands the Greek government in desperation seized most of the property of the Turkish population and divided it up among the refugees.

The Ottoman minority protested not only at Athens and Ankara but at Geneva, and for a time it seemed as if war would follow. The sum which Greece will now pay them, while falling far short of the value of the property seized, will probably keep them quiet at least for the time being.

Guarantee to Greeks.

Other terms of the agreement provide for the return of sequestrated properties in Istanbul to Greek subjects, guarantees to the Greeks in Istanbul of the right to live there without fear of expulsion, and stipulate an eventual valuation of the properties abandoned by the exchanged populations.

The final cementing of friendly relations between these peoples who have lived together in deadly feud for centuries is expected to come this fall, when the Greek premier, Venizelos, plans to visit Ankara to conclude a treaty of nonaggression and friendship between the two nations.

VANNUTELLI, 94, CARDINALS' DEAN, TAKEN BY DEATH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, July 9.—Vincenzo Cardinal Vannutelli, 94, dean of the sacred college, died this afternoon of a bladder disease after a short illness. Born at Gennazanno in 1836, Cardinal Vannutelli lived under six popes. He was created a cardinal in 1891 when the present pontiff was still only a young priest.

Cardinal Vannutelli was a member of Pope Pius IX.'s civil court as a layman, and was attached to the same court later when he became a prelate and while the popes reigned over Rome temporally.

He was papal nuncio to Portugal and papal delegate to Russia for the coronation of Alexander III. Since his return to the Roman curia he was one of its most influential members. He attended the conclaves for the elections of three popes—Pius X. in 1903, Benedict V. in 1914, and Pius XI. in 1922.

The venerable prelate held liberal political views, despite the fact that he lived through the years which saw the fall of temporal power, and he was noted for his sympathy with the régime of Mussolini.

Break the Day's Outing with Rest for the Youngsters

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

If you want to enjoy nature with your children write to Mrs. Bevans for a list of "Books on the Outdoor World," which will be sent on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Children will go until they drop. Their verve, their eagerness, their enthusiasm for play will carry them on until they reach the end of their rope. At least, this is true of most children. Therefore, those who are in charge of them must intervene.

In the ordinary course of the day at home a baby or a little child will have a nap or a rest. When the family goes off on a whole day's outing the baby is usually tucked up somewhere for a sleep. But the little child is not. He seems to be having such a good time—he protests so violently—that he's allowed to keep going every minute.

If you have a little girl or boy who is of the "live wire" type and before whom you weaken on a day's trip—harden your heart and insist on a resting time. After lunch is eaten, insist that they either sit quietly or lie down in a shaded place—a beach parasol or under a board walk at the shore, under a tree or near a stone wall in the country. They need the rest and they also need the cooling effect of quiet on a warm summer day.

You might tuck their favorite book into the picnic basket and bring it out and read to them for the first part of their rest time. The whole day will be more fun for them in the end—and for you—because nothing is more disturbing than a hot, tired child.

Here's a suggestion which may help you to work in the rest on an outing. The day before, when you're planning and talking about the trip, have a little talk with the younger children about being quiet or even sleeping some time during the day of fun. It has been my experience that preparing children's minds for things ahead of time in a quiet moment when they are alone with you, often does away with fussing and protesting when the time for action comes.

Now, you may say that your small children can go through a long day of journeying and picnicking without showing fatigue at all. But if you're an observing mother you'll notice that they'll show fatigue the next day.

Doris Tells Men to Improve Manners if They'd Be Popular

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Opinions on what a nice boy is may be of considerable use to the poor fellow who wonders why the other fellows have all the luck.

Marion's has a clause in hers relative to manners. And I note in my contact with young women that this thing of manners is growing more and more important, and in this there is more than a subtle hint to those young men who might be wiser on what is the proper thing to do and not to do.

The girls are right in demanding from young men a decent familiarity with the rules of etiquette. Any boys inclined to believe that manners are for the sissy members of their sex might read up on a few of the standard books on success and see what emphasis is laid on this important branch of learning. Or, they might observe how self-made men have conquered the disadvantages of a crude upbringing and try to realize that these men experience the need of such knowledge in their progress forward.

With girls it is a more crucial thing. First, because a girl wants above everything else to be proud of her man. She wants him to show up well before her friends. She wants people to envy her conquest, so to speak. And secondly, because backwardness in regard to the common courtesies at table, at meetings, or on any occasion, indicates a slow mental absorption of what an up to date young man needs.

A boy need not be handsome. He need not dress like the prince of Wales, nor even like his less sartorially advertised younger brother. He need not have much money—but if he is clever enough to observe good manners he will do. That is Marion's opinion. In addition to knowing how to introduce you properly, how to eat and how to talk, Marion suggests that girls could live without such crudities as starting off the evening with: "Let's get stormy!" and such cheap stuff.

When it comes to dancing, boys could learn much about dance floor etiquette, and also about dancing. A girl does not like to dance with a fellow who makes an exhibition of himself and her.

Paris Daytime Fashions Are Comfortably Smart.

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Paris daytime fashions are as comfortable as they are smart. In our progressive 1930 days, chic no longer spells torture and the old French motto: "Il faut souffrir pour être belle" [which freely translated means: Beauty is bought with pain], has become a back number. One of the most grateful of the innumerable aids to comfort launched by thoughtful Paris couturiers is the cool ensemble for summer mornings made of some thin semi-transparent material such as voile, dimity, or the various light crepes.

Georgette ensembles are a feature of Molyneux's summer mode. He makes them simple, almost tailored, and they will be seized upon with joy by American women who are obliged to be in town during torrid days of July and August.

The Molyneux ensemble sketched above is a model of the genre. It's of navy blue triple georgette with white dots. The one piece dress has the new box plaited tunic over a box plaited underskirt. The white organdy collar and cuffs edged with fine plaitings lend it a dainty freshness. White pearl buttons and a navy blue leather belt take trim care of the closing problem. The collarless jacket of dotted georgette, shown at the lower left hand corner of our sketch, borrows the lingerie cuffs and collar of the frock, for outdoor wear.

Hot Cake.

As I do not keep help, I prepare my lunches myself on club days, and have a maid to serve and take care of the kitchen work.

On one occasion, after everything had been served, I noticed my guests gulping down their coffee or water in rather a frantic fashion. I slipped to the kitchen to try to discover the reason, and you can imagine my humiliation when I found the maid had served the devils food cake with my horseradish relish instead of the whipped cream I had intended for the cake.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Wants Tricycle for Little Boy.

"My little boy will be having his fourth birthday soon and he is so anxious to have a tricycle, but I cannot afford to buy one for him. If one of your readers has one to give my son would be so happy to get it.

"MRS. H. B."

The pleasure your small son got out of his tricycle cannot compare with the joy this little fellow would experience if he were to fall heir to it now. If it has been outgrown, may he not have it for his birthday?

Offers Bed Lamp.

"I have a bed lamp which we no longer use and it is such a good light for reading, I should like to give it to some invalid. Do you know some one who can make use of it? MRS. C. P."

When one must spend most of the day in bed the principal and sometimes only diversion becomes reading. There would be less eye strain and more comfort if the sick bed were equipped with a reading lamp.
